Part 1

Preliminary provisions

2 Commencement

- (1) This Act comes into force on a date to be appointed by the Governor-General by Order in Council.
- (2) Despite subsection (1), if the date appointed under that subsection is prior to the commencement of section 4A of the Criminal Investigations (Bodily Samples) Act 1995, section 50 comes into force on that commencement.

Section 2(1): Criminal Procedure (Mentally Impaired Persons) Act 2003 brought into force, on 1 September 2004, by clause 2 of the Criminal Procedure (Mentally Impaired Persons) Act Commencement Order 2004 (SR 2004/147).

3 Purpose

The purpose of this Act is to restate the law formerly set out in Part 7 of the Criminal Justice Act 1985 and to make a number of changes to that law, including changes to—

- (a) provide the courts with appropriate options for the detention, assessment, and care of defendants and offenders with an intellectual disability;
- (b) provide that a defendant found unfit to stand trial for an offence must be the subject of an inquiry to determine whether the evidence against the defendant is sufficient to establish that the defendant caused the act or omission that forms the basis of the offence;
- (c) provide for a number of related matters.

Section 3(b): replaced, on 14 November 2018, by section 121 of the Courts Matters Act 2018 (2018 No 50).

 - (a) may not allow the appeal merely because the appellant ought to have been acquitted of the offence charged; and
 - (b) may direct that the other offence be substituted for the offence charged.
- (4) If, on such an appeal, the appellate court is satisfied that the finding of insanity ought not to stand, and is satisfied that, in the absence of such a finding, the proper verdict or decision would have been that the appellant was guilty of an offence (whether of the offence charged or any other offence of which the appellant could have been found guilty at the trial), the appellate court—
 - (a) must substitute for the verdict or decision given a verdict of guilty of the offence or a conviction for the offence; and
