Subpart 1—Service in Australia of initiating documents for civil proceedings commenced in New Zealand courts and tribunals

11 Guide to this subpart

- (1) This subpart is about serving defendants in Australia with initiating documents for certain civil proceedings in New Zealand courts or tribunals.

- (2) This subpart allows defendants to be served with the initiating document in Australia and provides for how that service must be done.
- (3) Defendants must be given certain information when served with the initiating document. The New Zealand court or tribunal may set aside the proceeding or any step taken in it if defendants are not given that information.
- (4) Defendants must file an appearance or response document in the New Zealand court or tribunal within a particular period after being served with the initiating document in Australia. In the appearance or response document defendants must state an address for service in New Zealand or Australia for the proceeding.

12 Application of this subpart

- (1) This subpart applies to a civil proceeding commenced after the commencement of this subpart, or a civil proceeding commenced before that commencement but only if, and insofar as, the initiating documents for the proceeding have not been served before that commencement, and that is—
  - (a) a civil proceeding commenced in a New Zealand court; or
  - (b) a civil proceeding commenced in a New Zealand tribunal, but only if—
    - (i) the tribunal's procedural rules permit an initiating document relating to the proceeding to be served outside New Zealand; and
    - (ii) the tribunal is declared by an order under subsection (3)(a) to be a tribunal to which this subpart applies.
- (2) However, this subpart does not apply to—
  - (a) a civil proceeding that relates wholly or partly to an excluded matter; or
  - (b) a civil proceeding that relates wholly or partly to an action in rem; or
  - (c) a civil proceeding in a New Zealand tribunal declared by an order under subsection (3)(b) to be a proceeding to which this subpart does not apply.
- (3) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council,—
  - (a) declare a New Zealand tribunal to be a tribunal to which this subpart applies;
  - (b) declare a civil proceeding in a New Zealand tribunal to be a proceeding to which this subpart does not apply.
- (4) An order under subsection (3)(a) must not declare a tribunal to be one to which this subpart applies unless, when the order is made, the tribunal is prescribed for the purposes of section 66(1)(b)(i) (which relates to enforcement in Australia of New Zealand judgments) of the Australian Act.

Compare: 1908 No 89 Schedule 2 r 25.8(4), (5)

13 Service of initiating documents in Australia

- (1) An initiating document for the proceeding may be served in Australia under this subpart.
- (2) However, the initiating document must be served in Australia in the same way that the document is required or permitted, under the procedural rules of the New Zealand court or tribunal, to be served in New Zealand.
- (3) By way of explanation, it is not necessary for the New Zealand court or tribunal—
  - (a) to give leave to serve the initiating document in Australia; or
  - (b) to be satisfied that there is a connection between the proceeding and New Zealand.

Compare: 1908 No 89 Schedule 2 rr 6.27, 6.28

14 Effect of service under section 13

Service in Australia under section 13 of an initiating document has the same effect (for example, it gives rise to the same proceeding, or status as a party to a proceeding) as if the initiating document had been served in New Zealand.

15 Information for defendant that must be in or with documents served under section 13

- (1) An initiating document served in Australia under section 13 must contain or be accompanied by the prescribed information for the defendant.
- (2) The prescribed information for the defendant must be or include general information about—
  - (a) steps that the defendant must or may take in relation to the proceeding; and
  - (b) consequences of the document being served on the defendant in Australia under section 13.
- (3) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council, make regulations prescribing information for the defendant for the purposes of, and under, this section.

16 Consequences of failing to provide information

- (1) Failure to comply with section 15(1) does not invalidate—
  - (a) the proceeding; or
  - (b) any step taken in, or in respect of, the proceeding.
- (2) However, the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal may, on an application by the defendant under subsection (3), make an order setting aside (wholly or in part, and on any terms as to costs or otherwise that it considers appropriate)—
  - (a) the proceeding; or

- (b) any step taken in, or in respect of, the proceeding.
- (3) The defendant's application can only be made—
  - (a) within a reasonable time after the defendant becomes aware of the failure; and
  - (b) before the defendant has taken any fresh step after the defendant becomes aware of the failure.

Compare: 1908 No 89 Schedule 2 r 1.5

17 Time for filing appearance or response document

- (1) A defendant who is served with an initiating document in Australia under section 13 and who wishes to file an appearance or response document must do so—
  - (a) within the period (the default period) that is the longer of the following periods:
    - (i) 30 working days of the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal after the day on which the initiating document was served on the defendant;
    - (ii) the period within which the procedural rules of the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal would have required or permitted the defendant to file an appearance or response document if the initiating document had been served in New Zealand; or
  - (b) if, before or after the end of the default period, the plaintiff or defendant applies to the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal for a shorter or longer period—within any shorter or longer period the court or tribunal considers appropriate.
- (2) Appearance or response document means a document that—
  - (a) a defendant who has been served under section 13 with an initiating document files in the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal in response to the initiating document; and
  - (b) states an address for service in New Zealand or Australia; and
  - (c) either—
    - (i) complies with all requirements (other than requirements that are overridden by the time for filing and addresses for service permitted by this section) with which the document must comply under the procedural rules of the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal; or
    - (ii) the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal determines to be acceptable despite any non-compliance with such requirements.

18 Defendant's address for service

- (1) The address for service stated by the defendant in the appearance or response document for a proceeding is to be treated as the defendant's address for service for the proceeding.
- (2) That address may be changed, to an address in New Zealand or Australia, under the procedural rules of the commencement New Zealand court or tribunal.

19 Defendant may appear remotely in hearing of application for stay

- (1) This section applies to a defendant who—
  - (a) was served, or purportedly served, in Australia under section 13 with an initiating document for a proceeding; and

- (2) Under section 23(4) the defendant, the defendant's counsel, or both may, despite section 38 (but subject to the rest of subpart 4), appear remotely in the hearing by the New Zealand court of the application for a stay of the proceeding if—
  - (a) the defendant makes to the court under section 23(4)(c) a request to appear remotely in the hearing; and
  - (b) a remote appearance medium is, or can reasonably be made, available.
- (3) This section is by way of explanation only. It does not affect section 23(4).

20 Security for costs

- (1) A commencement New Zealand court or tribunal that considers it appropriate in all the circumstances to do so may, on an application by a defendant served, or purportedly served, under section 13, order the giving of security for costs.

  - (a) requires the plaintiff or plaintiffs against whom the order is made to give security for costs as directed for a sum that the New Zealand court or tribunal considers sufficient—
    - (i) by paying that sum into the New Zealand court's or tribunal's registry; or
    - (ii) by giving, to the satisfaction of the New Zealand court or tribunal or the Registrar, security for that sum; and
  - (b) may stay the proceeding until the sum is paid or the security is given.
- (3) The New Zealand court or tribunal may make an order under subsection (1) even if the defendant has taken a step in the proceeding before applying for security.

Subpart 2—New Zealand courts declining jurisdiction on grounds that Australian court is more appropriate forum

21 Guide to this subpart

- (1) This subpart is about when a New Zealand court may stay a proceeding on the grounds that an Australian court is the more appropriate court to determine the matters in issue.
- (2) The New Zealand court may only stay the proceeding if the defendant applies for the proceeding to be stayed. The defendant must make the application within 30 working days after being served with the initiating document for the proceeding, or such shorter or longer period that the court considers appropriate.
- (3) The New Zealand court may only stay the proceeding if it is satisfied that an Australian court has jurisdiction to determine the matters in issue and that it is the more appropriate court to determine those matters. In determining whether the Australian court is the more appropriate court, the New Zealand court must take certain matters into account. They are set out in section 24(2).
- (4) However, if the parties have made an exclusive choice of court agreement that designates either an Australian court or a New Zealand court as the court to determine the matters in issue, the New Zealand court's order as to whether or not to stay the proceeding must be consistent with that agreement (see section 25).

22 Application for stay of New Zealand civil proceeding on grounds that Australian court is more appropriate forum

- (1) A defendant in a civil proceeding commenced in a New Zealand court may apply to the court for an order staying the proceeding on the grounds that an Australian court is the more appropriate court for the proceeding.
- (2) The proceeding may be one commenced in the New Zealand court before the commencement of this subpart, but only if an initiating document for it was served on the defendant in Australia under subpart 1.
- (3) The application must be made—
- within 30 working days of the New Zealand court after the day on which the defendant was served with the initiating document for the proceeding; or
  - if, before or after the end of the period in paragraph (a), the plaintiff or defendant applies to the New Zealand court for a shorter or longer period—within any shorter or longer period the New Zealand court considers appropriate.

Compare: Service and Execution of Process Act 1992 s 20(2) (Aust)

23 Hearing on, or other determination of, application

- (1) The New Zealand court may determine the defendant's application under section 22 without a hearing.
- (2) However, the New Zealand court must determine the defendant's application under section 22 with a hearing if any of the following requests it to do so:
  - (a) the plaintiff; and
  - (b) the defendant; and
  - (c) any other person who is required or permitted, by regulations under subsection (5)(a), to be served with the defendant's application.
- (3) The request must be made—
  - (a) within 10 working days of the New Zealand court after the day the defendant made the application; or
  - (b) if, before or after the end of the period in paragraph (a), a person referred to in subsection (2) applies to the New Zealand court for a shorter or longer period—within any shorter or longer period the New Zealand court considers appropriate.
- (4) The defendant, the defendant's counsel, or both may, despite section 38 (but subject to the rest of subpart 4), appear remotely in the hearing if—
  - (a) the defendant was served, or purportedly served, in Australia under section 13 with an initiating document for a proceeding; and
  - (b) the New Zealand court is determining with a hearing the defendant's application under section 22 for an order to stay the proceeding; and
  - (c) the defendant has made to the New Zealand court within the period (if any) prescribed for the purposes of this paragraph by regulations under subsection (5)(b) a request to appear remotely in the hearing; and
  - (d) a remote appearance medium is, or can reasonably be made, available.
- (5) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council, make regulations—
  - (a) requiring or permitting the defendant's application under section 22 for a stay to be served on people other than the plaintiff and the defendant;
  - (b) prescribing a period for the purposes of subsection (4)(c).

Compare: Service and Execution of Process Act 1992 s 20(6), (7) (Aust)

24 Order of stay of proceeding

- (1) On an application under section 22, the New Zealand court may, by order, stay the proceeding if it is satisfied that an Australian court—
  - (a) has jurisdiction to determine the matters in issue between the parties to the proceeding; and
  - (b) is the more appropriate court to determine those matters.

- (2) In determining whether an Australian court is the more appropriate court to determine the matters in issue between the parties to the proceeding, the New Zealand court must not take into account the fact that the proceeding was commenced in New Zealand, but must take into account the following matters:
- (a) the places of residence of the parties or, if a party is not an individual, its principal place of business;
  - (b) the places of residence of the witnesses likely to be called in the proceeding;
  - (c) the place where the subject matter of the proceeding is situated;
  - (d) any agreement between the parties about the court or place in which those matters should be determined or the proceeding should be instituted (other than an exclusive choice of court agreement to which section 25(1) applies);
  - (e) the law that it would be most appropriate to apply in the proceeding;
  - (f) whether a related or similar proceeding has been commenced against the defendant or another person in a court in Australia;
  - (g) the financial circumstances of the parties, so far as the New Zealand court is aware of them;
  - (h) any other matters that the New Zealand court considers relevant.

Compare: Service and Execution of Process Act 1992 s 20(3), (4) (Aust)

25 Exclusive choice of court agreements

- (1) On an application under section 22 (and despite section 24) the New Zealand court—
- (a) must, by order, stay the proceeding, if satisfied that an exclusive choice of court agreement designates an Australian court as the court to determine the matters in issue between the parties to the proceeding; and
  - (b) must not, by order, stay the proceeding, if satisfied that an exclusive choice of court agreement designates a New Zealand court as the court to determine those matters.
- (2) However, subsection (1)(a) does not apply to an exclusive choice of court agreement if the New Zealand court is satisfied that—
- (a) it is null and void under the law (including, without limitation, the rules of private international law) of Australia; or
  - (b) under New Zealand law, a party to it lacked the capacity to conclude it; or
  - (c) giving effect to it would lead to a manifest injustice or would be manifestly contrary to New Zealand public policy; or
  - (d) for exceptional reasons beyond the control of the parties to it, it cannot reasonably be performed; or

- (e) the court designated by it as the court to determine the matters in issue between the parties to the proceeding has decided not to determine those matters.
- (3) However, subsection (1)(b) does not apply to an exclusive choice of court agreement if the New Zealand court is satisfied that it is null and void under the law (including, without limitation, the rules of private international law) of New Zealand.
- (4) Exclusive choice of court agreement, in relation to matters in issue between parties to a proceeding, means a written agreement between those parties that—
  - (a) designates the courts, or a specified court or courts, of a specified country, to the exclusion of any other courts, as the court or courts to determine disputes between those parties that are or include those matters; and
  - (b) is not an agreement the parties to which are or include 1 or more individuals acting primarily for personal, family, or household purposes; and
  - (c) is not a contract of employment (including, without limitation, a collective agreement).

26 Power to make stay subject to conditions

An order under section 24 or 25 may be made subject to any conditions the New Zealand court considers are appropriate in order to facilitate, without delay or undue expense, the determination of the matters in issue between the parties to the proceeding.

Compare: 1908 No 89 Schedule 2 r 15.1(3); Service and Execution of Process Act 1992 s 20(5) (Aust)

27 How this subpart affects New Zealand court's powers to stay proceedings

- (1) A New Zealand court cannot stay a civil proceeding before it on forum grounds connected with Australia otherwise than in accordance with this subpart.
- (2) However, this subpart does not affect any power of the New Zealand court to stay the proceeding on any other grounds.

Compare: Service and Execution of Process Act 1992 s 20(9) (Aust)

28 No restraint of proceedings

- (1) A New Zealand court must not restrain a person from commencing a civil proceeding in an Australian court on the grounds that the Australian court is not the appropriate forum for the proceeding.
- (2) Also, a New Zealand court must not restrain a party to a civil proceeding before an Australian court from taking a step in that proceeding on the grounds that the Australian court is not the appropriate forum for the proceeding.

Compare: Service and Execution of Process Act 1992 s 21 (Aust)

29 Suspension of limitation periods for claims made earlier in stayed proceedings in Australian courts

- (1) This section applies if—
  - (a) a claim is made in a proceeding commenced in an Australian court (the Australian proceeding) that is later stayed by an order of the Australian Court made under the Australian Act on the grounds that a New Zealand court is the more appropriate court to determine the matters in issue between the parties to the proceeding; and
  - (b) the claim is to be made again in a proceeding commenced in a New Zealand court (the New Zealand proceeding) after the staying of (and, if applicable, before any deadline stated in the condition of that order staying) the Australian proceeding.
- (2) For the purposes of every applicable limitation period or defence under New Zealand law, the New Zealand proceeding is to be treated as commencing at the time the Australian proceeding commenced.

Subpart 3—New Zealand courts giving interim relief in support of civil proceedings in Australian courts

30 Guide to this subpart

- (1) This subpart provides for certain New Zealand courts to give interim relief in support of civil proceedings in Australian courts.
- (2) For the New Zealand court to give interim relief, a party to the Australian proceeding must apply for it.
- (3) The New Zealand court may give interim relief if it considers it appropriate and, if a similar proceeding had been commenced in the New Zealand court, it would have given interim relief in that similar proceeding.

31 Application to New Zealand court for interim relief in support of Australian proceeding

- (1) A party or intended party to a civil proceeding commenced or to be commenced in an Australian court after the commencement of this subpart may apply to the following New Zealand courts for interim relief (other than excluded interim relief) in support of the Australian proceeding:
  - (a) the High Court;
  - (b) a New Zealand court (other than the High Court) declared by an order under subsection (3) to be a court to which this paragraph applies.
- (2) Interim relief is excluded interim relief if it is all or any of the following:
  - (a) an interim payment;
  - (b) discovery;
  - (c) a warrant of arrest of property;

- (d) any action, assistance, order, or other relief under subpart 1 or 2 of Part 4 of the Evidence Act 2006.
- (3) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council, declare a New Zealand court (other than the High Court) to be a court to which subsection (1)(b) applies.

32 Giving of interim relief in support of Australian proceeding

- (1) On an application under section 31(1), the New Zealand court may give interim relief (other than excluded interim relief) in support of the Australian proceeding if—
  - (a) the court considers it appropriate to give the interim relief in support of the Australian proceeding; and
  - (b) the court, if a proceeding similar to the Australian proceeding had been commenced in the court,—
    - (i) would have had power to give the interim relief in the similar proceeding; and
    - (ii) would have given the interim relief in the similar proceeding.
- (2) This subpart does not affect the court's procedural rules, or any other New Zealand laws, under which the court may give interim relief in support of the Australian proceeding.

Compare: 1908 No 89 Schedule 2 r 7.81

33 Application of New Zealand court procedural rules to interim relief proceeding

The procedural rules of the New Zealand court apply to the proceeding for interim relief under section 31(1) as if the Australian proceeding were a similar proceeding commenced in the New Zealand court.

Subpart 4—Remote appearances unrelated to remote evidence

Introduction

34 Guide to this subpart

- (1) This subpart is about people appearing remotely from Australia in New Zealand civil proceedings, and people appearing remotely from New Zealand in Australian civil proceedings. However, this subpart applies only to remote appearances unrelated to remote evidence in those proceedings. Trans-Tasman remote appearances related to remote evidence in civil or criminal proceedings are governed by subpart 1 of Part 4 of the Evidence Act 2006 (operating in conjunction with the Australian Act).
- (2) Sections 38 to 43 are about remote appearances from Australia—
  - (a) in a civil proceeding in a New Zealand court or a prescribed New Zealand tribunal; and

- (b) by a party or a party's lawyer; and
  - (c) not related to remote evidence in the proceeding.
- (3) Sections 44 to 51 are about remote appearances from New Zealand in a civil proceeding in an Australian court or tribunal, where those remote appearances are made in accordance with the Australian Act and are not related to remote evidence in the proceeding. Sections 44 to 51—
- (a) allow the Australian court or tribunal to exercise certain powers in New Zealand for the purpose of the remote appearances; and
  - (b) give certain privileges, protections, and immunities to participants in the remote appearances; and
  - (c) specify offences that apply for particular conduct engaged in (for example, obstructing the proceeding) at the place in New Zealand from where the remote appearances are being made.

How subpart relates to other Acts

35 Evidence Act 2006 trans-Tasman evidence regime governs remote appearances related to remote evidence

- (1) This subpart applies only to a remote appearance by or on behalf of a party to a civil proceeding, and that is a remote appearance to do things other than all or any of the following:
- (a) give evidence:
  - (b) examine a person giving remote evidence:
  - (c) make submissions in relation to remote evidence.
- (2) This subpart therefore does not affect, but complements, subpart 1 of Part 4 of the Evidence Act 2006 (operating in conjunction with the Australian Act) and, in particular, the following sections of the Evidence Act 2006:
- (a) sections 168 to 172 of that Act (which enable a New Zealand court, as defined in section 150 of that Act, and in any proceeding before it, to receive remote evidence, and examination and submissions in relation to remote evidence, by audio link or audiovisual link from Australia); and
  - (b) sections 173 to 180 of that Act (which enable an Australian court, as defined in section 150 of that Act, and in any proceeding before it, to take remote evidence, and receive examination and submissions in relation to remote evidence, by audio link or audiovisual link from New Zealand).

36 Courts (Remote Participation) Act 2010 does not apply to appearances under this subpart

Nothing in the Courts (Remote Participation) Act 2010 applies to any remote appearance in accordance with section 23(4) or sections 37 to 43 or 44 to 51.

Compare: 2006 No 69 s 153A

*Remote appearances from Australia in New Zealand proceedings37 Application of sections 38 to 43

- (1) Sections 38 to 43 apply only to a civil proceeding commenced before or after the commencement of this subpart in—
  - (a) a New Zealand court; or
  - (b) a New Zealand tribunal declared by an order under subsection (3) to be a tribunal to which sections 38 to 43 apply.
- (2) By way of explanation, the proceeding may, but need not, relate to enforcement of a judgment registered under subpart 5, or may, but need not, be a proceeding in respect of an application—

  - (b) for an order under subpart 2 staying the proceeding; and
  - (c) to be determined with a hearing in which the defendant is, under section 23(4), to appear remotely from Australia.

  - (a) the remote appearance medium specified by the court or tribunal; or
  - (b) if the court or tribunal does not specify a remote appearance medium, either remote appearance medium.
- (2) The court or tribunal must not give leave to the party or the party's counsel unless it is satisfied that—
  - (a) the party or the party's counsel can more conveniently participate in the hearing from Australia; and
  - (b) if the court or tribunal intends to specify a remote appearance medium—that remote appearance medium is, or can reasonably be made, available; and
  - (c) if the court or tribunal does not intend to specify a remote appearance medium—both remote appearance mediums are, or can reasonably be made, available; and
  - (d) it is appropriate to give the leave.

- (3) If the party's counsel is not entitled to appear before the court or tribunal, the court or tribunal must not give leave to the party's counsel unless satisfied that—
- (a) the party ordinarily resides or, if the party is not an individual, has its principal place of business, in a State or Territory of Australia; and
  - (b) the counsel is entitled to practise as a barrister, a solicitor, or both in the Supreme Court of a State or Territory of Australia.
- (4) If the party's counsel is entitled to practise as a barrister, a solicitor, or both in the Supreme Court of a State or Territory of Australia, and is given leave under subsection (3),—
- (a) the party's counsel is entitled to practise as a barrister, a solicitor, or both in relation to the remote appearances to which the leave relates; and
  - (b) each of those appearances is for the purposes of section 27(1)(b)(i) of the Lawyers and Conveyancers Act 2006 an appearance allowed by this Act.

- (2) Under section 23(4) the defendant, the defendant's counsel, or both may, despite section 38 (but subject to the rest of this subpart), appear remotely in the hearing by the New Zealand court of the application for a stay of the proceeding if—
- (a) the defendant makes to the court under section 23(4)(c) a request to appear remotely in the hearing; and
  - (b) a remote appearance medium is, or can reasonably be made, available.
- (3) This section is by way of explanation only. It does not affect section 23(4).

40 Remote appearances from Australia by audiovisual link

Compare: 2006 No 69 s 171

- (1) Unless the New Zealand court or tribunal otherwise orders, the costs involved in the party, the party's counsel, or both participating in hearings by using a remote appearance medium, under section 23(4) or, as the case requires, under leave given under section 38, must be paid by the defendant who made under section 23(4)(c) a request to appear remotely or, as the case requires, the applicant for that leave.
- (2) The New Zealand court or tribunal may make an order specifying the amount payable by a party under subsection (1), and requiring the party to pay that amount.

Subpart 5—Recognition and enforcement in New Zealand of specified judgments of Australian courts and tribunals

52 Guide to this subpart

- (1) This subpart is about the enforcement in New Zealand of specified judgments of Australian courts and tribunals.
- (2) To be enforceable, the judgment has to be registered in a New Zealand court. To be registered, the judgment must be a registrable Australian judgment (which is defined in section 54) and an application for its registration must be made.

- (3) Once registered in a New Zealand court, the judgment has the same force, and may be enforced in the New Zealand court, as if the judgment had been given by the New Zealand court. There are some exceptions to this—see, for example, the following sections:
- (a) section 63(2) (which provides that the judgment cannot be enforced during a particular period if notice of the registration has not been given to each liable person); and
  - (b) section 64 (which provides that the judgment cannot be enforced if the judgment could not be enforced in Australia); and
  - (c) section 65 (which provides grounds for when the New Zealand court may stay a proceeding to enforce the judgment).

53 When registrable Australian judgments are enforceable in New Zealand

- (1) A registrable Australian judgment cannot be enforced in New Zealand if it is not registered in a New Zealand court under section 57.
- (2) By way of explanation, the judgment therefore cannot be enforced by way of—
- (a) a registration or other enforcement process under Part 1 of the Reciprocal Enforcement of Judgments Act 1934, section 172 of the Senior Courts Act 2016, or any other enactment in force in New Zealand; or
  - (b) any common law, or other non-legislative, action or claim to enforce the judgment.

Section 53(2)(a): amended, on 1 March 2017, by section 7 of the Trans-Tasman Proceedings Amendment Act 2016 (2016 No 70).

54 Registrable Australian judgment defined

- (1) A judgment is a registrable Australian judgment if—
- (a) the judgment is a final and conclusive judgment that is given in a civil proceeding by an Australian court; or
  - (b) both of the following are satisfied:
    - (i) the judgment is a final and conclusive judgment that is given in a civil proceeding by an Australian tribunal declared under section 55(1)(a) to be a tribunal to which this subpart applies; and

  - (k) is a judgment given before the commencement of this subpart (even if the judgment is, at any time, registered in an Australian court under the Foreign Judgments Act 1991 (Aust)).
- (3) For the purposes of subsection (2)(b), the Governor-General may, by Order in Council, declare a kind of non-money judgment to be excluded from recognition and enforcement under this subpart.
- (4) For the purposes of subsection (1), a judgment must be treated as final and conclusive even if—

  - (b) an appeal against it in an Australian court has not been finally determined.

55 Orders applying subpart to Australian tribunals and their orders

- (1) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council,—
- (a) declare any tribunal of a State or a Territory of Australia to be a tribunal to which this subpart applies;
  - (b) declare all orders, or 1 or more specified classes or kinds of orders, of an Australian tribunal declared to be a tribunal to which this subpart applies to be orders to which this subpart applies.
- (2) Orders of an Australian tribunal must not be declared under subsection (1)(b) to be orders to which this subpart applies unless those orders are—
- (a) made by the Australian tribunal in or in connection with the performance of an adjudicative function; and
  - (b) enforceable (with or without being filed or registered in a court) without an order of a court.

56 Application to register Australian judgment

- (1) An entitled person may apply to the Registrar of a New Zealand court to register in that court an Australian judgment if that court is—
- (a) the High Court; or
  - (b) a New Zealand court that is not a superior New Zealand court but that has power to give the relief that is in the judgment.
- (2) The application must be—
- (a) made in the form (if any) prescribed by regulations under subsection (3); and
  - (b) made in accordance with the requirements (if any) prescribed by regulations under subsection (3); and

- (c) made—
  - (i) within 6 years after the day on which the judgment is given; or
  - (ii) if there have been proceedings by way of appeal against the judgment—within 6 years after the day of the last judgment in those proceedings; or
  - (iii) if, before or after the period in subparagraph (i) or (ii), the entitled person applies to the New Zealand court for a longer period—within any longer period the New Zealand court considers appropriate.
- (3) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council, make regulations prescribing the form of, and requirements for, an application under this section.
- (4) Requirements prescribed under subsection (3) may be or include requirements that specified documents be lodged or filed in a specified way, and with, or within a specified time after the lodging or filing of, the application.
- (5) Subsection (4) does not limit subsection (3).

57 Registration of registrable Australian judgments

- (1) A Registrar of a New Zealand court must, on application under section 56, register in that court under this subpart a registrable Australian judgment.
- (2) Once registered, the judgment remains registered unless the registration is set aside under section 61.

58 Currency

- (1) If a sum of money payable under a registrable Australian judgment is expressed in a currency other than New Zealand currency, the judgment must be registered in the New Zealand court under section 57,—
  - (a) if an entitled person has requested in the application for registration that the judgment be registered in a particular currency, in that currency; and
  - (b) in any other case, as if it were for an equivalent amount in New Zealand currency, calculated using the rate of exchange on the working day (the conversion day) before the day on which the entitled person made the application for registration.
- (2) Working day, in subsection (1)(b), has the same meaning as in section 29 of the Interpretation Act 1999.
- (3) The rate of exchange on the conversion day is that determined in the prescribed manner.
- (4) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council, make regulations prescribing the manner of determining the rate of exchange on the conversion day.
- (5) This section is subject to section 59 (money judgments partly satisfied).

59 Money judgments partly satisfied when entitled person applies for registration

A money judgment that has been partly satisfied at the time at which an entitled person applies for registration of that judgment may be registered under section 57 only in respect of the balance remaining payable under that judgment at that time.

60 Judgments only some provisions of which are registrable

- (1) This section applies to a judgment if a Registrar of a New Zealand court to whom an application for registration of the judgment is made under section 56 considers that—
  - (a) the judgment is one in respect of different matters (for example, because it is one in respect of different subject matters, or one giving different kinds of relief); and
  - (b) some of the provisions of the judgment (the registrable provisions) would, if contained in a separate judgment, make that separate judgment a registrable Australian judgment.
- (2) The judgment may be registered in the New Zealand court under section 57 in respect of the registrable provisions, but no other provisions.

Compare: 1934 No 11 s 4(5); Foreign Judgments Act 1991 s 6(13) (Aust)

61 Setting aside registration

- (1) This section specifies the only situations in which a New Zealand court in which an Australian judgment has been registered under section 57 may set aside the registration of the judgment.
- (2) The New Zealand court must, on application by a liable person within the applicable period under subsection (3), set aside the registration of the judgment if satisfied that—
  - (a) the judgment was registered in contravention of this Act; or
  - (b) enforcement of the judgment would be contrary to public policy in New Zealand; or
  - (c) both of the following subparagraphs apply:
    - (i) the judgment was given in a proceeding the subject matter of which was immovable property, or was given in a proceeding in rem the subject matter of which was movable property; and
    - (ii) that property was, at the time of the proceeding in the original court or tribunal, not situated in Australia.
- (3) An application under subsection (2) must be made—
  - (a) within 30 working days of the New Zealand court after the day on which the liable person was given notice of registration under section 62; or

- (b) if the liable person, before or after the end of the period in paragraph (a), applies to the New Zealand court for a longer period—within any longer period the New Zealand court considers appropriate.

Compare: 1934 No 11 s 6

62 Notice to liable person

- (1) If a New Zealand court registers an Australian judgment under section 57, the entitled person must give a notice of the registration to every liable person.
- (2) The notice must—
  - (a) be in the form (if any) prescribed by regulations under subsection (4)(a); and
  - (b) be given in the manner (if any) prescribed by regulations under subsection (4)(b).
- (3) The notice must be given—
  - (a) within 15 working days of the New Zealand court after the day of registration; or
  - (b) if, before or after the end of the period in paragraph (a), the entitled person applies to the New Zealand court for a longer period—within any longer period the New Zealand court considers appropriate.
- (4) The Governor-General may, by Order in Council, make regulations prescribing—
  - (a) the form of notice to be given under subsection (1);
  - (b) the manner of giving notice under subsection (1).

63 Effect of registration and notification

- (1) A registered Australian judgment has the same force and effect, and may give rise to the same proceedings for enforcement, as if it were a judgment given by the New Zealand court in which it is registered.
- (2) However, if notice of the registration of the judgment has not been given to every liable person under section 62, then subsection (1) applies to the judgment only after 45 working days of the New Zealand court after the day of registration.
- (3) Subsection (1) is subject to—
  - (a) section 64 (which prevents enforcement of the judgment if it is not capable of being enforced in or by the original court or tribunal or in or by another Australian court or tribunal); and
  - (b) any order under section 65(1)(a) or (b) (delaying or staying enforcement of the registered judgment so that a liable person can challenge it in an Australian court or tribunal), or any other order of a New Zealand court, delaying or staying enforcement of the judgment; and

- (c) section 67 (which relates to interest on a sum of money payable under a registered Australian judgment).

64 Restriction on enforcing registered Australian judgments

A registered Australian judgment is capable of being enforced only if, and to the extent that, at the time it is being or is to be enforced, the judgment is capable of being enforced in the original court or tribunal or in another Australian court or tribunal.

65 Stay of enforcement of registered judgment so that liable person can challenge it in Australian court or tribunal

- (1) A New Zealand court in which an Australian judgment has been registered under section 57 may, on an application under subsection (3) by a liable person, order that a proceeding in that court for enforcement of the judgment—
  - (a) not be commenced until a specified time or event; or
  - (b) be stayed for a specified period.
- (2) The order—
  - (a) must be made subject to the following conditions:
    - (i) that the liable person make, by the end of a period specified in the order, and to an Australian court or tribunal that has power to grant the relief sought by the application, an application to set aside, vary, or appeal against the registered Australian judgment;
    - (ii) that the liable person prosecute that application expeditiously; and
  - (b) may be made subject to any other conditions, including conditions as to the giving of security, that the New Zealand court considers appropriate.
- (3) An application under subsection (1) must be made—
  - (a) within 30 working days of the New Zealand court after the day on which the liable person was given the notice of registration required by section 62; or
  - (b) if the liable person, before or after the end of the period in paragraph (a), applies to the New Zealand court for a longer period—within any longer period the New Zealand court considers appropriate.
- (4) If a registered Australian judgment has for enforcement been transferred to a New Zealand court other than the one in which it is registered under section 57, an application under subsection (1) may be made to, and heard and determined by, only that other New Zealand court.
- (5) This section does not affect any other powers of the New Zealand court to delay or stay the enforcement of the registered Australian judgment on any grounds on which the court could delay or stay the enforcement of a judgment of a New Zealand court or tribunal.

66 Costs and expenses of enforcement of registered Australian judgments

- (1) If a proceeding for enforcement of a registered Australian judgment is commenced in a New Zealand court, the following costs and expenses are recoverable in the proceeding:
  - (a) costs and expenses reasonably incurred by or on behalf of the entitled person in, or incidental to, registration of the judgment;
  - (b) costs and expenses reasonably incurred by or on behalf of the entitled person in attempting to enforce the judgment in the original court or tribunal.
- (2) However, an entitled person's entitlement to recover, and a liable person's liability to pay, the costs and expenses specified in subsection (1)(b) are the same as they would be in a proceeding in that New Zealand court for enforcement of—
  - (a) a judgment given by the New Zealand court that is similar to the registered Australian judgment; or
  - (b) if there is no such similar judgment, a judgment given by the New Zealand court and of a kind that is most analogous to the registered Australian judgment.

67 Interest on registered Australian judgments

Interest on a sum of money payable under a registered Australian judgment—

- (a) is payable at the same rate or rates and in respect of the same period or periods as would be applicable in the original court or tribunal; and
- (b) is recoverable to the extent that an entitled person satisfies the Registrar of the New Zealand court of the amount of interest that is payable under paragraph (a).

68 Enforcement of registered Australian judgment unaffected by certain rules of private international law

- (1) Enforcement in New Zealand of a registered Australian judgment is not affected by the operation of any rule of private international law (other than any rule in this subpart) in operation in New Zealand.
- (2) In particular, no New Zealand court may refuse to enforce a registered Australian judgment, or may delay, limit, or prohibit its enforcement, on all or any of the following grounds:
  - (a) enforcing the judgment would involve the direct or indirect enforcement in New Zealand of an Australian public law;
  - (b) Australian tax is payable under the judgment;
  - (c) the judgment imposes a civil pecuniary penalty or a regulatory regime criminal fine.

- (3) Subsection (2) does not limit subsection (1).

- (a) is given in an Australian trans-Tasman market proceeding; and
- (b) does not impose a civil pecuniary penalty.

- (2) Subsection (1) overrides section 56, which if not overridden would permit the application to be made to a Registrar of a New Zealand court specified or described in section 56(1)(a) or (b).

7. Judgments registered under this Article shall not be refused recognition and enforcement on the grounds that to do so would involve the direct or indirect enforcement of a foreign public or revenue law.
8. Registration of the following judgments may be set aside in the registering court on the basis that the property in question was not, at the time of the proceedings before the court which issued the judgment, situated within the territory of the Party in which the court which issued the judgment is located:

Article 8—Declining jurisdiction

1. Where the appropriateness of the forum is in issue in a proceeding, courts within the territory of each Party shall be able to grant a stay of proceedings on the ground that a court within the territory of the other Party is the more appropriate forum to determine the proceedings.
