Explanatory note

This note is not part of the regulations, but is intended to indicate their general effect.

These regulations amend the Parental Leave and Employment Protection Regulations 2002 (the principal regulations). Most of the amendments come into force on 1 July 2006.

The amendments apply in respect of children born, expected to be born, or adopted on or after 1 July 2006. However, applications for parental leave payments and the transfer of parental leave payments may be made before that date.

These regulations set out the information and documents that must be provided in respect of a self-employed person who is applying for a parental leave payment or the transfer of a parental leave payment.

Notably, a self-employed person must provide either—

- a statement and declaration by his or her chartered accountant relating to his or her eligibility for a parental leave payment; or
- a declaration under the Oaths and Declarations Act 1957 by the self-employed person relating to his or her eligibility for a parental leave payment.

The form of the statement and declaration by the chartered accountant and the alternative declaration by the self-employed person are set out in new form 5 and form 6.

Other regulations in the principal regulations are also amended so that self-employed persons are treated consistently with employees. For example, self-employed persons who return to work early are required to notify the Inland Revenue Department in the same way that employees are required to do so.

Issued under the authority of the Legislation Act 2012.
Date of notification in Gazette: 25 May 2006.
