5 Salaries of coroners and Chief Coroner

- (1) The salary payable to a coroner must be at the annual rate of $269,200.
- (2) The salary payable to a Chief Coroner who is not a Judge must be at the annual rate of $344,900, payable from the date on which the Chief Coroner is appointed.
- (3) A relief coroner appointed under section 104 of the Coroners Act 2006 is entitled to an additional payment of up to $40,400 per annum by way of salary, in recognition of the fact that a relief coroner is not entitled to receive superannuation contributions under clause 7, provided that the annual sum of the following amounts does not exceed $309,600:
 - (a) the salary payable under subclause (1); and
 - (b) any additional payment under this subclause; and
 - (c) any superannuation subsidy (inclusive of any tax liability) that the coroner is entitled to be paid by the Crown other than under this determination.
- (4) Each coroner and the Chief Coroner must be paid a taxable National Duty Coroner allowance at the rate of $10,400 per annum, in recognition of the fact that all coroners and the Chief Coroner are, from time to time, rostered to act as National Duty Coroner.

6 Limited application of clause 7

Clause 7 does not apply to—

- (a) a Chief Coroner who is a Judge; or

- (b) a coroner who—

- (3) In order to qualify for a superannuation subsidy, the contribution that the coroner or Chief Coroner must make to the retirement scheme, when expressed as a ratio of the superannuation subsidy to that person's contribution, is 5:1.

8 Judicial determinations do not apply to coroners

Explanatory memorandum

This memorandum is not part of the determination, but is intended to indicate its general effect.

This determination, which is deemed to have come into force on 1 January 2017 and expires on 31 December 2017, sets the salaries and superannuation rights of coroners and a Chief Coroner who is not a Judge.

The Remuneration Authority (the Authority) is required to have regard to the following when setting remuneration for coroners and other judicial officers:

- the need to achieve and maintain fair relativity with the levels of remuneration received elsewhere; and
- the need to be fair both—
 - to the persons or group of persons whose remuneration is being determined; and
 - to the taxpayer; and
- the need to recruit and retain competent persons.

In addition, the Authority must take into account—

- the requirements of the position concerned; and
- the conditions of service enjoyed by the persons whose remuneration is being determined and those enjoyed by the persons or members of the group of persons whose remuneration and conditions of employment are, in the opinion of the Authority, comparable with those of the persons or members of the group whose remuneration is being determined; and
- any prevailing adverse economic conditions, based on evidence from an authoritative source, and may determine the remuneration at a rate lower than it would otherwise have determined.

This determination increases the salary of coroners from $264,690 to $269,200, in line with the increase in salaries that the Authority determined for District Court Judges in 2016/17. It also provides for a salary of $344,900 for a Chief Coroner who is not a Judge.

The Authority has taken account of the fact that each coroner, including the Chief Coroner, is required to operate as the National Duty Coroner from time to time so that there is a coroner on duty 24 hours per day every day of the year. This is an onerous requirement and has the effect that each coroner must complete around 400 hours of rostered on-duty each year during which their personal freedoms are somewhat curtailed. In considering the Authority's responsibility to be fair to the group of persons whose remuneration is being determined, the Authority has determined to provide an allowance to compensate coroners for their on-call work as National Duty Coroner. The allowance is not large, but the Authority believes it provides a reasonable compensation for the time imposition on the coroners.

The determination is for a year, from 1 January 2017. The determination could not be finalised earlier because of the preparatory work that the Authority was required to undertake before making the determination.
