Subpart EY—Life insurance rules

Introductory provisions

EY 1 What this subpart does

Two bases

(1) This subpart provides for the taxation of life insurers on 2 separate bases, the policyholder base and the shareholder base. Sections EY 2 and EY 3 describe the general apportionment of income and deductions between the 2 bases under this Part. Section LA 8B (General rules particular to life insurers) provides some general rules for tax credits relating to the 2 bases. Parts L and O include tax credit rules and memorandum account rules specific to the 2 bases.

Schedular policyholder base income and PIE schedular income

(2) Section EY 2 uses the assessable income in a life insurer's policyholder base income, and the life insurer's policyholder base allowable deductions, to calculate their schedular policyholder base income. A life insurer's schedular income derived by their life fund PIE that is a multi-rate PIE is excluded from their schedular policyholder base income, along with deductions for that income.

Counting once

(3) Income and deductions must be apportioned to either the policyholder base or the shareholder base. There is no double-counting.

Defined in this Act: assessable income, deduction, income, life fund PIE, life insurance, life insurer, life reinsurance, memorandum account, multi-rate PIE, policyholder base, policyholder base income, schedular policyholder base income, shareholder base, tax credit

Section EY 1: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 185(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 2 Policyholder base

Policyholder base income

(1) A life insurer has policyholder base income,—

(a) for savings product policies that are not profit participation policies, under section EY 15:

(b) for profit participation policies, under section EY 17:

(c) under section EY 27(4).

Policyholder base allowable deductions

(2) A life insurer has policyholder base allowable deductions,—

(a) for savings product policies that are not profit participation policies, under section EY 16:

(b) for profit participation policies, under section EY 18:

(c) under section EY 27(4):

(d) under section EZ 61 (Allowance for cancelled amount: spreading):

(e) under section LE 2B (Use of remaining credits by life insurer on policyholder base).

Schedular policyholder base income

(3) A life insurer's schedular policyholder base income is the amount given by subtracting their policyholder base allowable deductions for an income year, and any amount carried forward to the income year under subsection (5), from the assessable income in their policyholder base income for the income year.

Cap on subtracting: ring-fencing policyholder base allowable deductions

(4) Despite subsection (3), the total amount that is subtracted under subsection (3), including an amount carried forward to the current year under subsection (5), is no more than the amount of the assessable income in the life insurer's policyholder base income for the income year.

Excess allocations: carrying forward and re-instating next year

(5) Any excess not able to be subtracted in the current year because of subsection (4) is carried forward to the next income year.

Exception

(6) Despite subsections (3) to (5) a life insurer's schedular income derived by their life fund PIE that is a multi-rate PIE is excluded from their schedular policyholder base income, along with deductions for that income.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, income year, life fund PIE, life insurance, life insurer, multi-rate PIE, policyholder base allowable deduction, policyholder base income, profit participation policy, savings product policy, schedular income, schedular policyholder base income

Section EY 2: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 185(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 3 Shareholder base

Shareholder base income

(1) A life insurer has shareholder base income,—

(a) for policies that are not profit participation policies, under section EY 19: see also subsection (3), for reserves:

(b) for profit participation policies, under sections EY 21, EY 28, and EY 29:

(c) for annuities, under section EY 31.

Shareholder base allowable deductions

(2) A life insurer has shareholder base allowable deductions,—

(a) for policies that are not profit participation policies, under section EY 20: see also subsection (3), for reserves:

(b) for profit participation policies, under sections EY 22 and EY 28:

(c) for the period and policies described in section EY 30, under that section:

(d) for annuities, under section EY 31.

Reserves

(3) Under sections EY 23 to EY 27, a life insurer calculates reserving amounts for life insurance policies, other than annuities, that have a life risk component and are not profit participation policies. A reserving amount may be income included in their shareholder base income, or a deduction that is included in their shareholder base allowable deduction, as provided by the relevant sections.

Defined in this Act: deduction, life insurance, life insurance policy, life insurer, life risk, profit participation policy, shareholder base allowable deduction, shareholder base income

Section EY 3: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 185(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 4 Apportionment of income of particular source or nature, and of tax credits

Default basis

(1) For a class of policies, income of a particular source or nature, and tax credits received, are apportioned between the policyholder base and shareholder base—

(a) in the same proportion as the policyholder base income relating to the particular source, nature, or credits bears to the life insurer's total gross gains relating to the particular source, nature, or credits, in the case of the policyholder base:

(b) in the same proportion as the shareholder base income relating to the particular source, nature, or credits bears to the life insurer's total gross gains relating to the particular source, nature, or credits, in the case of the shareholder base.

More equitable or reasonable basis

(2) For a class of policies, the life insurer may use a basis of apportionment that is different from the basis described in subsection (1), if that basis results in an amount, actuarially determined, that is more equitable and reasonable than an amount determined using the basis described in subsection (1).

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, class of policies, income, life insurer, policyholder base, policyholder base income, shareholder base, shareholder base income, tax credit

Section EY 4: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 185(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 5 Part-year tax calculations

Part-year tax calculations

(1) For their life insurance and for their general insurance contracts outstanding claims reserve, a life insurer does part-year tax calculations, described in subsection (2), if they do not have an early life regime application day and 1 July 2010 is not the first day of their income year.

First year part-year calculations: description

(2) For calculating their income tax liability for the tax year that corresponds to the income year that includes 1 July 2010, where 1 July 2010 is not the first day of the income year, the life insurer treats references, in the new life insurance rules and in the rules they replace, to an income year or a tax year as if they are references to 2 separate tax years and corresponding income years (the part-years) within that first tax year, divided by 1 July 2010 (for example: a rule to calculate an amount of policyholder income for an income year under the replaced rules means the calculation is done for the relevant part-year before 1 July 2010. A rule to calculate an opening reserve amount under sections EY 23 to EY 27 at the beginning of an income year under the new rules means the calculation is done on 1 July 2010, at the beginning of the relevant part-year).

Part-year calculations: effect

(3) The part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year, but they do not create any part-year tax return obligations. The 2 part-year calculations compose 1 income tax liability for 1 income year.

Part-year calculations for transfers

(4) Where a life insurer (the transferor) transfers life insurance business to another life insurer (the transferee), the transferor does a part-year calculation, as described in subsection (2), for each class of policy in the transferred business, but only for their part-year ending on the day the transfer occurs. The transferee also does a part-year calculation for the transferred policies, as described in subsection (2), but only for their part-year starting on the day the transfer occurs. The transferee's relevant opening part-year reserve amounts under sections EY 23 to EY 27 equal the transferor's relevant closing part-year reserve amounts, and if the life reinsurance associated with a class of policies is not assigned by the transferor to the transferee, those reserve amounts are calculated without subtracting relevant life reinsurance amounts.

Part-year calculations for transfers: effect

(5) Transferor's and transferee's part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year, but they do not create any part-year tax return obligations.

Part-year calculations: end of transitional adjustments

(6) If, for a life insurance policy, the transitional adjustment under section EY 30(7) is calculated for part of an income year, because section EY 30 ceases to apply to the policy before the end of the income year, the life insurer does part-year tax calculations for the policy for the income year, as described in subsection (2), but the income year is divided by the day that section EY 30 ceases to apply. The effect of the part-year calculations is described in subsection (3).

Part-year calculations: end of transitional adjustments

EY 14 Life insurance and life reinsurance: how sections relate

Life insurance definitions

Life reinsurance definitions

(2) Sections EY 12 and EY 13 define terms relating to life reinsurance.

Life insurance term usually includes life reinsurance term

(3) A reference in this Act to any of the terms defined in sections EY 8 to EY 11 includes the equivalent term in sections EY 12 and EY 13—for example, life insurer includes life reinsurer—unless the context requires otherwise.

Defined in this Act: life insurance, life insurer, life reinsurance, life reinsurer

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EY 13

EY 15 Policyholder base income: non-participation policies

What is included

(1) For an income year, a life insurer's income is included as their policyholder base income if it relates to life insurance policies that are not profit participation policies, and it—

(a) does not relate to life risk components of premiums and claims:

(b) is investment income that—

(i) is included in investment income gains or losses in the financial statements of the life insurer; and

(ii) is not a premium; and

(iii) is fairly attributable to savings product policies.

Certain income: basis of apportionment

(2) Despite subsection (1), if an amount of investment income is included in a life insurer's policyholder base income under subsection (1), but may also be shareholder base income under section EY 19, ignoring section EY 19(1)(d), then the investment income is included in policyholder base income to the extent provided by the formula—

$$\text{income} \times \frac{\text{average surrender value}}{\text{average savings assets.}}$$

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) income is the income described in subsection (2):

(b) average surrender value is, for the savings product policies to which the income relates, the average surrender value of the policies for the income year. The life insurer may determine an equitable and reasonable basis for the measurement of the average:

(c) average savings assets is, for the savings product policies to which the income relates, the average market value of assets held by the life insurer for the policies for the income year. The life insurer may determine an equitable and reasonable basis for the measurement of the average.

More equitable or reasonable basis of apportionment

(4) Despite subsections (2) and (3), for investment income described in subsection (2), the life insurer may use a basis of apportionment that is different from the one described in subsections (2) and (3), if that basis results in an amount, actuarially determined, that is more equitable and reasonable than an amount determined using the basis described in subsections (2) and (3).

Treatment of de minimis life risk component amounts

(5) An amount of income relating to a policy that, but for this subsection, is an amount related to the life risk of a premium or life reinsurance claim, is treated as not relating to the relevant life risk component for the purposes of subsection (1), if—

(a) the life insurer has actuarially determined that the life risk is 1% or less of the premium or life reinsurance claim; and

(b) chooses to apply this subsection for the policy.

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, claim, income, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life reinsurance, life risk, life risk component, market value, premium, policyholder base income, profit participation policy, savings product policy, shareholder base income, surrender value

EY 16 Policyholder base allowable deductions: non-participation policies

What is included

(1) For an income year, a life insurer's deduction that relates to life insurance policies that are not profit participation policies is included as their policyholder allowable deduction to the extent to which it is incurred in relation to their policyholder base income under section EY 15.

Basis of apportionment

(2) Despite subsection (1), if a deduction is included in a life insurer's policyholder base allowable deduction under subsection (1), but may also be a shareholder base allowable deduction under section EY 20, ignoring section EY 20(1)(d), the life insurer must use a basis of apportionment for the deduction which is—

(a) the same as in section EY 15(2) and (3) with necessary modifications; or

(b) is the same as in section EY 15(4) with necessary modifications.

Defined in this Act: deduction, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, premium loading, premium loading formula, policyholder base allowable deduction, policyholder base income, profit participation policy, shareholder base allowable deduction

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula,—

(a) asset base gross income is the amount of annual gross income that the life insurer would have for the policies' asset base, if—

(i) the life insurer is treated as having no assets other than the asset base; and

(ii) amounts under sections EY 28 and EY 29 are ignored:

(b) retained earnings average is an actuarially determined amount that is the average of the following 2 proportions:

(i) the proportion of the value of the policies' asset base that is attributable to the life insurer's shareholder's retained earnings at the end of the year before the income year:

(ii) the proportion of the value of the policies' asset base that is attributable to the life insurer's shareholder's retained earnings at the end of the income year:

(c) future shareholder transfers average is an actuarially determined amount that is the average of the following 2 proportions:

(i) the proportion of the value of the policies' asset base that is attributable to the present value (net) of future transfers to the life insurer's shareholders for future bonus declarations that are able to be supported by the supporting asset base at the beginning of the income year:

(ii) the proportion of the value of the policies' asset base that is attributable to the present value (net) of future transfers to the life insurer's shareholders for future bonus declarations that are able to be supported by the supporting asset base at the end of the income year:

EY 23 Reserving amounts for life insurers: non-participation policies

Reserves

(1) Sections EY 24 to EY 27 apply to calculate a life insurer's reserving amounts for life insurance policies, other than annuities, that have a life risk component and that are not profit participation policies.

Actuarial determination

(2) All reserving amounts must be actuarially determined, for each class of policies.

Positive and negative amounts: shareholder base income or shareholder base allowable deduction

(3) If a reserving amount calculated under sections EY 24 to EY 27 is a positive amount, the life insurer has that amount as income included in their shareholder base income. If a reserving amount calculated under sections EY 24 to EY 27 is a negative amount, the life insurer has that amount as a deduction included in their shareholder base allowable deductions.

Which reserve can be used when?

(4) For an income year, for a relevant class of policies, a life insurer has a reserving amount described in—

(a) section EY 24, for outstanding claims reserves (the outstanding claims reserving amount):

(b) section EY 25, for premium smoothing reserves (the premium smoothing reserving amount) if the life insurer chooses to calculate a premium smoothing reserving amount and the PSR periods for policies in the class of policies begins, continues or ends in the income year:

(c) section EY 26, for unearned premium reserves (the unearned premium reserving amount), if the life insurer chooses to not calculate a premium smoothing reserving amount:

(d) section EY 27, for capital guarantee reserves (the capital guarantee reserving amount).

Choice

(5) Despite subsection (4)(b) and (c), a life insurer may not change between calculating a premium smoothing reserving amount and an unearned premium reserving amount for a class of policies once the premium smoothing reserving amount is used for the class of policies. If a policy in a class of policies does not meet the relevant requirements described in subsection (6), then a life insurer has an unearned premium reserving amount for that class of policy.

Meaning of PSR period

(6) PSR period means, for a policy in the relevant class of policies, a period beginning, continuing or ending in the income year for which—

(a) premiums payable are level or substantially level, and the period is 1 or more years; or

(b) there is a material mismatch between the incidence of life risk components and the timing of premiums payable, and the period is 1 or more years.

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, class of policies, deduction, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life risk, life risk component, premium, profit participation policy, PSR period, shareholder base allowable deduction, shareholder base income

Section EY 23: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 24 Outstanding claims reserving amount: non-participation policies not annuities

Calculation of reserving amount

(1) For an income year (the current year), a life insurer has an outstanding claims reserving amount for a class of policies calculated using the formula—opening outstanding claims reserve – closing outstanding claims reserve.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula in subsection (1),—

(a) opening outstanding claims reserve is—

(i) the amount of the life insurer's closing outstanding claims reserve for the class of policies, for the income year before the current year (the prior year); or

(ii) if the life insurer has no closing outstanding claims reserve for the prior year, the amount that would be the outstanding claims reserve for the class of policies, using subsections (3) and (4) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the prior year, but using a basis consistent with the one that the insurer used for tax purposes in that prior year (for example, if IBNR liability was not accounted for, for tax purposes, in the prior year, the opening balance calculation does not take into account IBNR liability):

(b) closing outstanding claims reserve is the amount of the life insurer's outstanding claims reserve calculated under subsections (3) and (4) for the class of policies at the end of the current year.

Outstanding claims reserve calculation

(3) A life insurer's outstanding claims reserve is calculated for the relevant policies using the formula—life risk claims incurred + life risk claims reported + risk margin.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula in subsection (3),—

(a) life risk claims incurred is the actuarially determined estimate of present values (gross) for the life risk components of claims not yet reported to the life insurer before the end of the current year, but the insured-against event has occurred. The life risk components must take into account the probability of the claims being paid, and future expenses for administering the claims, but the present value (gross) of relevant life reinsurance claims must be subtracted from the total:

(b) life risk claims reported is the present values (gross) of the life risk components of claims reported but not yet paid. The life risk components must take into account the probability of the claims being paid, and future expenses for administering the claims, but the present values (gross) of relevant life reinsurance claims must be subtracted from the total:

(c) risk margin is the appropriate margin for the life risk components of claims described in paragraph (a) or (b), to the extent to which the margin is actuarially determined, reflects the uncertainty of the estimates that arise from the use of the relevant best estimate assumptions, and is not already included in the life risk components of the claims.

Defined in this Act: amount, best estimate assumptions, claim, class of policies, income year, life insurer, life reinsurance, life risk, life risk component, mortality profit present value (gross)

Section EY 24: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

Section EY 24(2)(a)(ii): amended (with effect on 1 July 2010), on 21 December 2010, by section 58(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 130).

Section EY 24(2)(a)(ii): amended (with effect on 1 July 2010), on 7 September 2010, by section 46(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Trans-Tasman Savings Portability, KiwiSaver, and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 109).

EY 25 Premium smoothing reserving amount: non-participation policies not annuities

Calculation of reserving amount

(1) For an income year (the current year), a life insurer has a premium smoothing reserving amount for a class of policies, during the policies' PSR periods, calculated using the formula—opening premium smoothing reserve – closing premium smoothing reserve.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula,—

(a) opening premium smoothing reserve is—

(i) the amount of the life insurer's closing premium smoothing reserve for the class of policies, for the income year (the prior year) before the current year; or

(ii) the amount that would be the premium smoothing reserve for the class of policies, using the principles in subsection (3) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the prior year, if the life insurer has no closing premium smoothing reserve for the prior year:

(b) closing premium smoothing reserve is the amount of the life insurer's premium smoothing reserve calculated under the principles in subsection (3) for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the current year.

Premium smoothing reserve calculation: principles

(3) A premium smoothing reserve for policies in a class of policies, during their PSR periods, is calculated using the following principles:

(a) the premium smoothing reserve must allow the calculation of a reserving amount for an income year, such that the reserving amount plus the life risk component of premiums for the policies for the income year must equal the expected life risk proportion:

(b) the life risk component of premiums plus reserving amount recognised for tax purposes during the policies' PSR periods must equal the total life risk component of premiums recognised for financial reporting purposes during the PSR periods.

Best estimate assumptions for PSR

(4) Closing and opening premium smoothing reserve amounts must be actuarially determined, using best estimate assumptions.

Special grouping rule for the purposes of best estimate assumptions

(5) For the purposes of determining premium smoothing reserve amounts, life insurance policies may be grouped together if the policies have in common,—

(a) substantially the same contractual terms and conditions, other than their PSR periods; and

(b) substantially the same assumptions for pricing their life risk.

Meaning of expected life risk proportion

(6) In this section, expected life risk proportion means a proportion of the total life risk and life risk renewal expenses of premiums for life insurance policies in the relevant class during their PSR periods, where that proportion fairly reflects the life risk and an amount of life risk renewal expenses expected to be borne in that income year if the policies were still existing at the earlier of—

(a) the end of the income year:

(b) immediately before the end of the policies' PSR period.

Defined in this Act: amount, , actuarially determined, best estimate assumptions, class of policies, expected life risk proportion, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life risk, life risk component, premium, PSR period

Section EY 25: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

Section EY 25(2)(a)(ii): amended (with effect on 1 July 2010), on 7 September 2010, by section 47(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Trans-Tasman Savings Portability, KiwiSaver, and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 109).

EY 26 Unearned premium reserving amount: non-participation policies not annuities

Calculation of reserving amount

(1) For an income year (the current year), a life insurer has an unearned premium reserving amount for a class of policies calculated using the formula—opening unearned premium reserve – closing unearned premium reserve.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula,—

(a) opening unearned premium reserve is—

(i) the amount of the life insurer's closing unearned premium reserve for the class of policies, for the income year before the current year; or

(ii) the amount that would be the unearned premium reserve for the class of policies, using subsection (3) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the prior year, if the life insurer has no closing unearned premium reserve for the income year before the current year:

(b) closing unearned premium reserve is the amount of the life insurer's unearned premium reserve under subsection (3) for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the current year.

Unearned premium reserve

(3) A life insurer's unearned premium reserve is the amount of the premium in the current year or a prior year, for the relevant policies, that relates to life risk components and relevant costs, in income years after the current year, but subtracting relevant life reinsurance premiums.

Defined in this Act: amount, class of policies, income year, life insurer, life reinsurance, life risk component

EY 27 Capital guarantee reserving amount: non-participation policies not annuities

Calculation of reserving amount

(1) For an income year (the current year), a life insurer has a reserving amount for a class of policies calculated using the formula—opening capital guarantee reserve − closing capital guarantee reserve.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula,—

(a) opening capital guarantee reserve is—

(i) the amount of the life insurer's closing capital guarantee reserve for the class of policies, for the income year before the current year; or

(ii) the amount that would be the capital guarantee reserve for the class of policies, using subsection (3) with necessary modifications, calculated at the end of the income year before the current year, if the life insurer has no closing capital guarantee reserve for the income year before the current year:

(b) closing capital guarantee reserve is the amount of the life insurer's capital guarantee reserve under subsection (3) for the class of policies, calculated at the end of the current year.

Capital guarantee reserve

(3) A life insurer's capital guarantee reserve is the net amount of credits and debits on account of a risk-linked provision for future obligations in relation to a guarantee, for the class of policies, by the life insurer that capital invested will be returned or that a minimum return on capital will be paid.

Reflex in policyholder base

(4) For the current year, if the reserving amount under this section is positive, the life insurer has that amount as a deduction included in their policyholder base allowable deductions. For the current year, if the reserving amount under this section is negative, the life insurer has that amount as income included in their policyholder base income.

Reflex in policyholder base: exception

(5) Despite subsection (4), for the current year, the life insurer does not have that amount as income included in their policyholder base income to the extent to which the amount represents payment on account of lost capital in the policyholder base.

Defined in this Act: amount, class of policies, income year, life insurer, pay, policyholder base, policyholder base allowable deduction, policyholder base income

Section EY 27(2)(a)(ii): amended (with effect on 1 July 2010), on 7 September 2010, by section 49(1) of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Trans-Tasman Savings Portability, KiwiSaver, and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 109).

Shareholder base other profit: profit participation policies

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 28 Shareholder base other profit: profit participation policies that are existing business

Calculation of income

(1) For an income year, a life insurer has an amount, for profit participation policies that are existing business, that is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{other profit} \times \frac{\text{gate}}{(1 + \text{gate}).}$$

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula in subsection (1),—

(a) other profit is the amount calculated for the income year under subsection (4):

(b) gate is the proportion of a policyholder's share of profits from the asset base that is used in the formula that calculates a transfer to the benefit of the life insurer's shareholders from the profits of the asset base, as described in paragraph (a)(iii) of the definition of profit participation policy.

Formula: negative amounts and positive amounts

(3) If, for an income year, the formula in subsection (1) calculates a positive amount, that amount is included as income in the life insurer's shareholder base income. If it is a negative amount, then that amount is included as a deduction in the life insurer's shareholder base allowable deductions.

Other profit

(4) For the purposes of the item other profit in subsection (2), an amount is calculated, for the income year (the current year) for profit participation policies that are existing business, using the following formula:

(premiums − premiums estimate) − (claims − claims estimate)
− (closing policy liabilities − estimated closing policy liabilities).

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula in subsection (4),—

(a) premiums is the amount of premiums for policies for the current year, but subtracting relevant life reinsurance premiums:

(b) premiums estimate is the actuarially determined total amount of premiums that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that were in force at the start of the current year or are first entered into in the current year, after subtracting the present value (net) of relevant life reinsurance premiums:

(c) claims is the amount of claims for the current year, after subtracting relevant life reinsurance claims:

(d) claims estimate is the actuarially determined total amount of claims that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that were in force at the start of the current year or are first entered into in the current year, after subtracting the present value (net) of relevant life reinsurance claims:

(e) closing policy liabilities is the total amount of policy liabilities for policies determined at the end of the current year for vested benefits after the previous year's bonus declaration:

(f) estimated closing policy liabilities is the total estimated policy liabilities at the end of the current year for policies in force at the start of the current year and expected to be in force at the end of the current year, taking into account vested benefits after the previous year's bonus. The estimated policy liabilities must not take into account any future bonus declarations, and must use best estimate assumptions.

Meaning of policy liabilities

(6) For the purposes of subsection (5), policy liabilities means, for a policy, an actuarially determined amount that is the present value (net) of future claims, plus the present value (net) of future expenditure or loss, plus the present value (net) of future tax payments, less the present value (net) of future premiums. Relevant life reinsurance premiums and claims must be subtracted.

Basis of best estimate assumptions in actuarially determining items

(7) The same best estimate assumptions must be used for actuarially determining the items premiums estimate, claims estimate, and policy liabilities in this section. The assumptions may be appropriate for the start of the year, or for the end of the year, but once the choice is made between start of the year and end of the year, that basis may not be changed.

Meaning of existing business

(8) For the purposes of this section and section EY 29, existing business means, for a policy, that it is—

(a) issued on or before 30 June 2009; or

(b) issued after 30 June 2009, if—

(i) issued on the same substantial and material terms, conditions, and bonus entitlements as profit participation policies that the life insurer issued on or before 30 June 2009, ignoring any annual increase in life insurance cover that is less than 10% or less than annual percentage change in the consumer price index:

(ii) issued as the result of conversion rights in a policy issued on or before 30 June 2009.

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, best estimate assumptions, claim, existing business, income year, life insurance, life insurance policy, life insurer, life reinsurance, premium, present value (net), profit participation policy

Section EY 28: substituted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 29 Shareholder base other profit: profit participation policies that are new business

Calculation of income

(1) For an income year, a life insurer has an amount, for profit participation policies that are new business, that is calculated using the formula—

$$\text{other profit} \times \frac{\text{gate}}{(1 + \text{gate})} - \text{previous negative amount.}$$

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula in subsection (1),—

(a) other profit is the amount calculated for the income year under subsections (5) to (9):

(b) gate is the proportion of a policyholder's share of profits from the asset base that is used in the formula that calculates a transfer to the benefit of the life insurer's shareholders from the profits of the asset base, as described in paragraph (a)(iii) of the definition of profit participation policy:

(c) previous negative amount is the amount from the previous year described in subsections (3) and (4).

Formula: negative amounts and positive amounts

(3) If, for an income year, the formula in subsection (1) calculates a positive amount, that amount is included as income in the life insurer's shareholder base income. If it is a negative amount, then that amount is not included as a deduction in the life insurer's shareholder base allowable deductions, but see subsection (4).

Negative amounts: carry forward

(4) The amount by which the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (1) is less than zero is carried forward to the next income year, to be used under this section in the formula as the item previous negative amount in that next year.

Other profit

(5) For the purposes of the item other profit in subsection (2), an amount is calculated, for the income year (the current year) for profit participation policies that are new business, using the following formula:

(premiums − premiums estimate) − (claims − claims estimate)
− (closing policy liabilities − estimated closing policy liabilities).

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula in subsection (5),—

(a) premiums is the amount of premiums for policies for the current year, but subtracting relevant life reinsurance premiums:

(b) premiums estimate is the amount of valuation premiums that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that are in force at the start of the current year, or are first entered into in the current year, after subtracting the present value (net) of relevant life reinsurance premiums:

(c) claims is the amount of claims for the current year, after subtracting relevant life reinsurance claims:

(d) claims estimate is the actuarially determined amount of claims that the life insurer expected, using best estimate assumptions, to receive in the current year for policies that are in force at the start of the current year, or are first entered into in the current year, ignoring surrenders and after subtracting the present value (net) of relevant life reinsurance claims:

(e) closing policy liabilities is the amount of policy liabilities for policies determined at the end of the current year for vested benefits after the previous year's bonus declaration:

(f) estimated closing policy liabilities is the estimated policy liabilities at the end of the current year for policies in force at the start of the current year and expected to be in force at the end of the current year, taking into account vested benefits after the previous year's bonus. The estimated policy liabilities must not take into account any future bonus declarations, and must use best estimate assumptions.

Meaning of valuation premiums

(7) In this section, valuation premiums means the amount of premiums payable for a policy, actuarially determined by reference to the premium formula used when the policy was first entered into, or, if the premium formula is unavailable, by reference to mortality, expense, and other assumptions applicable to premiums for similar policies at the beginning of the income year in which the policy was first entered into. The valuation premiums must not include any allowance for future bonus declarations or future shareholder profits. The amount of the valuation premium for a policy must not change, unless significant changes to the policy justify changing the valuation premium.

Meaning of policy liabilities

(8) In this section, policy liabilities means, for a policy, an actuarially determined amount that is the present value (net) of future mortality and maturity claims, plus the present value (net) of future expenditure or loss, plus the present value (net) of future tax payments, less the present value (net) of future valuation premiums. The amount of policy liabilities must not include any allowance for surrenders or the payment of surrender values and relevant life reinsurance premiums and claims must be subtracted. The minimum amount of policy liabilities for a policy is the current surrender value of the policy.

Basis of best estimate assumptions in actuarially determining items

(9) The same best estimate assumptions must be used for actuarially determining the items premiums estimate, claims esti- mate, and policy liabilities in this section. The assumptions may be appropriate for the start of the year, or for the end of the year, but once the choice is made between start of the year and end of the year, the assumptions must not be changed.

Meaning of new business

(10) For the purposes of this section, new business means, for a policy, that it is not existing business under section EY 28.

Defined in this Act: actuarially determined, amount, best estimate assumptions, claim, existing business, income year, life insurance policy, life insurer, life reinsurance, new business, premium, present value (net), profit participation policy, valuation premiums

Transitional adjustments and annuities

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 190(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EY 30 Transitional adjustments: life risk

When this section applies: treatment of old and new policies

(1) This section applies to life insurance policies described in subsections (2) to (4). For the purposes of this section, a policy (the new policy) is treated as being issued at the same time as another policy (the old policy) that the new policy replaces, if the replacement is caused by—

(a) reinstating the old policy due to a lapse by the insured in premium payments, if the new policy comes into force within 90 days of the lapse, and the life insurer treats the new policy and old policy the same; or

(b) the life insurer being sold, or the life insurer selling its rights and obligations under the old policy.

Separation of products into separate policies for purposes of transitional adjustment

(1B) If a life insurance policy is comprised of 2 or more life insurance product types that are capable of being sold separately, and the life insurance cover amounts for each product type are separately identified in the policy, then each of the product types may be treated as a separate life insurance policy for the purposes of this section.

Life insurance policies

(2) This section applies to a life insurance policy, excluding an annuity, a multiple life policy through which the life insurer can look to the individual lives covered, credit card repayment insurance, and a workplace group policy, if the policy is issued by the life insurer before the grandparenting start day or if the life insurer receives an application and a deposit in money before the grandparenting start day for the policy which is issued after that day, and—

(a) the life insurer has no policyholder base income or policyholder base allowable deduction for the policy; and

(b) the policy meets the relevant requirements for the relevant period described in subsection (5)(a) to (c); and

(c) the amount of life insurance cover at the finish of a cover review period, or at the finish of any shorter period, if the life insurer chooses to measure within the cover review period, has not increased by more than the greater of 10% and the percentage change in the consumer price index for the relevant period, as compared to the amount of life insurance cover at the beginning of the relevant cover review period; and

(d) no new or replacement individual life is covered for a period beginning after the grandparenting start day.

Multiple life policies

(3) This section applies to a multiple life policy through which the life insurer can look to the individual lives covered, if the policy is issued by the life insurer before the grandparenting start day or if the life insurer receives an application and a deposit in money before the grandparenting start day for the policy which is issued after that day, and—

(a) the life insurer has no policyholder base income or policyholder base allowable deduction for the policy; and

(b) the policy meets the requirements for the period described in subsection (5)(c), or, looking through to the individual lives covered, to the extent to which the policy meets the requirements for the period described in subsection (5)(a), (b), or (c); and

(c) to the extent to which, looking through to the individual lives covered, the cover was first in place before the grandparenting start day; and

(d) the substantial and material terms and conditions of the policy do not change on or after the grandparenting start day; and

(e) either—

(i) to the extent to which, looking through to the individual lives covered, the amount of life insurance cover at the finish of a cover review period, or at the finish of any shorter period if the life insurer chooses to measure within the cover review period, has not increased by more than the greater of 10% and the percentage change in the consumer price index for the relevant period, as compared to the amount of life insurance cover at the beginning of the relevant cover review period; or

(ii) in the case of a policy that is life reinsurance, to the extent to which a relevant underlying life insurance policy is, or would be ignoring section EY 10(2), one that this subsection or subsection (2) applies to.

Credit card repayment insurance and workplace group policies

(4) This section applies to a credit card repayment insurance and to a workplace group policy, if the policy is issued by the life insurer before the grandparenting start day or if the life insurer receives an application and a deposit in money before the grandparenting start day, and—

(a) the life insurer has no policyholder base income or policyholder base allowable deduction for the policy; and

(b) the policy, if it is a credit card repayment insurance, meets the requirements for the period described in subsection (5)(c), or, if it is a workplace group policy, meets the requirements for the period described in subsection (5)(d); and

(c) [Repealed]

(d) the substantial and material terms and conditions of the policy do not change on or after the grandparenting start day.

Requirements and periods for which this section applies

(5) The following are the requirements and periods for the purposes of subsections (2)(b), (3)(b), and (4)(b), for a policy:

(a) for a life insurance policy for which only 1 premium is ever payable, or for which the amount of each premium is the same, the period that—

(i) starts on the grandparenting start day; and

(ii) finishes on the day that the policy ceases to be in force:

(b) for a life insurance policy for which the premium is set for a continuous period beginning before the grandparenting start day and for which the premium does not go up in that period (the continuous rate period) ignoring any increase directly linked to the percentage change in the consumer price index if that increase was the subject of agreement before the grandparenting start day, the period that starts on the grandparenting start day and ends on the later of the following:

(i) the day that is the last day of the continuous rate period:

(ii) whichever day described in paragraph (c)(i) and (ii) is earlier:

(c) for a life insurance policy for which the premium may vary each year, the period that starts on the grandparenting start day and ends on the earlier of the following:

(i) the day that the policy expires:

(ii) the day that is before the 5 years anniversary of the grandparenting start day:

(d) for a life insurance policy for which the premium may vary each year, the period that starts on the grandparenting start day and ends on the earlier of the following:

(i) the day that the policy expires:

(ii) the day that is before the 3 years anniversary of the grandparenting start day.

When this section does not apply: life insurance cover increase for whole cover review period

(5B) This section does not apply for a policy for the whole of an income year if a cover review period finishes in the year and, for that cover review period, there has been an increase in the amount of life insurance cover as described in subsection (2)(c) or (3)(e) and the life insurer has not made an election for measuring within the cover review period under those subsections.

When this section does not apply: continuity

(5C) This section does not apply for a policy for any period after this section has ceased to apply for the policy.

When this section does not apply: once-only opt out

(6) This section does not apply to a class of policies after the life insurer irrevocably chooses in a notice received by the Commissioner that this section does not apply for the class.

Adjustment

(7) A life insurer has an amount of shareholder base allowable deduction for a policy calculated using the following formula, to the extent to which this section applies for the relevant income year for the policy—premiums − total net reserving amounts − (1.2 × expected death strain).

Definition of items in formula

(8) In the formula,—

(a) premiums is the life insurer's total premiums for the income year or part of the income year, as applicable, for the policy, but subtracting relevant life reinsurance premiums:

(b) total net reserving amounts is the total of reserving amounts for the income year or part of the income year, as applicable, for the policy, under section EY 25 or EY 26 (as applicable), but treating amounts that are shareholder base income as negative amounts, and amounts that are shareholder base allowable deductions as positive amounts:

(c) expected death strain is the amount calculated under the expected death strain formula (life) in accordance with sections EZ 53 to EZ 60 (which relate to the transitional adjustment for expected death strain) for the income year or part of the income year, as applicable, for the policy.

Negative amounts

(9) If subsection (7) gives a negative amount for a policy, it is ignored for that policy.

Meaning of cover review period

(10) Cover review period means—

(a) the relevant income year, if the life insurer has not chosen a different period under paragraph (b):

(b) a period of a year that has a starting and anniversary date that the life insurer irrevocably chooses, for a class of policies, in a return of income for the tax year corresponding to the income year in which the grandparenting start day is included.

Meaning of credit card repayment insurance

(11) Credit card repayment insurance means a life insurance policy, if the benefits of the cover are for the repayment of an outstanding debt balance of a credit card, or life reinsurance to the extent to which it reinsures such a life insurance policy.

Meaning of employer sponsored group policies
[Repealed]

(12) [Repealed]

Meaning of grandparenting start day

(13) Grandparenting start day means—

(a) 1 July 2010, if paragraph (b) does not apply:

(b) a life insurer's early life regime application day, if the life insurer irrevocably chooses that day as their grandparenting start day.

Meaning of multiple life policy

(14) Multiple life policy—

(a) means a life insurance policy with multiple individuals' life insurance cover grouped under it, if the group of individuals is identified in the policy:

(b) does not include—

(i) a workplace group policy:
(ii) credit card repayment insurance:
(iii) life reinsurance to the extent to which it reinsures a workplace group policy or credit card repayment insurance.

Meaning of workplace group policy

(15) Workplace group policy means a life insurance policy with multiple individuals' life insurance cover grouped under it, or life reinsurance to the extent to which it reinsures such a life insurance policy, if—

(a) the individuals under the policy are—
(i) a group that includes, or consists of, a class of employees of an employer or group of employers, and may include 1 or more of the employers or directors of the employers, and the policy is sponsored by the employers or by the trustees of a superannuation scheme:
(ii) members of a union registered under the Employment Relations Act 2000 or members of an industry association, and the union or association is the sponsor of the policy:

(b) in the case of the sponsor being the employer,—
(i) the employer is required to offer an employee who is a member of the relevant class the opportunity to join the life insurance policy; and
(ii) the life insurer and the employer have entered an agreement about who pays the premium.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, cover review period, credit card repayment insurance, class of policies, early life regime application day, grandparenting start day, group life master policy, income year, life insurance, life insurer, life reinsurance, pay, policyholder base allowable deduction, policyholder base income, shareholder base allowable deduction, shareholder base income, workplace group policy

(a) remains after adjustment under subsection (3) or (6) (the suspended recovery income); and

(b) is attributed to an income year by subsection (7).

Effect of acquiring item of replacement property if suspended recovery income from affected property not in pool

(3) If the person acquires an item of replacement property (the replacement item) and links the replacement item with affected property for which the person does not use the pool method, the amount given by subsection (4)—

(a) is treated as not being included in the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item, for the purposes of determining—

(i) under section EE 16(4) (Amount resulting from standard calculation) the item value or cost for the replacement item, if the person uses the diminishing value method or straight-line method for the replacement item; or

(b) is a reduction in the amount of the suspended recovery income for the affected property.

Amount of reduction: expenditure on replacement item and suspended recovery income

(4) The amount of the reduction under subsection (3)(a) or (b) for a replacement item and affected property for which the person does not use the pool method is—

(b) excess is the excess recovery for the affected property:

(c) affected cost is the total cost for the person of the affected property.

(6) If the person acquires an item of replacement property (the replacement item) and links the replacement item with affected property for which the person uses the pool method,—

(a) the amount of the person's expenditure on the replacement item is treated as being reduced, by the amount equal to the lesser of the amount of expenditure on the replacement item and the amount of suspended recovery income for the affected property after the acquisition of other replacement property with or before the replacement item, for the purposes of determining—

(i) the adjusted tax value of the replacement item, if subparagraphs (ii) or (iii) do not apply; or

(ii) the cost of the replacement item for the straight-line method, if that method is used to determine depreciation loss for the replacement item; and

Amount of depreciation recovery income

(8) The person has, in an income year for affected property, an amount of depreciation recovery income equal to the amount of suspended recovery income for the affected property—

(a) at the end of the income year, if that year is the 2015–16 income year and neither of paragraphs (b) and (c) apply earlier; or

(b) when in the income year the person decides not to acquire more replacement property, if neither of paragraphs (a) and (c) apply earlier; or

EZ 32C Treatment in section EX 20C of currency effects on CFC's borrowing

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a person for an accounting period (the current period) and a CFC when—

(a) the CFC is not an entity that carries on a business of banking or insurance and is not controlled by such an entity; and

(b) the main activity of the CFC in the period described in subsection (9) (the offset period) is borrowing to invest in shares in a foreign company controlled by the CFC; and

(c) the CFC is a party to financial arrangements (the funding arrangements) for each of which—

(i) the financial arrangement is a liability of the CFC providing funds to the CFC; and

(ii) when the financial arrangement is entered, none of the parties to the financial arrangement, the person, and the associated persons, has a reasonable expectation that the CFC will have more income than expenditure under the financial arrangement; and

(d) as a result of changes in currency exchange rates, the CFC has an amount (a loan currency amount) of loss (treated as a negative amount) or gain (treated as a positive amount) from a funding arrangement for the current period; and

(e) the CFC has a loan currency amount from a funding arrangement for an accounting period—

(i) other than the current period; and

(ii) in the offset period for the current period; and

(f) for either accounting period, a loan currency amount is included in the calculation for the funding arrangement of the amount of expenditure that contributes to the item limited funding costs in the formula in section EX 20C(2) (Net attributable CFC income or loss); and

(g) for the relevant accounting period, the contribution of the item limited funding costs to the CFC's net attributable CFC income or net attributable CFC loss is reduced because the item fraction in that formula is less than 1; and

(h) the person chooses in a return of income to have this section apply to the income year corresponding to the accounting period or to an earlier income year.

Included loan currency amount for funding arrangement and current period

(2) For a funding arrangement having a loan currency amount for an accounting period (the currency movement period) in the offset period that is included in the calculation of an item, other than later losses, in the formula in section EX 20C(2), an amount (the included currency amount) relating to the currency movement period is calculated for the item, the funding arrangement, and the current period using the formula—currency contribution × fraction − earlier adjustments.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula in subsection (2),—

(a) currency contribution is the loan currency amount contributed to the item for the funding arrangement and the currency movement period:

(b) fraction is—

(i) 1, if the loan currency amount is included in the calculation of the item attributable CFC; or

(ii) the value for the funding arrangement and the currency movement period of the item fraction in the formula in section EX 20C(2), to the extent that the loan currency amount is included in the calculation of the item limited funding costs; or

(iii) the fraction of the loan currency amount that is included in the item other deductions, to the extent that the loan currency amount is included in the calculation of that item:

(c) earlier adjustments is the total amount of adjustments (treated as positive amounts) to the included currency amount for the funding arrangement and the currency movement period, each resulting from the application of subsection (7) for an accounting period that is not the current period and is in the offset period.

Conditions for adjustment of included currency amounts

(4) For the current period, subsection (7) applies to decrease included currency amounts that are zero or negative and relate to funding arrangements and currency movement periods in the offset period if, for the offset period and the funding arrangements of the CFC, the total of the included currency amounts—

(a) is greater than zero; and

(b) is greater than the total of the loan currency amounts.

Total amount of adjustments for included currency amounts

(5) For the current period, subsection (7) decreases included currency amounts referred to in subsection (4) by a total amount (the total current adjustment) equal to the lowest of the following:

(a) the total, for the offset period and the funding arrangements, of the included currency amounts:

(b) the amount obtained for the offset period and the funding arrangements by subtracting the total of the loan currency amounts from the total of the included currency amounts:

(c) the total of the amounts calculated, for each accounting period in the offset period and each funding arrangement, using the formula—loan contribution × fraction − earlier adjustments.

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula in subsection (5)(c),—

(a) loan contribution is the amount included in the calculation of an item, other than later losses, in the formula in section EX 20C(2) for the funding arrangement and the accounting period:

(b) fraction is—

(i) 1, if the amount is included in the calculation of the item attributable CFC; or

(ii) the value for the funding arrangement and the accounting period of the item fraction in the formula in section EX 20C(2), to the extent that the amount is included in the calculation of the item limited funding costs; or

(iii) the fraction of the amount that is included in the item other deductions, to the extent that the amount is included in the calculation of that item:

(c) earlier adjustments is the total amount of adjustments (treated as positive amounts) to the amount for the funding arrangement and the accounting period, each resulting from the application of subsection (7) for an accounting period that is not the current period and is in the offset period.

Adjustment of included currency amount for funding arrangement and period

(7) The amount of the total current adjustment is—

(a) applied first to the current period and then, in the order of earliest to latest, to the other accounting periods in the offset period:

(b) reduced, for each accounting period, by an amount corresponding to the total amount subtracted under paragraph (d) for the accounting period, with the result being the amount (the available current adjustment) available to be applied to the next accounting period referred to in paragraph (a):

(c) applied for funding arrangements having, for an accounting period,—

(i) a negative loan currency amount that contributed an amount of expenditure to the item limited funding costs in the formula in section EX 20C(2); and

(ii) an included currency amount that is negative or zero and from which the loan currency amount can be obtained by subtracting a positive amount (the difference):

(d) applied for each such funding arrangement, for the accounting period, by subtracting from the included currency amount for the funding arrangement an amount calculated using the formula—

$$\text{difference} \times \frac{\text{available}}{\text{total differences.}}$$

Definition of items in formula

(8) In the formula in subsection (7)(d),—

(a) difference is the amount of the difference for the funding arrangement and the accounting period:

(b) available is the lesser of the available current adjustment for the accounting period and the total amount of differences for the accounting period:

(c) total differences is the total amount of differences for the accounting period.

Requirements for accounting periods in which adjustments made

(9) For a current period for a CFC, adjustments may be made under subsection (7) for a funding arrangement and an accounting period if the following requirements are met:

(a) the accounting period is the current period or 1 of the 4 accounting periods immediately before the current period; and

(b) the accounting period begins on or after 1 July 2009; and

(c) the CFC is resident under section YD 3 (Country of residence of foreign companies) in the same country or territory for the period (the continuity period) consisting of the current period, the accounting period, and the accounting periods between the accounting period and the current period; and

(d) a group of persons exists that has, for the CFC and the continuity period,—

(i) voting interests of 49% or more in total; and

(ii) market value interests of 49% or more in total.

Amount of adjustment included in item later losses in section EX 20C

(10) For the purposes of section EX 20C(9B), the amount of an adjustment under subsection (7) for a CFC's funding arrangement and an accounting period is included in the item later losses for the funding arrangement and the accounting period.

Amount of adjustment is expenditure of CFC under funding arrangement

(11) For the purposes of section EW 31 (Base price adjustment formula), the amount of an adjustment under subsection (7) for a CFC's funding arrangement and an accounting period is expenditure incurred by the CFC under the funding arrangement in the accounting period to the extent that the included currency amount corresponding to the adjustment is not, in the absence of this subsection, included in expenditure incurred under the funding arrangement in the accounting period.

Carrying back loss amounts arising from adjustments

(12) If adjustments for a CFC under subsection (7) for an accounting period result in a net loss, or an increase in the net loss, of the person for the corresponding income year, the person—

(a) may use under section DZ 19 (Attributed CFC loss carried back under section EZ 32C) the amount of the net loss, or of the increase, to offset net income—

(i) for an earlier income year in the offset period; and

(ii) that has not previously been offset under this subsection; and

(iii) to the extent given by subsection (13); and

(b) must not use in the corresponding income year the amount of net loss carried back to the earlier income year.

Limit on loss amounts carried back

(13) The total amount of net loss carried back under subsection (12) to an earlier income year must not exceed the amount, calculated for the earlier income year in the absence of adjustments under subsection (7) and offsets under subsection (12), that is the lesser of—

(a) the net income, or the increase in net income, of the person for the earlier income year produced by including foreign currency amounts in the calculation of net attributable CFC income or loss from CFCs; and

(b) the net income, or the increase in net income, of the person for the earlier income year produced by including net attributable CFC income or loss from funding arrangements of CFCs.

No interest if tax payment excessive because of offset under subsection (12)

(14) An amount of tax paid by a person for an income year is not overpaid tax for the purposes of Part 7 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 to the extent that the amount—

(a) exceeds the income tax liability of the person for the income year because of the use under subsection (12) of net loss from a later income year to offset net income; and

(b) is paid before the offset occurs.

Defined in this Act: accounting period, associated person, attributable CFC amount, CFC, financial arrangement, income year, market value interest, net attributable CFC income, net attributable CFC loss, net income, net loss, return of income, voting interest

EZ 35 Accruals in relation to income and expenditure in respect of financial arrangements

(1) For the purpose of calculating the amount deemed to be income or expenditure of any person under subsections (2) to (7), regard must be had to,—

(a) if the person is a holder in relation to the financial arrangement,—

(i) the amount of all consideration paid and to be paid to the person in relation to the financial arrangement; and

(ii) any amount remitted and to be remitted by the person in relation to the financial arrangement; and

(iii) the acquisition price of the financial arrangement in relation to the person; and

(b) if the person is an issuer in relation to the financial arrangement,—

(i) the amount of all consideration paid and to be paid by the person in relation to the financial arrangement; and

(ii) the acquisition price of the financial arrangement in relation to the person.

(2) Subject to this section, where any person is a holder or an issuer of a financial arrangement, the amount that is deemed to be income or expenditure of that person in respect of the financial arrangement in any income year is an amount calculated using the yield to maturity method so as to result in the allocation to each income year of an amount that is fair and reasonable, and such amount so allocated to each income year is income deemed to be derived by or expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement in the income year:

provided that the Commissioner must accept an alternative method to the yield to maturity method, that has regard to the principles of accrual accounting, and—

(a) conforms with commercially acceptable practice; and

(b) except to the extent that the Commissioner may otherwise allow under subsection (8), is adopted by the person and is or will be consistently applied in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes; and

(c) results in the allocation to each income year of amounts that are not materially different from amounts that would be calculated but for this proviso.

(3) Notwithstanding subsection (2), but subject to the other provisions of this section, where in any income year the total value of all financial arrangements of which a person is a holder or an issuer has on no day within that income year exceeded $1,500,000 or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare for the purposes of this section,—

(a) the person may calculate income or expenditure for that income year in respect of those financial arrangements by using the straight-line method so as to result in the allocation to that income year and subsequent income years of amounts that are fair and reasonable in respect of those arrangements; and

(b) where the straight-line method is used under paragraph (a), that method must be used by the person in respect of all financial arrangements of which the person was the holder or issuer during that income year; and

(c) where the person has in accordance with this subsection calculated income or expenditure using the straight-line method in respect of a financial arrangement for any income year, the person must, unless otherwise authorised in writing by the Commissioner, continue to use that method in respect of that financial arrangement for any subsequent income year, until the maturity, remittance, sale, or other transfer of the arrangement, notwithstanding that the total value of all financial arrangements of which the person is holder or issuer may at any time in any such subsequent income year exceed $1,500,000 or such other amount as may be declared for the purposes of this section,— and any amount calculated in respect of a financial arrangement in accordance with this subsection is income deemed to be derived by or expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement for the relevant income year.

(4) For the purposes of subsection (3), a person must take into account financial arrangements to which subpart EW applies.

(5) For the purposes of subsection (3),—

(a) the value of any financial arrangement to be taken into account in determining whether the total value of all financial arrangements of which a person is the holder or issuer on any day exceeds $1,500,000 or such other amount as may be declared for the purposes of this section is,—

(i) in the case of a fixed principal financial arrangement, the nominal or face value of the arrangement; and

(ii) in the case of a variable principal debt instrument, the amount owing by or to the person under the arrangement on the relevant day; and

(iii) in the case of a financial arrangement to which subpart EW applies, the value determined under that subpart; and

(b) in the first income year for which income or expenditure is calculated under subsection (3) in respect of a financial arrangement that—

(i) was acquired or issued by the person in a previous income year; and the amount of income or expenditure of the person in respect of that financial arrangement for that first income year is an amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

(ii) continues to be held or issued by the person at the end of the first income year for which income or expenditure is calculated under subsection (3),—

$$a - b - c + d$$

a is the sum of all amounts that would have been income derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement if the straight-line method referred to in subsection (3) had been applied to the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired or issued by the person until the end of that first income year

b is the sum of all amounts that would have been expenditure incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement if the straight-line method referred to in subsection (3) had been applied to the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired or issued by the person until the end of that first income year

c is the sum of all amounts of income deemed to have been derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement before the commencement of that first income year

d is the sum of all amounts deemed to have been expenditure incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement before the commencement of that first income year;—

and any amount so calculated is, if a positive amount, deemed to be income derived by the person in that first income year and, if a negative amount, deemed to be expenditure incurred by the person in that first income year.

(6) Where it is not possible to calculate an amount to be deemed to be income or expenditure in respect of a financial arrangement using the yield to maturity method as provided for in subsection (2) or (in a case to which subsection (3) applies) the straight-line method as provided for in subsection (3), the amount that is deemed to be income or expenditure of the person in any income year is an amount calculated by the person—

(a) using the method, if any, prescribed by the Commissioner for the financial arrangement in a determination made under section 90(1)(c) of the Tax Administration Act 1994:

provided that the Commissioner must accept an alternative method to the method prescribed in any such determination that has regard to the principles of accrual accounting, and—

(i) conforms with commercially acceptable practice; and

(ii) except to the extent that the Commissioner may otherwise allow under subsection (8), is adopted by the person and is or will be consistently applied in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes; and

(iii) results in the allocation to each income year of amounts that are not materially different from the amounts that would be calculated, but for this proviso; and

(b) in the absence of any such determination, by applying a method that meets the requirements of subparagraphs (i) and (ii) of the proviso to paragraph (a) and that results in the allocation to each income year of an amount that, having regard to the tenor of subsection (2), is fair and reasonable;—

and such amount of income or expenditure so allocated to each income year is income deemed to be derived or, as the case may be, expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in the income year.

(7) Notwithstanding subsections (2) and (6), the Commissioner must accept an alternative method for calculating the amount to be deemed to be income or expenditure of the person, in respect of a financial arrangement, to the methods provided for under subsections (2) and (6), if the alternative method has regard to market valuation, and—

(a) conforms with commercially acceptable practice; and

(b) except to the extent that the Commissioner may otherwise allow under subsection (8), is adopted by the person and is or will be consistently applied in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes; and

(c) either—

(i) the business of the person comprises dealing in such financial arrangements; or

(ii) the financial arrangement is a forward or future contract for foreign exchange, or a futures contract; and

(d) the market, the method, and the source of the information used to determine the market values have been approved by the Commissioner under a determination issued under section 90(1)(e) of the Tax Administration Act 1994; and

(e) the person and any other person who is a holder (where the person is an issuer) or an issuer (where the person is a holder) of the financial arrangement are not associated persons;—

and such amount of income or expenditure so calculated is income deemed to be derived or, as the case may be, expenditure deemed to be incurred by the person in respect of the financial arrangement in the income year:

provided that where income or expenditure in respect of a financial arrangement has been calculated by a person under this subsection, income or expenditure in respect of that financial arrangement must, except as otherwise allowed under subsection (8), continue to be calculated on that basis by that person until the maturity, remittance, sale, or other transfer of the arrangement.

(8) Where a method of calculating income or expenditure in respect of a financial arrangement fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (b) of the proviso to subsection (2) or subparagraph (ii) of the proviso to subsection (6)(a) or (7)(b) by virtue of the fact that the method is not or will not be consistently applied by a person in respect of all such financial arrangements for financial reporting purposes, that method is nevertheless deemed to meet the relevant one of those provisions where the method—

(a) appropriately reflects the dominant purpose for which the person acquired or issued the financial arrangement (or each such arrangement); and

(b) has been and will be consistently applied by the person in respect of the particular financial arrangement (or each such financial arrangement) for the purposes of the old financial arrangements rules for every income year during its term (except to the extent that the Commissioner approves or may approve a change in method under the circumstances or conditions specified in a determination under section 90(1)(f) of the Tax Administration Act 1994); and

(c) is not adopted for purposes that include the purpose of tax avoidance; and

(d) has been approved by the Commissioner for adoption in the circumstances applicable to the taxpayer either by notice to the taxpayer or in a determination issued under section 90 of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

(9) Subsections (2) to (7) do not apply—

(a) to a cash basis holder; or

(b) in relation to a financial arrangement and a person, in any income year where section EZ 38 applies to that person and to that financial arrangement; or

(c) in relation to a financial arrangement where—

(i) the financial arrangement is held by a trustee upon trust for the management of compensation paid for personal injury where that compensation is paid under the Workers Compensation Act 1956 or the Accident Compensation Act 1972 or the Accident Compensation Act 1982 or the Accident Rehabilitation and Compensation Insurance Act 1992 or the Accident Compensation Act 2001 or an order of court; and

(ii) the trustee is, or if it were a natural person would be, a cash basis holder in respect of the financial arrangement.

(10) For the purposes of this section, the Commissioner may determine whether and to what extent any issuer or class of issuers is not required to comply with this section in relation to expenditure incurred or income derived in respect of any class of financial arrangements, having regard to—

(a) the nature and amount of the expenditure incurred or income derived by the issuer or class of issuers in respect of financial arrangements of that class; and

(b) the costs of the issuer or class of issuers in complying with this section in relation to the class of financial arrangements; and

(c) whether, in respect of that issuer or class of issuers and that class of financial arrangements, the application of the discretion given to the Commissioner under this subsection would result in a material difference in the amount of deductions or income allocated to any income year, in relation to the amount that would have been allocated had the discretion not been exercised.

(11) The Commissioner may at any time cancel any determination made in respect of any person or class of persons under subsection (10).

EZ 37 Cash basis holder

(1) Subject to this section, a natural person is a cash basis holder in respect of financial arrangements held by that person in any income year, where—

(a) either—

(i) the income derived by that person in that income year in respect of those financial arrangements, calculated in accordance with subpart EW or section EZ 35 or EZ 38, as the case may be, does not exceed $70,000 (or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare); or

(ii) the total value of financial arrangements held by the person in the income year does not exceed at any time in the income year $600,000 (or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare), the value in respect of each financial arrangement being,—

(A) in the case of a fixed principal financial arrangement, the greater of the acquisition price of the arrangement or the nominal or face value of the arrangement; and

(B) in the case of a variable principal debt instrument, the amount of money owing to the person according to the arrangement; and

(C) in the case of a financial arrangement to which subpart EW applies, the value determined under that subpart; and

(b) the difference between the following amounts does not exceed $20,000 (or such greater amount as the Governor-General may by Order in Council declare):

(i) the amount of income that would be calculated by the person for the income year—

(A) using, at the option of the person, either the yield to maturity method or the straight-line method referred to in section EZ 35(3) (regardless of whether or not the person is entitled or has opted to use that method) or in accordance with subpart EW, as the case may be, or, where it is not possible to calculate an amount of income or expenditure in respect of the financial arrangements by using either of those methods, an alternative method approved by the Commissioner; and

(B) under either section EW 31 or EZ 38—in respect of financial arrangements held by the person at the end of the income year; and

(ii) the amount of income that would be calculated by the person for the income year in respect of financial arrangements held by the person at the end of the income year if the person were a cash basis holder.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), a person must take into account financial arrangements to which subpart EW applies.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in subsection (1), the Commissioner may,—

(a) where the Commissioner is satisfied, having regard to the tenor of section EZ 35(2), that treatment of a class of financial arrangements other than under section EZ 35 results in a fair and reasonable allocation of income or expenditure among income years, deem natural persons to be cash basis holders in respect of such financial arrangements; and

(b) where the Commissioner is satisfied that a class of financial arrangements has been structured and promoted with the objective of postponing any liability to income tax which would have arisen had those financial arrangements not been so structured, deem natural persons not to be cash basis holders in respect of such financial arrangements.

(4) In any income year where a person who was a cash basis holder in the previous income year ceases to be a cash basis holder, the person must take into account, in calculating income or deductions for the income year, an accruals basis adjustment, in respect of every financial arrangement (other than arrangements that are already dealt with according to section EZ 35 or in respect of which the Commissioner has exercised the discretion given under subsection (3)(a)) acquired in a previous income year and held by the person at the end of the income year equal to an amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

a is the sum of all amounts which would have been income derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had not been a cash basis holder at any time during that period

b is the sum of all amounts that would have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date the financial arrangement was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had not been a cash basis holder at any time during the period

c is the sum of all amounts of income of the person in respect of the financial arrangement since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year

d is the sum of all amounts that have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year;—

and the person must not take into account in the income year any other amount in respect of any such financial arrangement except those calculated under the accruals basis adjustment.

(5) In any income year where a person who was not a cash basis holder in the previous income year becomes a cash basis holder, that person may take into account, in calculating income or deductions for the income year, a cash basis adjustment, in respect of every financial arrangement (other than arrangements already treated on a cash basis) acquired in a previous income year and held by the person at the end of the income year, equal to an amount calculated in accordance with the following formula:

a is the sum of all amounts which would have been income derived by the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date it was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had been a cash basis holder in respect of the financial arrangement for the whole of that period

b is the sum of all amounts which would have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement from the date the financial arrangement was acquired to the end of the income year if the person had been a cash basis holder in respect of the financial arrangement for the whole of the period

c is the sum of all amounts treated as income of the person in respect of the financial arrangement since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year

d is the sum of all amounts that have been deductions of the person in respect of the financial arrangement

since it was acquired to the end of the previous income year;—

and, where the cash basis adjustment has been taken into account, the person must not take into account any other amount in respect of any such financial arrangement in the income year except those calculated under the cash basis adjustment:

provided that the person is deemed not to be a cash basis holder in relation to any financial arrangement in respect of which the person does not take into account a cash basis adjustment.

(6) The amount of the accruals basis adjustment or the cash basis adjustment in respect of any financial arrangement and any income year is,—

(a) where it is a positive amount, income deemed to be derived by the holder in the income year; and

(b) where it is a negative amount, deemed to be a deduction of the holder in the income year.

(7) For the purposes of subsection (1), but subject to subsections (8) and (9),—

(a) all income in respect of financial arrangements that is trustee income or beneficiary income under the trust rules is disregarded, as is the value of all such financial arrangements producing such income; and

(b) no person who holds such financial arrangements is a cash basis holder in relation to such financial arrangements.

(8) Subsection (7) does not apply to financial arrangements held on a bare trust, or to income in respect of such financial arrangements, and the financial arrangements held and the income derived by the trustees is treated as being held or, as the case may be, derived by a beneficiary of the trust to the extent of the beneficiary's share of the beneficial interest in the financial arrangement.

(9) Where a deceased person was at the time of his or her death a cash basis holder,—

(a) nothing in subsection (7) or in any requirement under this section that a cash basis holder be a natural person, in respect of the income year in which the death occurred and in each of the 4 immediately succeeding income years, applies to prevent the trustee of the estate of the deceased person from being a cash basis holder for the purposes of this Act in respect of financial arrangements issued or held by the estate, where the estate would otherwise qualify as a cash basis holder under this section; but

(b) if at any time during those income years the estate ceases to so otherwise qualify as a cash basis holder, it does not again qualify to become a cash basis holder by operation of paragraph (a);—

and for the purposes of subsections (4) and (5), any trustee of an estate who is a cash basis holder under this subsection is deemed to be the same person as the deceased cash basis holder.

(e) anything in respect of which expenditure is incurred and which, if possession were taken, would fall within any of paragraphs (a) to (d);—

but does not include any financial arrangement variable principal debt instrument means a bank deposit account or other financial arrangement where it is contemplated that the holder may—

(a) advance further sums to the issuer; or

(b) where the rights and obligations of the person under the financial arrangement are expressed in a currency other than New Zealand currency, require the return of sums advanced to the issuer—in either case upon demand or call, and where all such sums form part of that bank deposit account or other instrument.

EZ 49 Determination of core acquisition price where consideration for property denominated in foreign currency

(1) For the purposes of paragraph (c) of the definition of core acquisition price in section EZ 48, if the consideration payable under the relevant financial arrangement for the specified property is denominated in a foreign currency, the lowest price referred to in that paragraph must be the lowest price the parties would have agreed upon in that foreign currency converted into New Zealand dollars using, at the option of the taxpayer,—

(a) the rate, on the day on which the financial arrangement was entered into (in this section referred to as the contract date), available to the taxpayer from a New Zealand registered bank for the exchange of New Zealand dollars for that foreign currency on the day on which the first right in the specified property is to be transferred (in this section referred to as the rights date); or

(b) if the period between the rights date and the day on which final payment is to be made under the financial arrangement (in this section referred to as the settlement date) is not greater than 5 years, the rate, on the contract date, available to the taxpayer from a New Zealand registered bank for the exchange of New Zealand dollars for that foreign currency on the settlement date; or

(c) an exchange rate approved by the Commissioner for adoption under this subsection in the circumstances applicable to the taxpayer in a determination issued under section 90(1)(k) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

(2) The rate adopted by a taxpayer in relation to a financial arrangement under subsection (1) must be consistently applied by that taxpayer in respect of that particular financial arrangement for the purposes of the old financial arrangements rules for every income year during its term.

(3) If the terms of the financial arrangement referred to in subsection (1) are such that the actual rights date is uncertain as at the contract date, then the rights date is for the purposes of subsection (1) the date on which it is reasonably expected by the parties at the time of entering into the financial arrangement that the first right in the specified property will be transferred.

(4) If the terms of the financial arrangement referred to in subsection (1) are such that the actual settlement date is uncertain as at the contract date, then the settlement date is for the purposes of subsection (1) the date on which it is reasonably expected by the parties at the time of entering into the financial arrangement that final payment will be made.

EZ 50 Rules for non-market transactions

(1) Where the Commissioner, having regard to any connection between the parties to the issue or transfer of a financial arrangement and to any other relevant circumstances, is satisfied that the parties were dealing with each other in relation to the issue or transfer in a manner that has the effect of defeating the intent and application of the old financial arrangements rules, the Commissioner may, under section EZ 35 or EZ 37 or EZ 38 or EZ 42, deem the consideration for the issue or transfer to be equal to the consideration that might reasonably be expected for the issue or transfer if the parties to the issue or transfer were independent parties dealing at arm's length with each other in relation to the issue or transfer.

(2) If at any time a person not resident in New Zealand—

(a) commences to hold, whether temporarily or otherwise, a financial arrangement, for the purposes of a business carried on through a fixed establishment in New Zealand, the person is deemed to have acquired the financial arrangement at that time; or

(b) ceases to hold, whether temporarily or otherwise, a financial arrangement for the purposes of a business carried on through a fixed establishment in New Zealand, the person is deemed to have disposed of the financial arrangement at that time; or

(c) being a holder or an issuer of a financial arrangement, becomes a New Zealand resident, the person is deemed to acquire or to issue the financial arrangement at the time at which the person becomes a New Zealand resident;—

and that acquisition or that disposal is deemed to have been made for a consideration equal to the consideration that might reasonably be expected for the acquisition or disposal if the acquisition or disposal had been made at arm's length.

(3) A financial arrangement is treated as having been sold and purchased or transferred and realised at its market value on the date of its sale or transfer if the sale or transfer, including a transfer by way of distribution to shareholders, is not for consideration in money or is for a consideration that is less than the market value of the financial arrangement.

(4) The market value of a financial arrangement is the market value for both seller and purchaser or transferor and transferee.

EZ 51 Transitional adjustment when changing to financial arrangements rules

(1) A person may elect to apply the financial arrangements rules to a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply.

(2) A person who makes an election must apply the financial arrangements rules to all financial arrangements to which the person is a holder or an issuer.

(3) Despite subsections (1) and (2), a person must apply section EZ 38 if that section applies to a financial arrangement in the income year in which the election is made.

(4) Once an election is made, the financial arrangement is subject to the financial arrangements rules and is treated in the same way as a financial arrangement that was entered into on or after 20 May 1999.

(5) A person who makes an election must calculate a transitional adjustment for the income year of election and return the resulting income or expenditure.

(6) The transitional adjustment is calculated using the formula—income (financial arrangements rules) - expenditure (financial arrangements rules) - income (old financial arrangements rules) + expenditure (old financial arrangements rules)

where—

income (financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of income that would be derived by the person from the financial arrangement if the financial arrangements rules were applied to the financial arrangement for the period beginning on the date the person acquires the arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year in which this calculation is made expenditure (financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of expenditure that would be incurred by the person under the financial arrangement if the financial arrangements rules were applied to the financial arrangement for the period beginning on the date the person acquires the arrangement and ending on the last day of the income year in which this calculation is made income (old financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of income of the person from the financial arrangement in all income years before the income year in which this calculation is made expenditure (old financial arrangements rules) is the total amount of expenditure incurred by the person under the financial arrangement in all income years before the income year in which this calculation is made.

(7) The result of the transitional adjustment is,—

(a) if a positive amount, income derived by the person in the income year; and

(b) if a negative amount, expenditure incurred by the person in the income year.

(8) In the income year in which the transitional adjustment is made to a financial arrangement, a person must take into account only the income derived or the expenditure incurred as a result of the adjustment for the financial arrangement.

(9) Despite subsections (2) to (8), a person is treated as transferring a financial arrangement at market value at the end of the income year of election and must calculate a base price adjustment under section EZ 38 if—

(a) the financial arrangement is an arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply; and

(b) the financial arrangement were entered into on or after 20 May 1999 and would not have been subject to the financial arrangements rules; and

(c) the person elects to apply the financial arrangements rules to a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply.

Compare: 2004 No 35 s EZ 48

EZ 52 References to new rules include old rules

(1) Subsection (2) applies if—

(a) the old financial arrangement rules apply to a financial arrangement (old financial arrangement); and

(b) a taxation law in this Act (rewritten law) refers only to, or applies only to, a financial arrangement to which the financial arrangements rules apply; and

(c) the rewritten law is in neither subpart EW nor sections EZ 33 to EZ 51; and

(d) the rewritten law corresponds to and replaces, with or without amendments, a taxation law that applied to the old financial arrangement before 20 May 1999.

(2) The rewritten law applies to the old financial arrangement as if the rewritten law referred to, or applied to, a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply.

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply to—

(a) a definition, or parts of a definition, in section YA 1 if that definition or part refers to section EZ 48; or

(b) section GB 21, because the former taxation law to which it corresponds has been re-enacted as section EZ 50.

(4) Section FM 8(3)(b)(ii) applies to a financial arrangement to which the old financial arrangements rules apply as if—

(a) the reference to section EW 31 were to section EZ 38; and

(b) the words "financial arrangements rules" read "old financial arrangements rules".

EZ 52B Consistency of use of IFRS method: Determination G3 change allowed

When this section applies

(1) This section applies to a financial arrangement of a person—

(a) for the 2009–10 income year, unless paragraph (b) or (c) applies:

(b) for the 2008–09 or the 2009–10 income year (a retrospective year) if—

(i) the financial arrangement is subject to a creditor workout in a retrospective year; and

(ii) the person notifies the Commissioner in writing of their election to apply this section to the financial arrangement for a retrospective year:

(c) for an income year after the 2009–10 income year, if—

(i) the financial arrangement is subject to a creditor workout in the relevant income year; and

(ii) the person notifies the Commissioner in writing of their election to apply this section to the financial arrangement for the relevant income year before the last day for filing a return of income for that income year.

Exception modified

(2) For the purposes of the exception in section EW 25B(2) (Consistency of use of IFRS method), the person may change a method for IFRS for the financial arrangement if—

(a) the method they change to or from is Determination G3 under section EW 15E(2)(aa) (Determination alternatives) or an alternative to Determination G3 under section EW 15E(2)(e) (What is included when spreading methods used); and

(b) that method is available to them to use.

Defined in this Act: creditor workout, financial arrangement, IFRS, income year

Section EZ 52B: added (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 6 October 2009, by section 198 of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

Section EZ 52B(2)(a): amended (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 7 December 2009, by section 40 of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 63).

EZ 52C Change of spreading method: Determination G22 to Determination G22A

How and when this section applies

(1) This section does not alter or affect a person's tax position in relation to Determination G22: Optional convertible notes denominated in New Zealand dollars convertible at the option of the holder or the person's litigation of their tax position in relation to Determination G22. It does not alter or affect the Commissioner's assessment of, or litigation of, that tax position. It applies after Determination G22 has applied for a person's financial arrangement, and only if, for the financial arrangement,—

(a) Determination G22A: Optional convertible notes denominated in New Zealand dollars did not apply while Determination G22 applied, because of the application of section 90AE of the Tax Administration Act 1994, or the application of Determination G22A, clause 3(1)(b); and

(b) Determination G22A starts applying immediately after—

(i) section 90AE of the Tax Administration Act 1994 stops applying; or

(ii) Determination G22A, clause 3(1)(b) stops applying.

Spreading method adjustment

(2) Despite sections EW 26 and EW 27 (which relate to changes of spreading method), the person must not calculate a spreading method adjustment under section EW 27 for the change of spreading method, for the financial arrangement, from Determination G22 to Determination G22A.

Part years under Determinations instead of spreading method adjustment

(3) In the income year in which subsection (2) applies, for the financial arrangement, Determination G22 applies for the part-year before the change to Determination G22A, and Determination G22A applies for the part-year after the change from Determination G22.

Section EZ 52C: inserted, on 26 September 2010, by section 51 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Trans-Tasman Savings Portability, KiwiSaver, and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 109).

EZ 52D Base price adjustment: financial arrangements to which Determination G22 and Determination G22A applied

How and when this section applies

(1) This section does not alter or affect a person's tax position in relation to Determination G22 or the person's litigation of their tax position in relation to Determination G22. It does not alter or affect the Commissioner's assessment of, or litigation of, that tax position. It applies after Determination G22 has applied for a person's financial arrangement, and only if, for the financial arrangement,—

(a) section EZ 52C applied; and

(b) Determination G22A applies when the person is required to calculate a base price adjustment for the financial arrangement.

Consideration adjustment

(2) For the financial arrangement, the consideration referred to in section EW 31(7) (Base price adjustment formula) is adjusted in accordance with subsections (3) to (6).

Issuer

(3) If the person is the issuer of the financial arrangement, an amount calculated under subsections (5) and (6) is added to all consideration that has been paid, and all consideration that is or will be payable, by the issuer for or under the financial arrangement.

Holder

(4) If the person is a holder of the financial arrangement, an amount, referrable to the person's holding, calculated under subsections (5) and (6) is added to all consideration that has been paid, and all consideration that is or will be payable, to the holder for or under the financial arrangement.

Calculation

(5) For the purposes of subsections (3) and (4) the amount is calculated using the following formula:

$$X - Z.$$

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula,—

(a) X is, for the financial arrangement, an amount equal to the item s in Determination G22, clause 6(1), if that item were calculated in accordance with that Determination at the time immediately before the change of spreading method described in section EZ 52C(2):

(b) Z is, for the financial arrangement, an amount equal to the item s in Determination G22, clause 6(1), if that item were calculated in accordance with that Determination at the time when it first applied.

Expected death strain formulas

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 53 How expected death strain is calculated

Calculation of expected death strain: steps

(1) For an income year, the life insurer calculates their expected death strain by following these steps:

(a) first, use the relevant expected death strain formula to calculate an amount for each life insured under each life insurance policy existing at the start of the income year (see: subsections (2) and (3) for guidance on the relevant expected death strain formula):

(b) second, for each such life insurance policy, add together the amounts for the lives insured under it:

(c) third, add together the totals reached under paragraph (b).

Expected death strain formula (life)

(2) Section EZ 54(1) sets out the expected death strain formula (life). This is the formula a life insurer uses for an income year, to calculate an amount for a life insured under a life insurance policy, except to the extent to which an annuity is being paid under the policy at some time in the income year.

Expected death strain formula (active annuities)

(3) Section EZ 54(2) sets out the expected death strain formula (active annuities). This is the formula a life insurer uses for an income year, to calculate an amount for a life insured under a life insurance policy, to the extent to which an annuity is being paid under the policy at some time in the income year.

Defined in this Act: business, income year, life insurance, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer, pay

Section EZ 53: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 54 Expected death strain formulas

Expected death strain formula (life)

(1) The expected death strain formula (life) is—claim probability × (opening sum assured − opening actuarial reserves).

Expected death strain formula (active annuities)

(2) The expected death strain formula (active annuities) is—claim probability × opening actuarial reserves.

Definition of items in formulas

(3) The items in the formulas are defined in subsections (4) to (6).

Claim probability

(4) Claim probability is the probability of a claim arising under the policy for the life insured's death in the income year. It is determined at the start of the income year using the same mortality assumptions as are used to calculate the life insurer's actuarial reserves at the start of the income year. It is expressed as a decimal. Variations to claim probability are in sections EZ 55(2) and EZ 57(2).

Opening sum assured

(5) Opening sum assured is the claim that would be payable under the policy for the life insured's death in the income year or, if no such claim would be payable, the claim that would be payable under the policy for the life insured's survival to the relevant date or age specified in the policy. It is determined at the start of the income year. It may be zero. Variations to opening sum assured are in sections EZ 56(2), EZ 57(3), and EZ 58(2).

Opening actuarial reserves

(6) Opening actuarial reserves is the amount in the life insurer's actuarial reserves for the life insured under the policy. It is determined at the start of the income year.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, amount, claim, income year, life insured, life insurer, pay

Section EZ 54: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 55 Expected death strain formulas: option when more than 1 life insured

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a life insurance policy covers more than 1 life insured.

Claim probability

(2) In using the relevant expected death strain formula, the life insurer may use as claim probability a common factor for all the lives insured under the policy.

Features of common factor

(3) The common factor must be a reasonable approximation of the average probability of a claim arising under the policy for each life insured's death in the income year. It must be weighted as necessary to take account of—

(a) differing claims for individual lives insured under the policy; and

(b) differing amounts in the life insurer's actuarial reserves for individual lives insured under the policy.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, amount, claim, income year, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer

Section EZ 55: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 56 Expected death strain formula (life): when annuity payable on death

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when, and to the extent to which, a life insurance policy provides for the payment of an annuity the start of which is contingent on the life insured's death.

Opening sum assured

(2) In using the expected death strain formula (life), the life insurer uses as opening sum assured the present value (net) of the annuity. The present value (net) is determined—

(a) at the start of the income year; and

(b) on the assumption that the life insured died at the start of the income year; and

(c) using the same assumptions and bases of calculation as are used to calculate the life insurer's actuarial reserves for the income year.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, income year, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer, payment present value (net)

Section EZ 56: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 57 Expected death strain formulas: when annuity payable on survival to date or age specified in policy

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when, and to the extent to which, a life insurance policy provides for the payment of an annuity the start of which is contingent on the life insured's survival to the relevant date or age specified in the policy.

Claim probability

(2) In using the relevant expected death strain formula, the life insurer must use claim probability as defined in section EZ 54(4), without regard to the fact that the payment of the annuity is not contingent on the life insured's death.

Opening sum assured

(3) In using the expected death strain formula (life), the life insurer must use as opening sum assured the present value (net) of the annuity. The present value (net) is determined—

(a) at the relevant date or age specified in the policy; and

(b) on the assumption that the life insured survived to the date or age; and

(c) using the same assumptions and bases of calculation as are used to calculate the life insurer's actuarial reserves for the income year.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, income year, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer, pay, payment present value (net)

Section EZ 57: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 58 Expected death strain formula (life): when partial reinsurance exists

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a life insurer has partial life reinsurance.

Opening sum assured

(2) In using the expected death strain formula (life), the life insurer must reduce opening sum assured by the claim receivable by the life insurer under the life reinsurance policy for the contingency against which the life insured is covered under the life insurance policy.

Defined in this Act: claim, life insurance policy, life insured, life insurer, life reinsurance policy, partial reinsurance

Section EZ 58: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

Actuarial reserves

Heading: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 59 Meaning of actuarial reserves

Actuarial reserves generally

(1) For the purposes of sections EZ 53 to EZ 58, actuarial reserves means a life insurer's reserves as calculated under section EZ 60.

Closing actuarial reserves for annuities

(2) For the purposes of the item closing actuarial reserves in section EY 31(3) (Annuities), closing actuarial reserves (active annuities) means a life insurer's opening actuarial reserves under section EZ 54(6) for a life insurance policy, to the extent to which an annuity is being paid under the policy where the life insured dies in the income year for which the formula in section EY 31 is applied. Where the life insured survives to the end of that income year, the closing actuarial reserves (active annuities) is zero.

Link between actuarial reserves and life insurer

(3) Actuarial reserves, for a life insurer at any time, means the life insurer's actuarial reserves at that time.

Defined in this Act: actuarial reserves, life insurance policy, life insurer

Section EZ 59: inserted, on 1 July 2010, by section 199(1)of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

EZ 60 Actuarial reserves: calculation

Calculation by actuary

(1) The life insurer's actuarial reserves must be actuarially determined.

All reserves or 1 or more amounts

(2) The actuary may calculate—

(a) the actuarial reserves for all the life insurance policies for which the life insurer is the insurer; or

(b) the amount in the life insurer's actuarial reserves for 1 or more life insurance policies for which the life insurer is the insurer.

Interest, mortality, and other assumptions and bases of calculation

(3) The actuary must do the calculation using interest, mortality, and other assumptions and bases of calculation that—

(a) are based on the same principles as those used in the actuarial advice on which the following are calculated:

(i) the level of surplus funds available to the life insurer for allotment or payment to shareholders or policyholders; or

(ii) the level of surplus funds available to the life insurer, if a superannuation scheme, for allotment to objects of the scheme other than the object of providing for members' benefits; and

(b) are likely to produce a reasonable estimation of the future experience of the life insurer in relation to life insurance policies of which the life insurer is the insurer, having regard to the past experience of the life insurer in relation to life insurance policies of which the life insurer was the insurer; and

(c) conform with commercially acceptable practice.

Reserves for policy never negative

(4) The amount in the actuarial reserves for a life insurance policy must never be negative.

Reserves for all policies never less than total of surrender values

(5) The actuarial reserves at any time must not be less than the total of the surrender values of all the life insurance policies they cover at that time.

Reserves for policies same at end of one, and start of next, income year

(6) The amount in the actuarial reserves for life insurance policies at the start of an income year is the same as the amount in the actuarial reserves for the life insurance policies at the end of the previous income year.

Effect of partial reinsurance

(7) The actuarial reserves of a life insurer who has partial life reinsurance must be reduced by an amount that the actuary responsible for actuarial control of the life insurer considers appropriate having regard to the nature of the life reinsurance policies.

EZ 61 Allowance for cancelled amount: spreading

Policyholder base allowable deduction

(1) For an income year that includes 1 July 2010 and later income years, a life insurer may choose, by a notice received by the Commissioner on or before the last day for furnishing a return of income for the relevant income year or within such further time as the Commissioner may allow, that an amount (the deduction amount) is included as their policyholder base allowable deduction for the income year, if—

(a) the life insurer has no taxable income, other than in relation to its policyholder base, for the tax year corresponding to the income year, and no taxable income, other than in relation to its policyholder base, for every earlier tax year going back to, and including, the tax year that corresponds with the income year that includes 1 July 2010; and

(b) the deduction amount is stated in the notice and it is equal to or less than the least of the following:

(i) the available tax loss for the tax year that corresponds with the income year, before applying this section; and

(ii) the available concession amount for the income year, described in subsection (2); and

(iii) the amount that would be the life insurer's schedular policyholder base income for the income year, before applying this section for the year.

Available concession amount

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), the available concession amount for the income year is a positive amount calculated using the formula—base concession amount − used.

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) base concession amount is the lesser of the following:

(i) the cancelled amount described in section IT 1 (Cancellation of life insurer's policyholder net losses); and

(ii) the amount of available tax loss for the tax year that corresponds with the income year that includes 1 July 2010, before applying this section for the year:

EZ 62 Reinsurance transition: life financial reinsurance may be life reinsurance

(1) If a life contract that is entered into before a life insurer's reinsurance grandparenting start day would be a contract for life financial reinsurance but for this section, then it is treated as life reinsurance, instead of life financial reinsurance, for the period starting on the reinsurance grandparenting start day, and ending on the earlier of,—

(a) the last day of the term of the contract, as that term is stated in the contract before the reinsurance grandparenting start day; and

(b) the day 5 years after the reinsurance grandparenting start day.

Meaning of reinsurance grandparenting start day

(b) the debt security is stapled to a share in the company or to a share in another company; and

(c) the share is not a fixed-rate share.

Stapled debt treated as equity

(2) The stapled debt security is treated as a share issued by the company and—

(a) interest payable under the stapled debt security is treated as a dividend; and

(b) section DB 10B (Interest or expenditure connected to stapled debt security) may deny deductions for expenditure or loss related to the security.

Stapled securities aggregated

(3) A stapled debt security and a share to which it is stapled are treated as a single share for the purposes of applying—

(a) the definition of non-participating redeemable share in section CD 22(9) (Returns of capital: off-market share cancellations); and

(b) [Repealed]

(c) the definitions, in section YA 1 (Definitions), of—

(i) fixed-rate foreign equity; and

(ii) fixed-rate share, except for the purposes of subsection (1)(c).

Meaning of debt security

(4) In this section, debt security means a financial arrangement if—

(a) the financial arrangement provides funds to the company; and

(b) the financial arrangement gives rise to an amount for which the company would have a deduction but for this section; and

(c) the amount does not arise only from either a movement in a currency exchange rate or a non-contingent fee.

Meaning of stapled

(5) In this section, a debt security is stapled to a share if—

(a) the debt security can, or ordinarily can, be disposed of only together with the share; and

(b) the arrangement that requires the debt security and the share to be disposed of together is an arrangement to which the company that issued the debt security or the company that issued the share is a party.

(a) the payment of the dividend realises or recovers the price the person paid for the shares; and

(b) the payment is made at the person's control or direction, or is part of a scheme that includes the acquisition of the shares and the payment of the dividend.

Treatment of amount derived

(2) The dividend is treated as an amount derived on a sale of the shares to the extent to which the actual amount realised by the person on the disposal of the shares is less than the cost to the person of acquiring the shares.

Dividend

(3) Despite subsection (2), a dividend taken into account under this section remains a dividend derived by the person in the income year.

When whole amount treated as dividend

(2) If the whole of the amount that the shareholder receives for the cancellation is treated as a dividend, the following paragraphs apply:

(a) the shareholder is not regarded as having disposed of the cancelled share, except for the purpose of determining whether they have derived a dividend; and

(b) the amount is added to the cost of the shareholder's remaining shares of the same class under subsection (6).

Below market value of shares

(3) If subsection (2) does not apply, and the amount paid by the company is less than the market value of the shares at the time when notice is first given of the cancellation either by the shareholder or the company, the following paragraphs apply:

(a) an amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4) is added to the cost of the shareholder's remaining shares of the same class under subsection (6); and

(b) the amount is excluded from the cost of the share being cancelled so that the shareholder is denied a deduction under section DB 25 (Cancellation of shares held as revenue account property) for the amount unless the share is trading stock of the shareholder; and

(c) sections GC 1 and GC 2 (which relate to the disposal of trading stock for inadequate consideration) does not apply.

Formula

(4) The formula referred to in subsection (3)(a) is—

Definition of items in formula

Adding amount to cost of shares

(7) The amount referred to in subsection (2)(b) or (3)(a) must be fairly divided among, and added to, the cost of the shareholder's remaining shares of the same class.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, deduction, dividend, market value, notice, off-market cancellation, revenue account property, share, shareholder, shares of the same class trading stock

(ii) a motor vehicle; or

(iii) a temporary building; and

(b) is allowed a deduction for the rental payments; and

(c) acquires the asset and later disposes of it; and

(d) the consideration derived on the disposal is not income of the lessee under a provision of this Act other than this section.

Income

(2) If the consideration derived by the lessee for the asset is more than the cost of its acquisition, the excess is income of the lessee under section CG 7 (Recoveries after deduction of payments under lease). Subsection (3) overrides this subsection.

Adjustment to income

(3) If the total amount of the deductions referred to in subsection (1)(b) is less than or equal to the excess, the amount of income under subsection (2) is the total amount of the deductions.

Apportionment

(4) If the asset is disposed of together with other assets, the total consideration must be apportioned to reflect the respective market values of the assets.

Disposal below market value

(5) If the asset is disposed of without consideration or for a consideration that is less than market value at the date of disposal, the asset is treated as having been disposed of at its market value.

Associated persons acquiring asset

(6) Subsection (2) also applies if a person associated with the lessee acquires the asset, whether from the lessee or not, and disposes of it for an amount that is more than the amount paid to acquire it. Association is determined at the time of acquisition by the associated person. The lesser of the excess and the total amount of the lessee's deductions is treated as income of the lessee.

Transfers on settlement of relationship property

(7) In this section,—

(a) subsection (1)(c) does not apply to an acquisition on a settlement of relationship property:

(b) subsection (5) does not apply to a disposal on a settlement of relationship property.

Compare: 2004 No 35 s FC 5

Finance leases

FA 6 Recharacterisation of amounts derived under finance leases

When a personal property lease asset is leased under a finance lease, the lease is treated as a sale of the lease asset by the lessor to the lessee on the date on which the term of the lease starts, and—

(a) the lessor is treated as giving a loan to the lessee for the lease asset; and

(b) the lessee is treated as using the loan to buy the lease asset; and

FA 9 Treatment when lease ends: lessee acquiring asset

Acquisition treated as sale

(1) When a lessee under a finance lease acquires the personal property lease asset by the date on which the term of the lease ends, the acquisition is treated as the same sale that is treated as occurring under section FA 6.

When lessee or associated person acquires lease asset and later disposes of it

(2) If a lessee under a finance lease, or a person associated with them, acquires the lease asset and later disposes of it for an amount that is more than the consideration they paid for it, the excess is income of the lessee under section CC 11 (Lessee acquiring lease asset on expiry of term of lease).

Allocation and association

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2),—

(a) the excess is income of the lessee in the income year in which the lessee or associated person disposes of the asset:

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a finance lease ends by the date on which its term ends.

Acquisition by lessor at end of lease

(2) If the lessee does not acquire the personal property lease asset by the date on which the term of the lease ends, the lessor is treated as having acquired it on that date at its guaranteed residual value. If there is no guaranteed residual value, the consideration is treated as zero. In this section, the consideration is called the notional sale price.

Further sale, assignment, or lease

(3) Subsections (4) and (5) apply when the lessor sells, assigns, or leases the lease asset to another person under another finance lease on or after the date on which the term of the original lease ends.

When consideration more than notional sale price

(4) If the consideration is more than the notional sale price,—

(a) to the extent to which it is paid by the lessor to the lessee under the original finance lease, the notional sale price is increased by the amount of the difference; and

(b) to the extent to which it is not paid by the lessor to the lessee under the original finance lease, the amount of the difference is income of the lessor under section CC 12 (Lessor acquiring lease asset on expiry of term of lease) in the income year in which the original lease term ends.

When consideration less than notional sale price

(5) If the consideration is less than the notional sale price, and the lessee is required to pay the amount of the deficit to the lessor, the notional sale price is reduced by that amount.

Acquisition by lessor when lease ends early

(6) If the lease is terminated before the end of its term and the lessee does not acquire the lease asset, the lessor is treated as acquiring it for an amount calculated using the formula—outstanding balance – release payment.

Definition of items in formula

(iii) with a term of the lease that is more than 75% of the asset's estimated useful life:

(b) the lease is an operating lease that becomes a finance lease under paragraph (c) of the definition of finance lease.

Adjustment required

(2) The lessor and lessee must each adjust their income and expenditure calculated for the lease by including an adjustment in a return of income for the tax year corresponding to the income year in which the lease becomes a finance lease.

Amount of adjustment

(3) The amount of the adjustment is calculated for the relevant person in relation to the period described in subsection (5) using the formula—finance income − finance expenditure − unadjusted income

+ unadjusted expenditure.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula,—

(a) finance income is the income that would have been derived by the person under the lease if the lease were a finance lease for the period:

(b) finance expenditure is the expenditure that would have been incurred by the person under the lease if the lease were a finance lease for the period:

(c) unadjusted income is the income derived by the person under the lease:

(d) unadjusted expenditure is the expenditure incurred by the person under the lease.

Adjustment period

(5) The period starts on the date on which the lease starts and ends on the last day of the income year in which the lease becomes a finance lease.

Adjustment positive

(6) If the adjustment is positive, the amount is income of the relevant person under section CH 6 (Adjustments for certain finance and operating leases).

$$\frac{\text{total depreciation losses}}{6.}$$

Definition of item in formula

(4) In the formula, total depreciation losses is the total amount of depreciation loss for the lease asset for which the lessor is allowed a deduction in the period that begins with the start of the term of the lease and ends with the end of the adjustment year.

Income

Depreciation loss

(7) For an income year beginning after 20 June 2007 in which the lease is an operating lease, the amount of depreciation loss allowed for the lease asset other than under section EE 48 (Effect of disposal or event) is five-sixths of the amount of depreciation loss that would be allowed for the lease asset in the absence of this subsection.

A natural person is treated as an excess debt entity for the purposes of this section other than in the item threshold amount.

Formula

(2) The excess debt entity is treated under section CH 9 (Interest apportionment: excess debt entity) as deriving in the income year an amount of income calculated for the income year using the formula—

$$\text{(total deduction + FRD – adjust)} \times \frac{\text{total debt – concession}}{\text{total debt}} \times \frac{\text{group debt percentage – threshold amount}}{\text{group debt percentage}}.$$

Items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) total deduction is the whole amount of the excess debt entity's deduction for interest allowed under any of sections DB 6 to DB 8 (which relate to deductions for interest expenditure) less—

(i) the total amount allowed in relation to interest payable to a company that is a member of the entity's New Zealand group under sections FE 3 and FE 28, but this does not include an amount referred to in subparagraph (ii); and

(ii) the total amount allowed in relation to interest payable under a financial arrangement excluded from the total group debt of its New Zealand group under section FE 15:

(ab) FRD is the total amount of dividends paid by the excess debt entity in relation to fixed-rate foreign equity or fixed-rate shares—

(i) issued by the entity; and

(ii) held by a person resident in New Zealand who is not a company that is a member of the entity's New Zealand group:

(ac) adjust is—

(i) zero, if the excess debt entity is not an excess debt outbound company or a natural person or trustee described in section FE 2(1)(g); or

(ii) the amount (the group finance cost) that is the total amount for the New Zealand group found by calculating for each member of the New Zealand group the total amount (the member finance cost) of the items total deduction and FRD for the member, if the group finance cost is $1,000,000 or less and subparagraph (i) does not apply; or

FM 9 Amounts that are company's income

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a company that is part of a consolidated group derives an amount that would not be income of the company in the absence of this section, but would be income of the consolidated group if it were 1 company either—

(a) because of a purpose for which an item of property was acquired; or

(b) because a connection exists between the amount and the carrying on of a business by another consolidated group company; or

(c) for some other reason.

Income

(2) The amount is income of the company under section CV 2 (Consolidated groups: income of company in group).

Defined in this Act: amount, business, company, consolidated group, income

(b) the company incurs the expenditure or loss through a payment or disposal to, or a transaction or arrangement with, another consolidated group company.

No deduction (with exception)

(2) If a deduction would not be allowed for the expenditure or loss if the consolidated group were 1 company, the company is denied a deduction under section DV 16 (Consolidated groups:

intra-group transactions) unless the exceptions in section DV 16(2)(a) or (b) apply.

(b) would not be allowed as a deduction to the company in the absence of this section.

Deduction

(2) The company is allowed a deduction for the amount under section DV 17 (Consolidated groups: expenditure or loss incurred by group companies) if the consolidated group would be allowed a deduction for the amount, treating the group as if it were 1 company, because of a connection between—

(a) the incurring of the expenditure or loss or amount of depreciation loss; and

(b) the deriving of assessable or excluded income, or the carrying on of a business by another company in the consolidated group.

No deduction (with exception)

(2) The company is denied a deduction for an amount under section DV 17 (Consolidated groups: expenditure or loss incurred by group companies) if the deduction would be denied to the consolidated group, treating the group as if it were 1 company, except to the extent to which the expenditure or loss or amount of depreciation loss is interest on money that the company has borrowed from a person that is not part of the consolidated group, and the company—

(a) is allowed a deduction under section DB 7 (Interest: most companies need no nexus with income) or DB 8 (Interest: money borrowed to acquire shares in group companies):

(b) would be allowed a deduction under section DB 7 or DB 8 because the company is treated as having used the money borrowed, to the extent of the actual acquisition cost, to acquire certain shares when, through interposed intra-group borrowings, the money borrowed was in fact used by another group company in acquiring the shares.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, consolidated group, deduction, depreciation loss, interest, loss, share, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s HB 2(1)(d)

(b) a company chooses to join an existing consolidated group under section FM 36.

Condition

(2) Despite subsection (1), this section applies only if a company forming or joining a consolidated group remains entitled to be in the consolidated group either at the start of the relevant income year or for the notice period, as applicable.

Setting out income year in notice

(3) For a notice given to the Commissioner within the notice period in an income year, the company may provide that the election applies for the income year. The company is treated as in the consolidated group from the start of the income year.

When notice does not specify income year

(4) If the notice referred to in subsection (3) does not specify an income year, the company is treated as in the consolidated group from the start of the income year following that in which the Commissioner receives the notice.

Setting out entitlement date in notice

(5) Despite subsections (3) and (4), if a company becomes eligible to join a consolidated group during an income year, and the notice is given to the Commissioner within the notice period, the company may provide that the election applies from the date they first became entitled to make an election. The company is treated as in the consolidated group from that date, and part-year financial statements under section FM 14 are required.

Notice period

(6) In this section, notice period means 1 of the following:

(a) 63 working days after the start of an income year; or

However, unless subsections (3) and (4) apply, if the company does not defer the leaving date, it is treated as no longer in the consolidated group from the start of the income year in which the Commissioner receives the notice.

First income year: deferral

(3) Despite subsection (2), if a company leaves a consolidated group in the same income year in which it joins the group, and defers the leaving date in the notice, it is treated as leaving the consolidated group from the start of the income year after the income year in which the Commissioner receives the notice. Sections FM 40 and FM 41 override this subsection.

What this section does not apply to

(2) Despite subsection (1), this section—

(a) does not apply to property that is a financial arrangement, *see*sections FO 12 to FO 15:

(b) is subject to the rules for—

(i) amortising property in section FO 16:

(ii) land in section FO 17.

Property passing

(3) The amalgamating company is treated as having disposed of the property immediately before the amalgamation. The passing of ownership is treated as a disposal of the property by the amalgamating company and an acquisition of the property by the amalgamated company.

Timing and consideration

(4) Unless subsections (5) or (6) apply, the amalgamated company is treated as having acquired the property on the date on which the amalgamating company acquired it for an amount that is the sum of—

(a) the price paid for the property; and

(b) any expenditure incurred in buying or improving the property; and

(c) any expenditure incurred in securing or improving the amalgamating company's legal rights to the property.

Trading stock

(5) If the property is trading stock for both the amalgamating company and the amalgamated company, the consideration for the disposal and acquisition is taken as the value of the trading stock to the amalgamating company determined under subpart EB (Valuation of trading stock (including dealer's livestock)) at the time of the amalgamation.

Revenue account property

(6) If the property is revenue account property of the amalgamating company but not revenue account property of the amalgamated company, the consideration for the disposal and acquisition is taken as the market value of the property at the time of the amalgamation. But this subsection does not apply to land that is revenue account property merely because of the 10-year rule in sections CB 9 to CB 11 and CB 14 (which relate to the disposal of land), in which case section FO 17(3) may apply.

Depreciation loss

(7) An amalgamating company is allowed a deduction under section DV 15(3) (Amalgamated companies: property passing on resident's restricted amalgamation) for an amount of depreciation loss for property transferred to the amalgamated company for the period beginning on the first day of the income year of amalgamation and ending on the day before the date of the amalgamation.

(a) the amalgamating company is treated as having disposed of the property for an amount equal to the market value of the property at the time of the amalgamation; and

(b) the amalgamated company is treated as having acquired the property at that market value.

Relationship with section EE 41

(2) Section EE 41 (Transfer of depreciable property on certain amalgamations on or after 14 May 2002) overrides this section for the purposes of determining the cost of an item to an amalgamated company, unless the context requires otherwise.

(b) for the whole of the income year before the amalgamation, the amalgamating company and the amalgamated company were part of the same wholly-owned group of companies; and

(c) the method of calculating income and expenditure from the financial arrangement does not change after the amalgamation, and the amalgamated company's return of income for the corresponding tax year is made on this basis; and

(d) sections IA 3 to IA 6 and subpart ID (which relate to tax losses of companies and consolidated groups) do not apply to allow the amalgamating company to carry a loss balance forward from an earlier tax year for use in the tax year corresponding to the income year unless section IE 2 (Treatment of tax losses by amalgamating company) applies when the tax losses are those of the consolidated group.

(a) the method of calculating income and expenditure from the financial arrangement does not change after the amalgamation; and

(b) section FO 12 does not apply.

Calculating base price adjustment

(2) The amalgamating company is treated as having disposed of the financial arrangement. In calculating the base price adjustment, the consideration is the amount that would fairly and reasonably represent the income or expenditure that the amalgamating company would have derived or would have incurred in the income year if the amalgamation had not taken place.

Defined in this Act: amalgamated company, amalgamating company, amalgamation, consideration, dispose, financial arrangement, income, income year, resident's restricted amalgamation is the market value of the financial arrangement on the date the amalgamated company acquires it.

Compare: 2004 No 35 ss FE 6(5), (7), FE 7(1)(b), (3)

Defined in this Act: amalgamated company, amalgamating company, consideration, financial arrangement, income year, market value, resident's restricted amalgamation

Compare: 2004 No 35 ss FE 6(5), (8), FE 7(1)(b), (4)

(3) The amalgamated company is treated as having acquired the financial arrangement or assumed the obligations immediately after the amalgamation. The consideration for the acquisition is the market value of the property at the time of the amalgamation.

Defined in this Act: amalgamated company, amalgamating company, amalgamation, consideration, financial arrangement, market value, resident's restricted amalgamation

Compare: 2004 No 35 s FE 5

FO 16 Amortising property

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in an income year in which amortising property belonging to an amalgamating company passes to the amalgamated company on a resident's restricted amalgamation. The passing of ownership is treated as a disposal of the property by the amalgamating company and an acquisition by the amalgamated company.

Treatment of amalgamating company

(1B) The amalgamating company is treated as neither deriving income nor having a deduction under sections EE 24 to EE 53 (which relate to disposals of depreciable property) as a result of the deemed disposal.

Value: all pool property

(2) If the amortising property forms the whole of a pool of property of the amalgamating company that is depreciated under sections EE 20 to EE 24 (which relate to depreciation under the pool method), the consideration for the disposal and acquisition is taken as the adjusted tax value of the pool immediately before the amalgamation.

Value: part pool property

(3) If the amortising property forms part of a pool of property of the amalgamating company that is depreciated under sections EE 20 to EE 24, the consideration for the disposal and acquisition is taken as the lesser of—

(a) the market value of the property; or

(b) the adjusted tax value of the pool immediately before the amalgamation.

Deductions for depreciation loss

(4) If the amortising property is other than pool property of the amalgamating company, the amalgamated company is treated as having been allowed the deduction that the amalgamating company would have had for an amount of depreciation loss, or a deduction under any other amortisation provision of this Act, relating to the property.

Defined in this Act: acquire, adjusted tax value, amalgamated company, amalgamating company, amortising property, amount, deduction, depreciation loss, dispose, income year, market value, other amortisation provision, pool, resident's restricted amalgamation

(1) This section applies when land belonging to an amalgamating company passes to the amalgamated company on a resident's restricted amalgamation.

Disposal of land within 10-year period

Leases

FZ 2 Effect of specified lease on lessor and lessee

Lease treated as sale

(1) The leasing of a personal property lease asset under a specified lease is treated as a sale of the asset, made at the start of the term of the lease, by the lessor to the lessee. The lessee is treated as having incurred, through the sale, capital expenditure of an amount equal to the cost price of the asset.

Loan applied to finance acquisition of asset

(2) A lessor under a specified lease is treated as having advanced to the lessee a loan of an amount equal to the cost price of the personal property lease asset. The lessee is treated as having applied the loan in the financing of the acquisition of the asset.

No deduction

(3) A lessor under a specified lease is denied a deduction under section DZ 14(2) (Deductions under specified leases) for an amount of depreciation loss for the personal property lease asset.

Asset sold to lessor

(4) At the end of the term of a specified lease, if the personal property lease asset is not acquired by the lessee under the terms of the lease or in the exercise of an option under the lease, the asset is treated as sold at the end of the term of the lease to the lessor for—

(a) an amount equal to the guaranteed residual value, if any, set out for the asset in the lease; or

(b) if no guaranteed residual value is set out in the lease, no consideration.

Treatment when lease terminated

(5) If a specified lease is terminated before the term of the lease ends, whether by cancellation, surrender, or otherwise,—

(a) the personal property lease asset relating to the lease is treated as sold on the date of the termination to the lessor by the lessee at a price equal to the amount by which the amount of the outstanding balance, at the time of termination, of a loan advance by the lessor to the lessee is more than the amount or the sum of the amounts payable by the lessee to the lessor in consideration for the release by the lessor of the lessee from the obligations of the lessee under the lease:

(b) despite paragraph (a), if, in relation to the amount of the outstanding balance and the amount or the sum of the amounts payable by the lessee to the lessor, no excess arises, the asset is treated as having been sold for no consideration:

(c) if the value of the consideration payable by the lessee to the lessor in relation to the termination is more than the amount of the outstanding balance, at the time of termination, of a loan advanced by the lessor to the lessee, an amount equal to the amount of the excess is treated as income derived by the lessor in the income year in which the lease is terminated.

Subsequent sale, assignment, or lease

(6) If, on or after the end of the term of a specified lease, the personal property lease asset relating to the lease is sold, assigned, or leased under a specified lease by the lessor to another person, and the value of the consideration on the sale, assignment, or lease—

(a) is more than the amount determined for the first specified lease under subsection (4), the amount determined is increased by a further amount that is equal to the part, if any, of the excess paid by the lessor to the lessee:

(b) is less than the amount determined for the first specified lease under subsection (4)(a), and the lessee is required to make a further payment to the lessor equal to the difference between the guaranteed residual value for the lease value, and the value of the consideration, the amount determined is reduced by the amount of the further payment.

Consideration more than amount determined under subsection (4)

(7) Despite subsection (6), if the value of the consideration on the sale, assignment, or lease is more than the amount determined under subsection (4), the part, if any, of the excess that is not paid to the lessee is treated as income under section CZ 20 (Disposal of personal property lease asset under specified lease).

Associated persons

(8) If the lessee under a specified lease, or another person who is associated with the lessee, at any time acquires the personal property lease asset, and disposes of the asset, and the value of the consideration for the disposal is more than the value of the consideration for which the lessee or other person acquired it, an amount equal to the excess is income under section CZ 20.

Meaning of outstanding balance

(9) In this section, and in section FZ 3, outstanding balance means the amount calculated using the formula—

(loans advanced + interest payable) – instalments.

Definition of items in formula

(10) In the formula,—

(a) loans advanced is the total amount of all loans advanced under the lease by the lessor for the period—

(i) starting on the date that the lease started; and

(ii) ending on the date immediately before the start of the instalment period:

(a) during the income year, a third person (the buyer) purchases services from the associated entity, and the services are personally performed by the working person; and

(c) the threshold test in subsection (2) is met; and

(d) none of the exemptions in subsection (3) applies.

(b) 80% or more of the associated entity's income from personal services during the income year is derived through services personally performed by the working person, a relative of the working person, or a combination of them; and

(b) is not a qualifying company; and

(c) chooses to have the dividend treated as if it were paid by a qualifying company.

Cancellation of notional imputation credits

(5) For the purposes of subsection (4), to the extent to which the dividend paid by the company would have had an imputation credit attached that arose under section OB 16 (ICA attribution for personal services) in the absence of the election made

HB 1 Look-through companies are transparent

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of this Act, other than the PAYE rules, the FBT rules, the NRWT rules, the RWT rules, the ESCT rules, and the RSCT rules, for a person in their capacity of owner of an effective look-through interest for a look-through company (the LTC), for an income year, if—

(a) for the LTC, an LTC election described in section HB 13(1) and (2) has been received by the Commissioner under section HB 13(3) and (4) for the income year; and

(b) the LTC meets the requirements in the definition of look-through company at all times in the income year; and

(c) the election has not been revoked for the income year by an owner of a look-through interest for the LTC by notice received by the Commissioner before the start of the income year.

When this section applies: Commissioner's discretion as to revocation

(2) A revocation notice that is received by the Commissioner after the start of the income year is treated as received before the start of the income year if the Commissioner decides that exceptional circumstances are the sole cause of the lateness.

When this section applies: revocation ignored

(3) An owner's revocation notice for the income year is ignored for the purposes of this section and section HB 13(4)(a) if the owner stops having a look-through interest in the LTC and the new owner reverses the revocation notice before the start of the income year by notice to the Commissioner.

Look-through for effective look-through interest

(4) For a person, unless the context requires otherwise,—

(a) the person is treated as carrying on an activity carried on by the LTC, and having a status, intention, and purpose of the LTC, and the LTC is treated as not carrying on the activity or having the status, intention, or purpose:

(b) the person is treated as holding property that the LTC holds, in proportion to the person's effective look-through interest, and the LTC is treated as not holding the property:

(c) the person is treated as being party to an arrangement to which the LTC is a party, in proportion to the person's effective look-through interest, and the LTC is treated as not being a party to the arrangement:

(d) the person is treated as doing a thing and being entitled to a thing that the LTC does or is entitled to, in proportion to the person's effective look-through interest, and the LTC is treated as not doing the thing or being entitled to the thing.

Effective look-through interest

(5) For the purposes of this section, effective look-through interest means for a person and an LTC, treating the LTC as a company for the purposes of this subsection,—

(a) a person's average daily look-through interest for the company for the income year, if there is no market value circumstance for the LTC and paragraph (b) does not apply:

(b) a person's look-through interest for the relevant time of look-through under subsection (4), if there is no market value circumstance for the LTC, and—

(i) the assessable income of the LTC, ignoring this subpart, is or will be $3,000,000 or more in a 12-month period including the relevant time of look-through, and the Commissioner has notified the LTC that look-through interests for the relevant time of look-through under subsection (4) must be used under this section:

(ii) all persons with look-through interests have agreed to use their look-through interests for the relevant time of look-through:

(c) if there is a market value circumstance for the LTC and paragraph (d) does not apply, the average of the following 2 amounts:

(i) a person's average daily look-through interest for the income year:

(ii) a person's average daily market value interest for the income year:

(d) if there is a market value circumstance for the LTC, and the assessable income and notification requirements described in paragraph (b)(i) are met, the average of the following 2 amounts:

(i) a person's look-through interest for the time of look-through under subsection (4):

(ii) a person's market value interest for the time of look-through under subsection (4).

Defined in this Act: arrangement, assessable income, Commissioner, company, effective look-through interest, ESCT rules, FBT rules, income year, look-through company, look-through interest, market value circumstance, market value interest, NRWT rules, PAYE rules, RSCT rules, RWT rules

Section HB 1: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2011, and for the purposes of the Commissioner receiving LTC elections, on and after 21 December 2010), by section 78(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010, No 130).

HB 2 Previous income and expenditure or loss

Despite a person who has an effective look-through interest for a look-through company (the LTC) not having an interest at the relevant time, the person may be treated as deriving income or incurring an expenditure or loss which the LTC derived or incurred ignoring section HB 1, or would have derived or incurred ignoring section HB 1 if it had not ceased to exist. This section does not allow 2 deductions for 1 expenditure or loss, and may apply to income derived before the LTC becomes a look-through company.

Defined in this Act: effective look-through interest, income, income year, look-through company

Section HB 2: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2011, and for the purposes of the Commissioner receiving LTC elections, on and after 21 December 2010), by section 78(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010, No 130).

HB 3 Loss balances extinguished

Despite sections HB 1 and HB 2, a loss balance under Part I (Treatment of tax losses) is cancelled if the loss balance arose in relation to an income year when a company was not a look-through company, or when a company that amalgamates with a look-through company was not a look-through company.

Defined in this Act: amalgamation, company, income year, look-through company, loss balance

Section HB 3: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2011, and for the purposes of the Commissioner receiving LTC elections, on and after 21 December 2010), by section 78(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010, No 130).

HB 4 General provisions relating to disposals

Relationship between disposal under this section, disposal safe harbours, and subpart FB

(1) This section overrides sections HB 5 to HB 9. This section does not apply, and sections HB 5 to HB 9 do not apply, for disposals of owners' interests under transactions to which subpart FB (Transfers of relationship property) applies or is treated as applying.

Election for specified livestock disposed of to new owner

(2) Section HB 10 applies for an entering owner if the entering owner furnishes a return of income that applies the section.

Permanent cessation

(3) A person is treated as disposing of all of their owner's interests for a look-through company to a single third party for a payment equal to the interests' market value, if the look-through company ceases to exist as an entity through liquidation, court order, or otherwise.

Capital reduction

(4) A person is treated as disposing of all of their owner's interests for a look-through company to a single third party for a payment equal to the interests' market value to the extent to which an owner's capital is reduced by a cancellation or a buy-back by the look-through company that is not pro rata for all owners.

Receipt upon permanent cessation

(5) Anything received by an owner in relation to permanent cessation or capital reduction, as described in subsection (3) or (4), is ignored.

Cessation due to revocation or otherwise

(6) A person is treated as disposing of all of their owner's interests for a look-through company to a single third party for a payment equal to the interests' market value, if the look-through company ceases to be a look-through company because of a revocation or otherwise, but excluding cessation as described in subsection (3). The company is treated as acquiring all of the person's interests immediately after the cessation, from the third party, for a payment equal to the interests' market value, and for the purposes of section CB 15 (Transactions between associated persons), the person disposing of, and the company acquiring, the interests are treated as associated persons.

Defined in this Act: associated person, dispose, look-through company, owner's interests, pay, return of income

Section HB 4: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2011, and for the purposes of the Commissioner receiving LTC elections, on and after 21 December 2010), by section 78(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010, No 130).

HB 5 Disposal of owner's interests

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a person (the exiting owner) disposes of some or all of their owner's interests (the current interests) for a look-through company, if the amount calculated using the formula is less than zero—disposal payment + previous payments − (gross tax value − liabilities) − $50,000.

Definition of items in formula

(2) In the formula,—

(a) disposal payment is the total amount of consideration paid or payable to the exiting owner for the current interests:

(b) previous payments is the total amount of consideration paid or payable to the exiting owner for other disposals of some or all of their owner's interests (the other interests) that have occurred in the year before the disposal of the current interests:

(ii) the market value of the current interests and other interests at the time the relevant interest is disposed of, to the extent to which the interests are not revenue account property or depreciable property or financial arrangements:

(d) liabilities is the amount of liabilities under generally accepted accounting practice at the time the relevant interest is disposed of, calculated by reference to the exiting owner's ownership share for the relevant interest.

Exiting owner: excluded payment

(3) The disposal payment described in subsection (2)(a) is excluded income of the exiting owner.

Exiting owner: no deduction

(4) The exiting owner is denied a deduction in relation to the current interests for the income year in which the disposal of the interests occurs and later income years to the extent to which the entering owner is allowed a deduction because of subsection (6).

Entering owner: no deduction

(5) An entering owner is denied a deduction for the disposal payment described in subsection (2)(a).

Entering owner: stepping in

(6) For the purposes of calculating the income and deductions of an entering owner for the part of the income year after the disposal of the interests occurs and later income years (the post-disposal periods), the entering owner is treated for the post-disposal periods as if they had originally acquired and held the current interests, not the exiting owner. However, this subsection does not apply to a deduction carried forward under section HB 12.

Entering owner: stepping in

(b) the owners do not derive income from a business of holding financial arrangements.

Exiting owner: excluded payment

(2) The amount of consideration paid or payable to the exiting owner for the relevant financial arrangement or excepted financial arrangement is excluded income of the exiting owner. When this section applies

(1) This section applies for a look-through company (the LTC) and an income year when, but for this section, a deduction by virtue of section HB 1 or HB 12(2) or (3) would be allowed to a person who has an effective look-through interest for the LTC.

No deduction

(2) The person is denied the deduction for an income year to the extent to which their look-through company deduction for the income year is greater than the amount (the owner's basis) calculated using the formula in subsection (3) at the end of the income year.

Owner's basis

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2), the amount that is the owner's basis is calculated using the following formula:

investments − distributions + income − deductions − disallowed amount.

Definition of items in formula

(4) The items in the formula are defined in subsections (5) to (9).

Investments

(5) Investments is the total of—

(a) the market value of a person's shares in the LTC at the time that the person purchases or subscribes for them:

(b) amounts that the LTC is debtor for in relation to the person, including a loan to the LTC and a credit balance in a current account:

(c) the secured amounts, if not accounted for under paragraph (b).

Distributions

(6) Distributions is the market value of distributions to the person from the LTC, including loans made to the person from the LTC and payments to which section DC 3B (Payments to working owners) does not apply.

Income

(7) Income is the total of—

(b) capital gain amounts under section CD 44(7)(a) (Available capital distribution amount) that the person would have by virtue of section HB 1 in the income year and previous income years, if the person were treated as a company for the purposes of section CD 44(7)(a), unless the gain is accounted for under paragraph (a):

(c) assessable income that the person has in previous income years from goods and services they contributed to the LTC, if the income is not accounted for under subsection (5) or paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection.

Deductions

(8) Deductions is the total of—

(a) expenditure or loss in previous income years, to the extent to which the expenditure or loss is incurred by virtue of section HB 1 in the person deriving income by virtue of section HB 1, excluding any deductions denied in those previous years under this section:

(b) capital loss amounts under section CD 44(9) that the person would have by virtue of section HB 1 in the income year and previous income years, if the person is treated as a company for the purposes of section CD 44(9), unless the loss is accounted for under paragraph (a):

(c) deductions that the person is allowed in previous income years in relation to assessable income described in subsection (7)(c), if the deduction is not accounted for under subsection (6) or paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection.

Disallowed amount

(9) Disallowed amount is the amount of investments, as defined in subsection (5), made by the person within 60 days of the end of the income year, if those investments are or will be distributed or reduced within 60 days of the end of the income year, but an amount of investment made by the person within 60 days of the end of the income year is not a disallowed amount if the total amount distributed or reduced within 60 days of the end of the income year is $10,000 or less.

Exclusion

(10) This section does not deny a person (the exiting person) a deduction that is equal to or less than the amount of net income that the exiting person has for the amount paid or payable to the exiting person for the disposal of their owner's interests, ignoring other transactions.

Relationship with subject matter

(11) This section is modified by section HZ 4C (Qualifying companies: transition into look-through companies).

Some definitions

(12) In this section,—

look-through company deduction means, for the person and the income year, the amount of the deductions that the person would be allowed if they were treated as having only income and deductions arising from the application of this subpart secured amounts means, for the person, the lesser of—

(a) the amount of the look-through company's debt ignoring section HB 1 (the debt) that the person or an associated person secures by a guarantee or indemnity:

(b) the amount that results from dividing the amount described in paragraph (a) by the number of persons who secure by guarantee or indemnity on similar terms to the 1 described in paragraph (a), excluding the look-through company:

(c) the amount that is the market value of property against which the guarantee or indemnity described in paragraph (a) may be enforced, treating the person's owner's interests as having a market value of zero:

(d) the proportion of the amount described in paragraph (c) that is attributable to the person in the case of a number of persons securing the debt by guarantee or indemnity on similar terms to the 1 described in paragraph (a), excluding the look-through company.

HB 12 Limitation on deductions by owners of look-through companies: carry-forward

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when, for an income year, a person is denied a deduction under section HB 11.

Carry-forward: conditional on continued existence of look-through company and holding of effective look-through interest

(2) The person is allowed a deduction, for an amount for which the person is denied a deduction under section HB 11, for the income year (the later year) after the income year for which it is denied under section HB 11, unless—

(a) the look-through company ceases to be a look-through company in the later year:

(b) the person ceases to have an effective look-through interest in the later year.

Carry-forward: resumption

(3) If a person would have been allowed a deduction for an amount but for the application of subsection (2)(a) or (b) for the later year, they are allowed a deduction for the amount for the first income year after the later year in which either they resume an effective look-through interest for the look-through company, or the relevant company resumes being a look-through company. However, the amount of that deduction is reduced by the total amount allowed as a deduction under subsections (4) and (5).

Exception for deductions against continuing company dividends

(4) Despite subsection (2), the person is allowed a deduction for the later year for an amount (the protected amount) for which they would have been allowed a deduction but for the application of subsection (2)(a) or (b) for the later year to the extent to which the protected amount is equal to or lesser than the dividends received by the person from the company for the later year.

Further deductions against continuing company dividends

(5) For an income year after the later year, an amount equal to the protected amount reduced by the total of deductions allowed in income years before the income year under subsection (4) and this subsection, is allowed as a deduction for the person to the extent to which the amount is equal to or less than the dividends received by the person from the company for the income year.

Relationship with subject matter

(6) A deduction allowed under this section, other than under subsection (4) or (5), is subject to section HB 11, to the extent to which that section applies to the deduction and the relevant person.

Defined in this Act: amount, deduction, dividend, effective look-through interest, income year, look-through company

Section HB 12: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2011, and for the purposes of the Commissioner receiving LTC elections, on and after 21 December 2010), by section 78(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010, No 130).

HB 13 LTC elections

LTC elections

(1) For the purposes of section HB 1, an LTC election (the election) is a notice that—

- (a) is signed and dated by a director of the company that becomes a look-through company (the LTC) or other agent with appropriate authority; and
- (b) is in the form prescribed by the Commissioner; and
- (c) specifies an income year beginning on or after 1 April 2011 for which it may first operate; and
- (d) has attached to it notices—
  - (i) signed and dated by all persons who, on the date of signing the election, own look-through interests in the LTC; and
  - (ii) evidence unanimous agreement of the owners in choosing to apply section HB 1.

Legal incapacities

(2) If a person owns a look-through interest in the LTC, and either they are under 18 years old with a guardian or a contract they enter into could be unenforceable, cancelled, void, or voidable due to any legal incapacity other than age, the notice requirement in subsection (1)(d) is modified so as to require a guardian, person with power of attorney, or other legal representative to sign and date the written notice, instead of the person.

Time of receipt of LTC elections

(3) For the purposes of section HB 1, the election—

- (a) must be received by the Commissioner before the start of the income year specified in the election; or

(b) in the case of a company that has not previously been required to file a return of income for a year before the income year specified in the election, must be received by the Commissioner before the last day for filing the return of income required by section 42B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 for the year specified in the election; or

(c) in the case of a company that was a qualifying company that first becomes a look-through company for the first or second income year that starts on or after 1 April 2011, must be received by the Commissioner within 6 months of the start of the relevant transitional income year described in section HZ 4C(1) (Qualifying companies: transition into look-through companies).

Income year for which LTC elections are treated as received

(4) For the purposes of section HB 1, the election is treated as received for the first relevant income year described in subsection (3) and for each income year after that one, except it is treated as not received by the Commissioner for an income year (the income year) and subsequent income years if—

(a) the election has been revoked for the income year under section HB 1:

(b) the LTC does not meet the requirements in the definition of look-through company at all times in the income year:

(c) the income year is 1 of the 2 income years straight after an income year for which either the LTC ceases to be a look-through company or the relevant election for the LTC is revoked.

Commissioner's discretion as to LTC elections

Order of elements of distribution

(2) The distribution is treated as consisting of the following elements in the following order:

(a) it is a genuine transaction entered into and carried out in good faith; and

(b) it places the amount beyond the possession and control of the trustee in their capacity as trustee; and

(c) it does not itself constitute a settlement.

Exclusions: terms of trust

(6) This section does not apply to the following distributions which are instead treated as consisting of the amount that reflects the terms of the trust or the terms of the exercise of the trustee's discretion:

(a) a distribution by the trustee of a complying trust which is treated as exempt income under section CW 53 (Distributions from complying trusts), unless an election to pay income tax on trustee income has been made for the

It applies whether or not they settled property on the trust on or before that date. Subsections (3) and (4) override this subsection.

Liable as agent

(2) If a trustee of the trust derives trustee income in the income year, the settlor is liable as agent of the trustee for income tax payable by the trustee. For a trust with more than 1 settlor, the liability is joint and several. However, this subsection does not apply to income tax that the trustee is liable for as agent under section HC 32.

Exclusion: resident trustee

(3) This section does not apply if the trust has a resident trustee for the full income year or, if the first settlement on the terms of the trust is made during the income year, from the day on which the settlement is made to the end of the income year.

Exclusion: trust types

(4) This section does not apply to the settlor of—

(a) a charitable trust; or

(b) a superannuation fund; or

(c) a trust to the extent to which trustee income is derived from the settlor's remitting an amount under a financial arrangement to which section EW 31 or EZ 38 (which relate to base price adjustments) applies.

(i) becomes resident in New Zealand and is not a transitional resident:

(ii) stops being a transitional resident and continues to be a New Zealand resident; and

(b) the trust would be a foreign trust in relation to a distribution if a distribution were made immediately before the settlor became resident.

Choosing to satisfy tax liability

(2) A settlor, trustee, or beneficiary of the trust may choose to satisfy the income tax liability of the trustee under section HC 33. They must make the election by the election expiry date.

(c) as a non-complying trust if the election is made but the requirements of section HC 10(1)(a) are not met, for any distribution not within paragraph (a).

Tax consequences when no election made

(4) If an election under subsection (2) is not made, the trust is treated as follows:

(a) as a foreign trust to the extent to which the distribution consists of an amount derived by the trustee before the date of the election:

(b) as a non-complying trust to the extent to which a distribution consists of an amount derived by the trustee on or after the election expiry date.

(b) the value that would be used at that date under this Act, calculated as if the trustee income derived by the trustee had always been assessable income.

Consideration for financial arrangements

(a) the market value of the financial arrangement on that date; or

Definition of items in formula

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when—

(b) an effect of the arrangement is that the company cannot meet a tax liability (the tax obligation) whether existing at the time of the arrangement or arising after that time, for—

(i) income tax:

(ii) a civil penalty, as defined in section 3(1) of the Tax Administration Act 1994:

(c) it is reasonable to conclude that—

When this section does not apply

(2) This section does not apply to an arrangement if—

(a) the Commissioner is a party to the arrangement:

(b) the tax obligation is no more than an amount of income tax that arises as a direct result of the performance of the arrangement, and that obligation has been met:

Zealand Act 1989 or the Corporations (Investigation and Management) Act 1989.

Director's liability

(3) All persons who are directors of the company at the time the arrangement is entered into are treated as agents of the company in relation to the tax obligation, and the liability is joint and several. But a director has no liability if—

(a) they do not derive a benefit from the arrangement, and at the first reasonable opportunity after becoming aware of the arrangement, or the aspects of the arrangement that cause this section to apply to it, they record formally their dissent in relation to the arrangement with the company and with the Commissioner; or

Shareholder's liability

(4) A person who is a controlling shareholder or an interested shareholder at the time of the arrangement is treated as an agent of the company in relation to the tax obligation other than penalties and interest but, despite section HD 3(2), the liability is limited to the greater of—

(a) the market value of the person's direct and indirect shareholding in the company at the time of the arrangement; and

(b) the value of the benefit that the person derives from the arrangement.

Shareholder's liability for penalties and interest

(5) A person who is a controlling shareholder or an interested shareholder at the time of the arrangement is treated as an agent of the company in relation to penalties and interest in proportion to their liability for the tax obligation under subsection (4).

Company liquidations

(6) In order to give effect to this section, if a company has been liquidated, the Commissioner may at any time after the liquidation make an assessment of a company for an income tax liability of the company as if it had not been liquidated. The time bar applies, but this subsection overrides other provisions in this Act and the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Agents for purposes of notification or objection procedures

(7) In making an assessment under subsection (6), the Commissioner must nominate 1 or more persons as having the tax obligation set out in the assessment. The nominated person or persons are treated as agents of the company in relation to any notification or objection procedure concerning the assessment.

When liability does not arise

(8) No liability arises under this section for a tax year in relation to which—

(a) a company has provided returns within the time allowed by section 37 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 for providing returns for the tax year in which the company is liquidated; and

(b) the Commissioner has not issued a notice of assessment of the company for the tax year before the end of 4 years following the end of the tax year in which the company is liquidated.

(b) if the person or associated person is a company, the voting interest or market value interest of the person or associated person is calculated as if they were not a company and as if sections YC 4 (Look-through rule for corporate shareholders) and YC 6 (Disregarding certain securities) did not apply director means,—

(a) a person who occupies the position of director, whether or not the position has that title:

HM 35B Treatment of certain provisions made by multi-rate PIEs

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section HM 35 when—

(a) a multi-rate PIE—

(i) is likely to have future income:

(ii) makes a provision for future expenditure or loss; and

(b) the amount—

(i) is reflected in the PIE's valuation of portfolio investor interests; or

(ii) if subparagraph (i) does not apply, is shown in its financial statements.

Future amounts

(2) For the purposes of determining a net amount under section HM 35(2) for an attribution period, a multi-rate PIE may take account of an amount of future income or future expenditure or loss that is—

(a) for future income, an amount that, when derived, would be assessable income under section HM 35(3)(a):

(b) for future expenditure or loss,—

(i) an expense likely to be incurred by the PIE in the tax year in which the attribution period falls, or within 93 days after the end of the tax year; and

(ii) an amount that, when incurred, would be a deduction under section HM 35(3)(b).

Reasonable estimation

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2), the PIE must make a reasonable estimate of the amount and must be able to demonstrate, if required, the reasonableness of the estimation by—

(a) explaining why and when the income is likely to be derived or the expense is likely to be incurred, as applicable; and

(b) providing the calculation method and actual calculations used to determine the amount, with details showing why the method is appropriate.

Credit impairment provisions

(4) A multi-rate PIE may take account of a credit impairment provision under this section but only if the provision is counted as a credit impairment provision under NZIAS 39. However, the time limit set out in subsection (2)(b)(i) does not apply in relation to a credit impairment provision.

Defined in this Act: amount, attribution period, deduction, income, investor interest, multi-rate PIE, NZIAS 39, tax year

Section 35B: inserted (with effect on 1 April 2010), on 21 December 2010, by section 95(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 130).

HM 35C Determining amounts for notified foreign investors

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of sections HM 35 to HM 47 when a foreign investment PIE determines its income tax liability and calculates an amount of attributed PIE income for a notified foreign investor in the PIE.

Single class of investors

(2) For the purposes of the calculations, the PIE must treat its notified foreign investors as a single notional investor class.

Taxable amounts

(3) In section HM 35(5), in relation to an investor class that is made up of notified foreign investors, the taxable amount for an attribution period is equal to the assessable income of the PIE for the period for each particular income source and investment type of income of the class.

Attributed amounts

(4) For the purposes of section HM 36, in the calculation of an amount attributed to a notified foreign investor,—

(a) the item loss in the formula in subsection (2) is treated as zero:

(b) the item expenses in the formula in subsection (2) is treated as zero:

(c) the item credits for fees in the formula in subsection (2) is treated as zero:

(d) if the result given by the formula is negative, the result is treated as zero.

Defined in this Act: amount, assessable income, attributed PIE income, attribution period, foreign investment PIE, income tax liability, investor class, notified foreign investor taxable amount

HM 36 Calculating amounts attributed to investors

Calculating amount

(1) The amount of attributed PIE income or attributed PIE loss for an income year for an investor in a multi-rate PIE is the total of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (2) for—

(a) each attribution period in the income year; and

(b) each day in the attribution period; and

(c) each investor class to which the investor belongs on the day.

Formula

(2) The formula is—

$$\frac{\text{percentage} \times (\text{income} - \text{loss})}{\text{days in period}} - (\text{expenses} - \text{credits for fees}).$$

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula,—

(a) percentage is the percentage of the investor's entitlement to a distribution by the PIE to the investor class:

(b) income is the amount of taxable income determined under section HM 35(5) and (7) for the period:

(c) loss is the amount of tax loss determined under section HM 35(5) and (7) for the period:

(d) days in period is the number of days in the period:

(e) expenses is the total amount for the day in the period of—

(i) fees for management or administration services paid from or charged to the account of the investor as a member of the investor class when the services are ongoing for the investor class:

(ii) expenditure of the investor as a member of the investor class and transferred under subpart DV (Expenditure specific to certain entities) to the PIE:

(f) credits for fees is the amount of the credit for the fee paid or credited by the PIE to the account of the investor as a member of the investor class on the day in the period.

Treatment of attributed loss for PIEs paying provisional tax

(4) Despite subsection (3), an investor in a multi-rate PIE that chooses under section HM 44 to pay provisional tax has no attributed PIE loss.

When derived or incurred

(5) The investor is treated as deriving the attributed PIE income or incurring the attributed PIE loss in the income year of the investor in which the end of the PIE's income year falls.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributed PIE income, attributed PIE loss, attribution period, income, income year, investor, investor class, multi-rate PIE, pay, PIE, provisional tax, tax loss, taxable income

HM 42 Exit calculation option

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a multi-rate PIE chooses for a tax year to calculate its income tax liability for exiting investors and remaining investors. The PIE must notify the Commissioner under section 31B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 of this election.

Calculation for exiting investors

(2) For an investor whose interest has reached the exit level during the tax year, the PIE must calculate its income tax liability under section HM 47 for the investor and the relevant exit period. The exit level and exit periods are determined under sections HM 62 and HM 63.

HM 42B Part-year tax calculations for PIEs under the exit calculation option for the 2010–11 tax year

When this section applies

(1) This section applies to a PIE for the 2010–11 tax year if section HM 42 applies to the PIE for that year and the PIE chooses to apply this section by filing a return under section 57B(5) or (7) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 in accordance with this section.

Part-year tax calculations: description

(2) For calculating their income tax liability for the 2010–11 tax year, the PIE treats references to an income year or a tax year as if they are references to 2 separate tax years and corresponding income years within that tax year, divided by 1 October 2010 (for example: an amount of income attributed to a date before 1 October 2010 is included in the first part-year and taxed using the notified investor rate advised before 1 October 2010. A notified investor rate advised on or after 1 October 2010 is applied only to the amount of income attributed to the second part-year).

Part-year tax calculations: effect

(3) The part-year calculations may give rise to income and deductions for the income year and they do create part-year tax return obligations, except that the requirement for returns under section 57B(7)(a) of the Tax Administration Act 1994 and for notice in relation to investors or proxies under section 31C(4) of that Act can be met by sending returns or notices on a full-year or part-year basis. The 2 part-year calculations create 2 income tax liabilities for 2 part-years.

Foreign tax credits: special rule

(4) Despite subsections (2) and (3), tax credits under subpart LJ (Tax credits for foreign income tax) may be used in accordance with section HM 51 in either part-year, if they are attributable to the first part-year.

Defined in this Act: deduction, income, income tax liability, income year, notified investor rate, PIE, tax credit, tax year

Section HM 42B: inserted, on 1 October 2010, by section 69 of the Taxation (Annual Rates, Trans-Tasman Savings Portability, KiwiSaver, and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 109).

HM 43 Quarterly calculation option

Quarterly calculation

(1) A multi-rate PIE that does not choose to calculate and pay its income tax liability under the exit calculation or provisional tax calculation options, must calculate its tax liability for each quarter of the tax year using the formula set out in section HM 47. The notice requirements are set out in section 31B of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Quarterly payment

(2) The PIE must pay to the Commissioner the amount of its income tax liability for the quarter within 1 month of the end of the quarter.

Exiting investors: zero-rated

(3) If the investor interest of an investor in the PIE has reached the exit level, they are treated under section HM 61 as a zero-rated investor for the exit period which includes a grace period of 5 working days after the end of the quarter. This subsection does not apply if the PIE voluntarily chooses to pay an amount under section HM 45.

Exiting investors: remaining value to Commissioner

(4) If the investor interest of an investor at the end of an exit period is more than zero, the PIE must pay an amount equal to the value of the interest to the Commissioner at the same time as the payment referred to in subsection (2).

Provisional tax rules

(5) The PIE is not required to pay provisional tax under subpart RC (Provisional tax) for the tax year.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, exit level, exit period, income tax liability, investor interest, multi-rate PIE, notice, pay, PIE, provisional tax, quarter, tax year, working day, zero-rated investor

HM 44 Provisional tax calculation option

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a multi-rate PIE chooses to calculate its income tax liability on an income year basis and pay provisional tax by notifying the Commissioner before the start of the income year or when choosing to become a PIE. Notification regarding the type of PIE and attribution period is made under section 31B of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

When this section does not apply

(1B) Despite subsection (1), a multi-rate PIE that chooses under section HM 71B to become a foreign investment PIE must not apply this section to calculate and pay its income tax liability.

Application of subparts RB and RC

(2) The PIE must calculate its tax liability for the income year corresponding to the tax year under section HM 47 and pay provisional tax for the tax year as required by subpart RC (Provisional tax) and terminal tax for the tax year as required by subpart RB (Terminal tax).

Excluding amount from calculation

(2) In determining the net amount for notified foreign investors under sections HM 35 and HM 36, to the extent to which the amount represents an unimputed portion of the dividend, the amount is not included in—

(a) the item assessable income in section HM 35(3):

(a) determine the net amount for each investor class of the PIE:

(b) determine the taxable amount for each investor class of the PIE:

(c) calculate its tax liability for each investor in an investor class for each day of an attribution period.

HM 47 Calculation of tax liability or tax credit of multi-rate PIEs

What this section does

(1) This section quantifies the amount of the tax liability or tax credit of a multi-rate PIE for a calculation period.

Calculating amount

(2) The amount of the PIE's tax liability or tax credit is the sum of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (3) for—

(a) each investor class in which the investor has an investor interest:

(b) each investor in an investor class:

(c) each attribution period in the calculation period:

(d) each day in an attribution period.

Notified foreign investors

(2B) For the purposes of subsection (2), for a notified foreign investor in a foreign investment PIE, the amount of the PIE's tax liability for each investor is the sum of the amounts calculated using the formula in subsection (3) for the amount attributed to the investor for each particular income source and investment type.

Formula

(3) The formula is—

rate × amount.

Definition of items in formula

(4) In the formula,—

(a) rate is—

(i) the tax rate under section HM 58 or HM 60, as applicable, that relates to the investor for each day for the period; or

Result of formula: tax liability or tax credit

If the result is negative, the amount is a tax credit of the PIE under section LS 1 (Tax credits for multi-rate PIEs), see section HM 55. However, a tax credit does not arise under section LS 1 for a multi-rate PIE that chooses to use the provisional tax calculation option.

Negative result and foreign investment PIEs

(6) If the result of the formula in subsection (3) is negative and the multi-rate PIE has chosen under section HM 71B to become a foreign investment PIE, no tax credit arises in relation to an amount attributed to an investor in the PIE who is, at the time of attribution, a notified foreign investor.

(a) 10.5%, if it was 12.5% on 30 September 2010:

(c) 28%, if it was 30% on 30 September 2010.

Exception: new notified rate

(3) Subsection (2) does not apply if the person advises the PIE of a different notified investor rate.

Defined in this Act: multi-rate PIE, notified investor rate, notify

HM 60 Notified investor rates

Notifying PIE

(1) Despite sections HM 56 to HM 58, an investor other than a notified foreign investor who has provided their tax file number to a multi-rate PIE may notify the PIE of the investor rate to be applied for a period (the notified investor rate). Section 28B of the Tax Administration Act 1994 sets out the requirements for the notice.

Time of notification

(2) The investor must give notice before the end of the relevant period.

Application of rate

(3) For an investor for an income year, a multi-rate PIE must apply the most recent notified investor rate to every day in the period. However, for the 2010–11 income year, the most recent notified investor rate on or after 1 October 2010 is applied only to every day on or after 1 October 2010. For a day before 1 October 2010, the multi-rate PIE may apply a notified investor rate corresponding to the most recent notified investor rate, ignoring the Taxation (Budget Measures) Act 2010 (for example: a notified investor rate of 12.5% may be applied before 1 October 2010, if the most recent notified investor rate on or after 1 October 2010 is 10.5%).

Exception

(3B) Subsection (3) does not apply if the PIE has made a voluntary payment of tax under section HM 45 that is intended to satisfy its income tax liability for the period in relation to the investor unless the rate last notified applies to the voluntary payment.

When chosen rate lower than rate in sections HM 56 to HM 58

(4) If an investor advises a notified investor rate that is lower than their prescribed investor rate that would apply under sections HM 56 to HM 58, income attributed to them by the PIE is not excluded income of the investor under section CX 56 (Attributed income of certain investors in multi-rate PIEs).

When rate disregarded

(5) The Commissioner may notify a PIE to disregard an investor's notified investor rate if the Commissioner considers the rate is incorrect. The notification must include a rate for the investor that the Commissioner considers appropriate.

When no rate notified

(6) If an investor does not advise a multi-rate PIE of their notified investor rate, the rate applying for a period is 28%.

Defined in this Act: Commissioner, excluded income, income, investor, multi-rate PIE, notified foreign investor, notify, notified investor rate, pay, PIE, prescribed investor rate, tax file number

(4) Subsections (2) and (3) are applied immediately before section HG 2 (Partnerships are transparent) applies.

Initial basis

(5) For the purposes of applying sections HG 11 and HG 12 (which relate to limited partnership deduction rules) to the partners of a limited partnership described in subsection (2), all of the partners must choose 1 of the 2 following methods for calculating their partner's basis under section HG 11(3):

(a) they may choose to use the market value or the accounting book value of the amounts described in section HG 11(3), as at the end of the income year before the transitional income year; or

(b) they may choose to apply section HG 11(3) as if the qualifying company had always been a limited partnership and all relevant rules relating to limited partnerships had always existed, applying those rules with any necessary modifications.

Initial basis not less than zero

(6) If the application of sections HG 11 and HG 12, as modified by this section, calculates a partner's basis as less than zero, then the partner's basis is treated as being zero.

Meaning of QCP transitional process

(7) QCP transitional process means a process, for which all outcomes are achieved in an income year (the transitional income year), by which a company or companies that are all qualifying companies at the end of the income year before the transitional income year transform into a partnership. The process must have the following outcomes:

(a) the Commissioner receives a notice from the qualifying company or companies before the day that is 6 months after the start of the transitional income year, stating an intention to revoke the company's or companies' qualifying company status and to complete the QCP transitional process relating to the partnership for the transitional income year; and

(b) the partners, or in the case of a limited partnership, the partners other than a company that is a general partner, are the same persons who, at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, were the shareholders of the qualifying company or companies, ignoring any person who dies in the transitional year; and

(c) all assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, of the qualifying companies are moved to the partnership, excluding those that are inappropriate for a partnership; and

(d) each partner must have the same net position in the partnership as to relevant assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, as would arise on the winding up of the qualifying company or companies at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, treating any person who dies in the transitional year as still being a partner.

Defined in this Act: ASC, Commissioner, company, income year, Inland Revenue Acts, limited partnership, memorandum account, partner, partnership, QCP transitional process, qualifying company, tax position, transfer

(a) they may choose to use the market value or the accounting book value of the amounts described in section HB 11(3), as at the end of the income year before the transitional income year; or

(b) they may choose to apply section HB 11(3) as if the qualifying company had always been a look-through company and all relevant rules relating to look-through companies had always existed, applying those rules with any necessary modifications.

Initial basis not less than zero

(3) If the application of sections HB 11 and HB 12, as modified by this section, calculates an owner's basis as less than zero, then the owner's basis is treated as being zero.

Continuity of elections and methods

HZ 4D Qualifying companies: transition into sole traderships

When this section applies

(1) This section applies when a QCST transitional process is carried out for a qualifying company for the first or second income year, whichever is relevant, that starts on or after 1 April 2011 (the transitional income year).

QCST transitional process: retrospective rule

(2) From the first day of the transitional income year to the first day of existence for the sole tradership that effectively replaces the qualifying company under a QCST transitional process, the sole tradership is treated as existing and having the assets and liabilities of the qualifying company, and associated rights and obligations, for that period. On and after the first day of the transitional year, the existence of the qualifying company is ignored for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts except to the extent necessary to give effect to this section.

Taxation continuity

(3) The moving to the sole tradership of the assets, liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, under a QCST transitional process is treated for the purposes of the Inland Revenue Acts as a unique form of transference for such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations, with the following effects:

(a) the moving to the sole tradership of the assets, liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, is treated as not being a transfer of such assets, liabilities, rights, and obligations:

(b) the qualifying company has, before the first day of the transitional income year, the tax position in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations (the historical tax position):

(c) the sole tradership is treated as stepping into the place of the qualifying company, and as having, on and after the first day of the transitional income year,—

(i) the qualifying company's historical tax position; and

(ii) the tax position in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, that it would have if it had always had the historical tax position:

(d) the qualifying company has no tax position in relation to the assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, on and after the first day of the transitional income year:

(e) all memorandum account balances and other tax accounting amounts for the qualifying company before the first day of the transitional income year are ignored and have no effect on and after that day (for example, the qualifying company has no effective ASC on and after the first day of the transitional income year).

Meaning of QCST transitional process

(4) QCST transitional process means a process, for which all outcomes are achieved in an income year (the transitional income year), by which a company that is a qualifying company at the end of the income year before the transitional income year is transformed into a sole tradership. The process must have the following outcomes:

(a) the Commissioner receives a notice from the qualifying company before the day that is 6 months after the start of the transitional income year, stating an intention to revoke the company's qualifying company status and to complete the QCST transitional process relating to the sole tradership for the transitional income year; and

(b) the sole tradership is the same natural person who, at the end of the income year before the transitional income year, is the sole shareholder of the qualifying company; and

(c) all assets and liabilities, and associated rights and obligations, of the qualifying company are moved to the sole tradership, excluding those that are inappropriate for a sole tradership.

Defined in this Act: ASC, Commissioner, company, income year, Inland Revenue Acts, memorandum account, notice, QCST transitional process, qualifying company, tax position, transfer Section HZ 4D: inserted, on 1 April 2011 (applying for income years beginning on or after 1 April 2011), by section 104(1) of the Taxation (GST and Remedial Matters) Act 2010 (2010 No 130).

HZ 5 Transitional provisions for PIE rules

Intention of new law

(1) The PIE rules are the provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities in rewritten form, and are intended to have the same effect as the relevant corresponding provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007. Subsection (3) overrides this subsection.

Using old law as interpretation guide

(2) Unless subsection (3) applies, in circumstances where the meaning of a PIE rule (the new law) is unclear or gives rise to absurdity—

(a) the wording of the provisions of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities that correspond to and are replaced by the PIE rules (the old law) must be used to determine the correct meaning of the new law; and

(b) it can be assumed that a corresponding old law provision exists for each new law provision.

Limits to subsections (1) and (2)

(3) Subsections (1) and (2) do not apply in the case of—

(a) a PIE rule that repeals an old law and replaces it with a new law:

(b) a PIE rule that is amended after the commencement of section 292(2) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009, with effect from the date on which the amendment comes into force.

Defined in this Act: PIE rules, portfolio investment entity

Section HZ 5: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 295(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

HZ 6 Saving of binding rules relating to portfolio investment entities

When, and extent to which, this section applies

(1) This section applies when, and to the extent to which,—

(a) before the commencement of this Act,—

(i) an applicant has applied for a private ruling, a product ruling, or a status ruling, on an arrangement that is entered into, or that the applicant seriously contemplates will be entered into, before the commencement of this Act:

(ii) a public ruling is issued; and

(b) the binding ruling is about a provision of the Income Tax Act 2007 relating to portfolio investment entities (the old law) that corresponds to and is replaced by the PIE rules; and

(c) the PIE rules corresponding to the old law (the new law) come into force on 1 April 2010; and

(d) the binding ruling—

(i) continues to exist at the commencement of this Act:

(ii) is made after the commencement of this Act in relation to an old law before 1 April 2010:

(iii) is made in relation to an old law provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 to which section ZA 4 (Saving of binding rulings) of the Income Tax Act 2007 applies, that continues to exist at the commencement of this Act; and

(e) in the absence of this section, the commencement of this Act would mean that the binding ruling would cease to apply because of section 91G of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Ruling about new law

(2) The binding ruling is treated as if it were made about the new law, so that the effect of the ruling at the commencement of this Act is the same as its effect before the commencement.

No confirmation rulings

(3) To the extent to which a binding ruling continued by subsection (2) exists and applies to an arrangement, or to a person and an arrangement, the Commissioner must not make a binding ruling on how—

(a) the new law applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement; or

(b) this subsection applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement.

Defined in this Act: arrangement, binding ruling, Commissioner, PIE rules, portfolio investment entity

Section HZ 6: inserted, on 1 April 2010 (applying for the 2010–11 and later income years), by section 295(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

HZ 7 Saving of binding rulings relating to settlements on trusts

When, and extent to which, this section applies

(1) This section applies when, and to the extent to which,—

(a) before the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009—

(i) an applicant has applied for a binding ruling on an arrangement that is entered into, or that the applicant seriously contemplates will be entered into, before the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009:

(ii) a binding ruling is issued; and

(b) the binding ruling is about a provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 on the question of whether an amount is a settlement on a trust; and

(c) the binding ruling—

(i) is made before or after the commencement of this Act and continues to exist at the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009; and

(ii) is made in relation to a provision of the Income Tax Act 2004 to which section ZA 4 (Saving of binding rulings) of this Act would have applied but for the intended change listed in schedule 51 (Identified changes in legislation) for section HC 27(2) (Who is a settlor?); and

(d) in the absence of this section, the commencement of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 would mean that the binding ruling would cease to apply because of section 91G of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Ruling about new law

(2) The binding ruling continues to exist despite the intended change referred to in subsection (1)(c)(ii) from the commencement of this Act to the date on which the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 receives the Royal assent.

No confirmation rulings

(3) To the extent to which a binding ruling continued by subsection (2) exists and applies to an arrangement, or to a person and an arrangement, the Commissioner must not make a binding ruling in the period that starts on the date of the commencement of this Act and ends on the date on which the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 receives the Royal assent on how—

(a) the new law applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement; or

(b) this subsection applies to the arrangement or to the person and the arrangement.

Section HZ 7: added (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 7 December 2009, by section 53 of the Taxation (Consequential Rate Alignment and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 63).

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 2(2)

IC 6 Common ownership for period

Commonality period

(1) For the purposes of section IC 2(2), common ownership under section IC 3 must exist from the start of the income year in which company A has a tax loss component that is included in the tax loss to the end of the income year in which company B subtracts the amount of the tax loss component from its net income. In this Part, this length of time is called the commonality period.

Multiple net losses

(2) The requirement set out in subsection (1) applies to net losses as they arise in an income year on an individual basis.

When companies have different balance dates

(3) If the balance dates of company A and company B are different, section IC 10(2)(b) applies to extend the commonality period.

Relationship with section IZ 7

(4) section IZ 7(1) and (2) (Grouping tax losses for tax years before 1981–82 and between 1981–82 and 1991–92) overrides subsections (1) and (2).

Defined in this Act: commonality period, company, income year, net income, tax loss, tax loss component

Compare: 2004 No 35 ss IG 1(1), (2), IG 2(2)(c), (4)(d)(ii), (5)(c)(ii)

Defined in this Act: business, commonality period, company, double tax agreement, fixed establishment, income tax, New Zealand, resident in New Zealand

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 2(2)(d), (11)

IC 8 Limitations on amounts used

Limit on amounts

(1) A tax loss made available, or a payment made, under section IC 5(2) must be no more than the amount that would be company B's net income for the tax year in which it subtracts the amount of the tax loss.

Limit for payments

(2) An amount that company B agrees to pay company A under section IC 5(2)(b) must be no more than the amount of company A's tax loss.

No accounting for amount by companies

(3) Company A and company B must ignore this section in calculating their net incomes, but for the purposes of grouping tax losses, company B's net income is found after taking into account—

(a) first, its own losses; and

(b) secondly, a tax loss made available to company B by another company.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, loss, net income, pay, tax loss, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 2(2)(f), (g)

Extended return date

(3) In subsections (1) and (2), extended return date means the 31 March that, for company A and the tax year in which the amount of the tax loss is subtracted, is the latest date to which the time for providing the return of income may be extended under section 37(5) of the Tax Administration Act 1994.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, extended return date, notify, pay, return of income, tax loss, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 2(2)(g), (3)

IC 10 When companies have different balance dates

When this section applies

Extensions for continuity and common ownership

(2) If company B's income year ends after the last day of company A's income year, for section IC 5 to apply to a tax loss in a corresponding tax year,—

(a) continuity of ownership in company A under section IC 2(1) must extend to the end of company B's income year; and

(b) common ownership of company A and company B under section IC 3 or IC 4 must extend to the end of company B's income year.

Part-year tax losses

(3) This section applies for part-year calculations through section IP 2(2) (Group companies' common span).

IC 11 Reduction of amounts used by companies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year if—

(a) company A has a tax loss for the tax year that is made available to, and subtracted by, more than 1 company that is part of the group of companies; and

(b) the Commissioner determines under section 113 of the Tax Administration Act 1994 that the actual total tax loss for the tax year is less than the sum of the amounts subtracted by the companies in the group, and notifies company A.

Reduced amounts

(2) The relevant companies must reduce the amounts they subtracted either in the way company A allocates under subsection (3) or, if no allocation is made, proportionately under subsection (4).

Company A's allocation

(3) Company A may choose how the amount by which the total must be reduced is allocated between or among the companies. But if company A allocates an amount to a company that is no longer part of the group at the time of the allocation, and the amount is more than a proportionate amount, the allocation is disregarded. Subsection (6) sets out the notice requirements for this subsection.

Proportionate amounts

(4) If company A does not allocate the amounts by which the total must be reduced, the amounts subtracted by the group companies are reduced in the same proportion as that by which the total amount was reduced in determining the actual total tax loss.

Subvention payments

(5) If the reduction results in a payment under section IC 5(2)(b) being treated as a dividend, the dividend is reduced to the extent to which the payment is repaid by company A within the notification period referred to in subsection (6).

Notifying Commissioner

(6) For the purposes of subsections (3) and (5), company A must notify the Commissioner of the allocation within 6 months after the date on which the Commissioner notifies company A that the reduction is required. However, the Commissioner may agree to extend this notification period.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, dividend, group of companies, notify, tax loss, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 2(7)

IC 12 Bad debts or decline in value of shares

When this section applies

(1) This section applies to companies that are part of a group of companies in a tax year when—

(a) a company (company C) in the group has in the tax year a deduction—

(i) under section DB 31 (Bad debts) for a loan to another company in the group:

(ii) for a decline in the value of shares in another company in the group; and

(b) a company (company A) in the group, other than company C, has a tax loss for the tax year that includes a tax loss component arising from a deduction—

(i) for expenditure funded by the loan referred to in paragraph (a)(i) or by the issue to company A of the shares referred to in paragraph (a)(ii); and

(ii) taken into account in calculating company A's tax loss for the 1993–94 tax year or a later tax year.

Limitation on loss grouping

(2) The amount of company A's tax loss cannot be made available to another company in the group to use except to the extent to which the amount of the tax loss is more than the total amount of the deductions referred to in subsection (1)(a). To that extent, company A may choose to make the excess amount available to a group company to use under section IA 3(2) and IA 5 (which relate to using and carrying forward tax losses) if the requirements for grouping tax losses are met.

Determining decline in value of shares

(3) For the purposes of this section, shares are treated as declining in value if,—

(a) on the disposal of the shares, the amount for which they were disposed of is less than the deduction for the cost of the shares; or

(b) when the shares have not been disposed of, their value as calculated under subpart EB (Valuation of trading stock (including dealer's livestock)) or otherwise declines.

Section IC 13: added (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 6 October 2009, by section 299 of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

Subpart ID—Use of tax losses by consolidated groups

ID 1 Treatment of tax losses by consolidated groups

Consolidated group's net losses

(1) A tax loss of a consolidated group of companies is treated as the consolidated group's tax loss, not the tax loss of a company that is part of the consolidated group. Subparts IA and IC (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses), as modified by this subpart, apply as if the consolidated group were 1 company.

Ring-fenced tax losses

(2) Nothing in this subpart applies to a consolidated group whose companies are mining companies.

Defined in this Act: company, consolidated group, mining company, tax loss

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(1A)–(3)

ID 2 Pre-consolidation losses: general treatment

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year when a company that meets the requirements of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) and is part of a consolidated group has a pre-consolidation loss balance carried forward to the tax year.

First use

(2) The first use of the loss balance must be to make the amount of the loss balance available to the consolidated group to subtract from its net income, so far as it extends, for the tax year.

Second use

(3) If, after subsection (2) is applied, some of the loss balance remains, the company may choose to do 1 or more of the following:

(a) subtract the remaining amount from its net income for the tax year:

(b) make the remaining amount available to another consolidated group to subtract from its net income for the tax year:

(c) make the remaining amount available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss).

Third use

(4) If, after subsections (2) and (3) are applied, a loss balance remains, the remaining amount is carried forward to the next tax year.

Relationship with sections IA 3, IA 4, IC 5, and provisions in this subpart

(5) This section overrides sections IA 3, IA 4, and IC 5 (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses). Sections ID 3 to ID 5 override this section.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, consolidated group, net income, loss balance, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(4), (6), (7)

ID 3 Pre-consolidation losses: use by group companies

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year when—

(a) a company (company A) that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies; and

(b) company A, in the continuity period relating to a tax loss component included in the loss balance, does not have the required common ownership under section IC 3 (Common ownership: group of companies) with 1 or more companies in the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

(2) The amount made available under section ID 2(2) to the consolidated group is limited as follows:

(a) if all the companies, including company A, in the consolidated group meet the requirements of section IC 6(1) (Common ownership for period): the amount available is limited to the amount of the loss balance to the extent of the net income of the consolidated group for the tax year:

(b) if some of the companies in the consolidated group meet the requirements of section IC 6(1): the amount available is limited to the total of—

(i) the amount that company A could subtract from its net income for the tax year if it were not in the tax year part of a consolidated group; and

(ii) the amount that could be made available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss) to the other group companies in the tax year, ignoring the consolidation of the companies and presuming all steps required under section IC 5 were taken in order for the section to apply.

Relationship with section FM 3

(3) In subsection (2), the calculation of the consolidated group's net income must be made in accordance with section FM 3 (Liability of consolidated groups and group companies).

Relationship with section ID 2

(4) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, company, consolidated group, continuity period, group of companies, loss balance, net income, tax loss component, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(6)

Section ID 3(1): substituted (with effect on 1 April 2008), on 6 October 2009, by section 300(1) of the Taxation (International Taxation, Life Insurance, and Remedial Matters) Act 2009 (2009 No 34).

ID 4 Pre-consolidation losses on entry: part-year rule

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if a company that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies in a tax year when the company joins the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

(2) The amount of the loss balance to be made available to the consolidated group under section ID 2(2) is the lesser of the amount the company establishes in financial statements under subsection (3), or the amount calculated using the formula in subsection (4), but in either case, it must not be more than the limit set out in section ID 3(2).

Financial statements

(3) The company may establish the amount to be made available by providing the Commissioner, at the time of providing the consolidated group's return of income, with adequate financial statements that—

(a) relate to the part of the tax year when the company was part of the consolidated group; and

(b) disclose the amount that would be the net income attributable to the part of the tax year when the company was part of the consolidated group, determined on a fair and reasonable basis of attribution.

Formula

(4) The amount that may be made available under section ID 2(2) and referred to in subsection (2) is calculated using the formula—unused amount − (part-year net income + part-year net loss).

Definition of items in formula

(5) In the formula,—

(a) unused amount is the loss balance carried forward from an earlier tax year or years that would be subtracted from the consolidated group's net income for the tax year in the absence of ID 3 or this section:

(b) part-year net income is the company's net income for the part of the tax year before the company joins the consolidated group:

(c) part-year net loss is the amount of a pre-consolidation tax loss that must be subtracted under section ID 2 from the net income of another consolidated group of which the company was part in the tax year before joining the consolidated group referred to in subsection (1).

Relationship with section ID 2

(6) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, consolidated group, loss balance, net income, return of income, tax loss, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(7)

ID 5 Pre-consolidation losses on exit: part-year rule

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if a company that is part of a consolidated group has a loss balance to which section ID 2 applies in a tax year when the company leaves the consolidated group.

Limit on amount available

(2) In addition to the amount available under section IP 3(3) (Continuity breach: tax loss components of companies carried forward) but subject to the limit in section ID 3(2), the amount of the company's loss balance that is carried forward to the tax year must be no more than the consolidated group's net income for the relevant part of the tax year. For part-year calculations, *see*subpart IP (Meeting requirements for part-years).

Financial statements

(3) The consolidated group must provide the Commissioner with adequate financial statements that disclose the amount that would be the consolidated group's net income for the relevant part of the tax year, determined on a fair and reasonable basis of attribution. The statements must be filed with the consolidated group's return of income for the tax year.

Continuity requirements

(4) For the purposes of this section, the company must meet the threshold level set out in section IC 2(1) (Threshold levels for grouping tax losses in tax year) for the relevant part of the tax year.

Relationship with section ID 2

(5) This section overrides section ID 2.

Defined in this Act: amount, Commissioner, company, consolidated group, loss balance, net income, return of income, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 6(8)

Subpart IE—Treatment of tax losses on amalgamation of companies

(a) has not, before the date of amalgamation, been used by the company; and

(b) could be made available and subtracted from the amalgamated company's net income for the part of the tax year that ends with the date of amalgamation.

Attributing losses to amalgamated company

(2) If the amalgamated company meets the requirements of section IE 5, the tax loss is attributed to the amalgamated company. The amalgamated company may, after the date of amalgamation, subtract the amount of the tax loss from its net income for the tax year, or make it available to another company to subtract from its net income for the tax year.

Other amalgamating companies

(3) In subsection (1)(b), the amalgamated company includes a company that has amalgamated with the amalgamating company before or during the tax year in which the amount is used. The tax year referred to in that subsection means the tax year of the relevant company.

(a) has not, before the date of amalgamation, been used by the company; and

(b) could be made available under and subtracted by each amalgamating company from the net income attributable to the part of the relevant company's tax year that ends with the date of amalgamation.

Loss balances carried forward

(2) If the requirements of sections IA 5, IC 2, and IC 5 (which relate to the use and grouping of tax losses) are met, the amalgamated company's loss balance is carried forward to the tax year in which the amalgamation takes place or to a later tax year.

Attributed CFC net losses and FIF net losses

(3) For the purposes of subsection (1)(b), if the tax loss is an attributed controlled foreign company (CFC) net loss or a foreign investment fund (FIF) net loss, it may be made available only to a wholly-owned group of companies.

Relationship with sections IA 3 and IA 4

(4) This section overrides sections IA 3 and IA 4 (which relate to the general use of tax losses).

Defined in this Act: amalgamated company, amalgamating company, amalgamation, attributed CFC net loss, FIF net loss, loss balance, net income, tax loss, tax year, wholly-owned group of companies

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 9

IE 5 Applying the continuity provisions when companies amalgamate

The provisions of this Act apply as if the amalgamated company did not exist separately before amalgamation, and was instead the amalgamating companies with the same holders of shares and options over shares, each with the same number and class of shares and options over shares, as they held in the amalgamating company, to determine whether a tax loss or loss balance,—

(a) may be used or is carried forward under sections IA 3 and IA 4 (which relate to the general use of tax losses):

(b) may be subtracted from the net income of another company under section IC 5, IQ 4, or IQ 5 (which relate to a company's use of another company's loss, including foreign losses):

(c) in the case of a group company, may be subtracted from the net income of the amalgamated company under section IC 5, IQ 4, or IQ 5.

(a) when commonality of ownership required by section IC 5(1)(a) (Company B using company A's tax loss) is not met during a tax year (a commonality breach):

(b) when continuity of ownership required by section IA 5(1) (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) is broken during a tax year, or when a new or existing company joins a group of companies during a tax year (a continuity breach).

Relationship with subparts IA, IC, and ID: part-year calculations

(2) The general rules for the treatment of tax losses in subparts IA, IC, and ID (which relate to the general use and grouping of tax losses) apply, as modified or overridden by the provisions of this subpart, to—

(a) a part-year tax loss as if it were a tax loss for a tax year:

(b) part-year net income as if it were net income for a tax year:

(c) the common span as if the period of time were a tax year.

Defined in this Act: common span, net income, tax loss, tax year

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 2(4)(e), (f), (5)(e), (f)

ments for commonality of ownership under section IC 5(1)(a) (Company B using company A's tax loss) are met is called the common span.

Common span when balance dates differ

(2) If the income years of company A and company B do not end on the same date, the common span is that part of company B's income year or income years in which the requirements for commonality are met. IC 10(2)(b) (When companies have different balance dates) may apply to extend the period.

Calculating group companies' tax losses

(3) For the purposes of this subpart and the grouping of tax losses, the amount of a tax loss component is found after taking into account any amount of the tax loss component subtracted from the net income of any group company.

Defined in this Act: amount, common span, company, income year, net income, tax loss, tax loss component

Compare: 2004 No 35 s IG 2(2)(e), (4)(c), (d), (5)(b), (c)

Tax loss components carried forward

IP 3 Continuity breach: tax loss components of companies carried forward

When this section applies

(1) This section applies for the purposes of section IA 4 (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year) if a breach occurs in the requirements for continuity of ownership of section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) that enable a tax loss component included in a company's loss balance to be carried forward to or from a tax year.

Tax loss components for earlier income years

(2) Despite the breach, a tax loss component arising in an earlier income year is carried forward to a tax year (year A) to the extent to which—

(a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year of the company that corresponds to year A; and

(b) the company has net income for part of the corresponding income year; and

(c) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6 calculating the amount of the company's net income for the relevant part of the corresponding income year.

Limit on tax loss components carried forward to year A

(3) The total tax loss components carried forward under subsection (2) must be no more than the amount calculated under subsection (2)(b) and (c), although the amount may be increased if IP 5 applies.

Tax loss components of year of breach

(4) Despite the breach, a tax loss component is carried forward to the tax year (year B) from year A to the extent to which—

(a) the requirements for continuity of ownership would be met if the continuity period included only part of the income year that corresponds to year A; and

(b) the company provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6 calculating the amount of the company's net loss for the part of year A.

Limit on tax loss components carried forward to year B

(5) The amount of the tax loss component carried forward under subsection (4) must be the least of—

Modified requirements

(2) The tax loss component is included in a tax loss that company A makes available under section IA 3(2) (Using tax losses in tax year) to company B only to the extent to which the following requirements, which modify those set out in section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss), are met:

(a) the tax loss component arises in the common span; and

(ab) the amount of the tax loss component is no more than the net income that company B derives in the common span; and

(b) continuity of ownership in company A under section IC 2(1) (Threshold levels for grouping tax losses in tax year) applies from the beginning to the end of the common span; and

(c) company A and company B provide the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6; and

(d) company A notifies the Commissioner of the treatment of the tax loss under section IP 7.

Determining amounts

(3) For the purposes of determining the amount of tax loss that company A and company B may use, sections IC 5 and IC 8 (which relate to the treatment of tax losses by companies) apply as if the common span were a corresponding income year.

Relationship with section IC 8

(4) Despite subsection (2)(ab), section IC 8 overrides this section in limiting the amount that may be used when the net income derived in the common span is more than the net income of company B for the income year.

(a) the amount of company A's loss balance carried forward to the tax year in which the breach occurred is not more than the amount of—

(i) company B's net income for the common span, if no company in the group other than company B has net income for the common span of more than zero; or

(ii) the total of the amounts of net income for the common span of companies in the group; and

(c) company B provides the Commissioner with adequate financial statements under section IP 6; and

(d) company A notifies the Commissioner of the treatment of the tax loss under section IP 7.

(b) relates to a CFC or FIF that is resident in a country (the jurisdiction) in which the loss arose; and

(c) is carried forward to a tax year (the conversion year) in which this section applies to the person or is made available to the person for the conversion year by another company in the same group.

What this section does

(2) In this section, subsection (3) gives the person an option that available BE loss for a jurisdiction not be carried forward and subsections (4) to (7) give, for whichever of the 4 possible alternative situations is relevant for the person,—

(i) treated as being converted into an amount referred to in paragraph (b) in the conversion year; and

(ii) is not available to the person to be carried forward as available BE loss for a later tax year:

(b) the amount (the equivalent CFC loss) of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss that, for the purposes of the rest of this subpart, is treated as arising on the last day of the conversion year.

Option: loss not carried forward

(3) A person may choose by giving a notice in a form and at a time acceptable to the Commissioner that the available BE loss for a jurisdiction not be carried forward under this section.

Person not resident group member: more jurisdictional BE income

(4) For a person who is not a resident group member and has jurisdictional BE income for the conversion year that is greater than zero and greater than the person's jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year,—

(ii) the person's available BE loss for the conversion year:

(b) the person's equivalent CFC loss is the lesser of—

(i) the person's available BE loss for the conversion year:

(ii) the person's jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year:

(b) the person's equivalent CFC loss is equal to the person's converted BE loss for the conversion year.

(6) For a person who is a resident group member for a wholly-owned group of companies and has jurisdictional BE income for the conversion year that is greater than zero and greater than the person's jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year,—

(a) the person's converted BE loss for the conversion year is the lesser of—

(i) the person's available BE loss for the conversion year:

(ii) the greater of the person's jurisdictional BE income for the conversion year and the amount calculated by multiplying the group's jurisdictional income ratio for the conversion year by the person's jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year:

(b) the person's equivalent CFC loss is the amount calculated by dividing the person's converted BE loss for the conversion year by the group's jurisdictional income ratio for the conversion year.

Resident group member: more jurisdictional attributed income

(7) For a person who is a resident group member and has jurisdictional attributed income for the conversion year that is greater than or equal to zero and greater than or equal to the person's jurisdictional BE income for the conversion year,—

Election by person or group to fix jurisdictional income ratio

(8) A person or wholly-owned group may choose under this subsection by notice, in a form and at a time acceptable to the Commissioner, that the person or members of the group use a jurisdictional income ratio—

IQ 3 Ring-fencing cap on FIF net losses

Limit on amount: branch equivalent method

(1) If a person's FIF net loss is carried forward to a tax year (the current tax year) or FIF net loss is made available to the person in the current tax year,—

(a) FIF net loss relating to a tax year for which section IQ 2B applies to the person is available to be subtracted under section IQ 2 from the person's net income for the current tax year; and

(b) FIF net loss relating to a tax year for which section IQ 2B does not apply to the person—

(i) is available to be subtracted from the person's net income for the current tax year to the extent of the equivalent CFC loss under section IQ 2B; and

(ii) is reduced in the current tax year by the converted BE loss under section IQ 2B.

Relationship with section CQ 5

(2) Despite subsection (1) and section IQ 2, if the person's FIF net loss is carried forward to a tax year and section CQ 5(1)(d) or (e) (When FIF income arises) applies, they may subtract the amount from their net income for the tax year, but only to the extent to which the amount is no more than their assessable income from interests that would be interests in a FIF for the tax year in the absence of that section.

Treatment of excess

(3) If the person cannot use all of the amount that is available tax loss under section IQ 2(1) because there is insufficient net income, the surplus is no longer available to them as a FIF net loss, but becomes a tax loss component under section IA 2(4) (Tax losses).

IQ 4 Group companies using attributed CFC net losses

What this section does

(1) This section supplements the general rules relating to the grouping of net losses when, for a tax year (the current tax year), a company (company A) that is part of a group of companies has an amount—

(a) of attributed CFC net loss for the current tax year or carried forward from an earlier tax year, or FIF net loss for the current tax year or carried forward from an earlier tax year; and

(b) remaining after section IQ 2 is applied for the current tax year and before any amount is made available to another company under this section.

Modifications to general rules for grouping net losses

(2) For determining whether company A may make available an amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss to another company (company B) in the group of companies, the general rules relating to the grouping of net losses are modified as follows:

(a) the group of companies must be a wholly-owned group of companies; and

(b) subpart IC (Grouping tax losses) and section GB 4 (Arrangements for grouping tax losses: companies) apply as if an amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss were a tax loss component; and

(c) subsection (3) overrides sections IC 5(1)(d) and IC 8 (which impose limits on the amount of transferred tax loss):

(d) section IA 3(2) (Using tax losses in tax year) and subpart IP (Meeting requirements for part-years) do not apply.

Ring-fencing cap rule modified

(3) The amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss that company A may make available to company B in the tax year is limited by the following:

(a) the total amount made available by company A to group companies must not exceed the amount referred to in subsection (1); and

(b) the resulting reduction in company B's net income in the tax year must not exceed the total amount that company B derives in the tax year of attributed CFC income from CFCs, or FIF income calculated under the attributable FIF income method from FIFs, resident in the country or territory (the jurisdiction) in which the loss arose, reduced by the total of the following:

(i) the total amount of the attributed CFC income or FIF income taken into account in calculating a deduction of company B under section DN 4 or DN 8 (which relate to ring-fencing caps on deductions):

(ii) the total amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss that company B derives in the tax year from CFCs or FIFs resident in the jurisdiction:

(iii) the total amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss, from CFCs or FIFs resident in the jurisdiction, that company B carries forward to the tax year and is available tax loss for company B:

(iv) the total amount of attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss, from CFCs or FIFs resident in the jurisdiction, that is made available to company B for the tax year under this section by a company other than company A.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributed CFC income, attributed CFC net loss, available tax loss, branch equivalent method, CFC, company, deduction, FIF, FIF income, FIF net loss, group of companies, net income, net loss, tax loss component, tax year, wholly-owned group of companies

IQ 6 Pre-consolidation losses: general treatment

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if a company that is part of a consolidated group has under section IQ 1B an attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss carried forward to a tax year.

First use

(2) The first use of the amount must be by the company under subsection (3) or (4) in making the amount available to the consolidated group to subtract from its net income, so far as it extends, for the tax year.

CFC net losses

(3) If the amount is an attributed CFC net loss, it may be used only to the extent to which it is no more than the attributed CFC income that the consolidated group derives in the tax year from a CFC resident in the country in which the loss arose.

FIF net losses

(4) If the amount is a FIF net loss, it may be used only to the extent to which it is no more than the FIF income that the consolidated group derives in the tax year from a FIF resident in the country in which the loss arose.

Second use

(5) If, after applying subsection (2), some of the amount remains, the company may—

(a) subtract the remaining amount from its net income for the tax year; or

(b) make the remaining amount available to another consolidated group to subtract from its net income for the tax year under section IQ 4 or IQ 5; or

(c) make the remaining amount available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss).

Defined in this Act: amount, attributed CFC income, attributed CFC net loss, CFC, company, consolidated group, FIF, FIF income, FIF net loss, net income, tax year

IQ 7 When group membership lacking in loss period

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if—

(a) a company that is part of a consolidated group has a ring-fenced tax loss consisting of either an attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss, or both, that is carried forward to a tax year and must be used under section IQ 6; and

(b) the company was not part of the consolidated group in the earlier tax year in which the net loss arose; and

(c) the company and 1 or more of the companies in the consolidated group do not meet the requirements for common ownership of section IC 5(1)(a) (Company B using company A's tax loss) for the loss period.

Limit on amount

(2) The amount that may be subtracted from the net income of the consolidated group in the tax year under section ID 2(2) must be no more than the total of—

(a) the amount of ring-fenced tax loss referred to in subsection (1) that the company could use to reduce its net income in the tax year under IQ 2 or IQ 3 as applicable, if it were not in the tax year part of a consolidated group; and

(b) the amount of ring-fenced tax loss referred to in subsection (1) that the company could group with other companies in the group under section IQ 4 or IQ 5, as applicable, determining—

(i) the net income for each of the companies using the group's calculation of each company's net income; and

(ii) the maximum amount of tax loss to be made available, ignoring the consolidation of the companies and presuming all steps required under those sections were taken in order for them to apply.

Relationship with section FM 3

(3) In subsection (2), the amount of net income must be calculated in accordance with section FM 3 (Liability of consolidated groups and group companies).

Meaning of loss period

(4) In this section, the loss period means the tax year in which the ring-fenced tax loss arose and any tax years falling between that tax year and the tax year in which the amount is subtracted from net income.

IQ 8 When group membership lacking in tax year of use

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if a company joins a consolidated group in a tax year with a ring-fenced tax loss consisting of an attributed CFC net loss or FIF net loss, or both, carried forward to the tax year, which must be used in the tax year under section IQ 6.

Limit on amount

(2) The amount that may be subtracted from the net income of the consolidated group for the tax year under section ID 2(2) is the lesser of—

(a) the amount of ring-fenced tax loss referred to in section IQ 7(1) that the company could subtract from—

(i) the amount that would be the company's net income for the part of the tax year in which it was not part of a consolidated group; and

(ii) the net income for the tax year of another consolidated group of which the company was part before joining the present group; and

(b) the amount that would be the group's net income for the part of the tax year in which the company was part of the consolidated group, established by giving the Commissioner, at the time of providing the group's return of income for the tax year, adequate financial statements that—

(i) relate to the part of the tax year when the company was part of the group; and

IQ 9 When attributed CFC net loss becomes FIF net loss

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if, in a tax year, a person has an attributed CFC net loss that, under section 38 of the Income Tax Amendment Act (No 2) 1993, becomes a FIF net loss.

Treatment of net losses

(2) The attributed CFC net loss is treated as a FIF net loss of the person with effect from the tax year, as if the CFC were a FIF.

Calculation methods

(3) For the purposes of subsection (2) and the calculation of the amount of the loss, the branch equivalent method is not used unless the person calculates their FIF income or net loss under the branch equivalent method in relation to the interest on the date of the transition from an attributed CFC net loss to a FIF net loss.

Defined in this Act: amount, attributed CFC net loss, branch equivalent method, CFC, FIF, FIF income, FIF net loss, tax year

Subpart IS—Mining companies' and petroleum miners' tax losses

IS 1 General treatment of mining companies' net losses

Groups of companies

(1) In a tax year in which a company is a mining company, section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss) does not apply, and the company is not included in a group of companies for the purposes of the section.

Consolidated groups

(2) A net mining loss of a mining company that is part of a consolidated group is dealt with under this subpart and not subpart ID (Use of tax losses by consolidated groups).

Meaning of net mining loss

(3) For the purposes of this subpart, a net mining loss means that part of a net loss of a mining company, a resident mining operator, or a non-resident mining operator that is described in section IA 7(7) (Restrictions relating to ring-fenced tax losses).

IS 2 Treatment of net losses resulting from certain expenditure

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if a company that is a mining company, or a resident mining operator, or a non-resident mining operator—

(a) has a net mining loss for a tax year as a result of incurring mining exploration expenditure or mining development expenditure in a mining permit area; and

(b) has an amount of net mining loss carried forward to a later tax year.

Using loss balances

(2) The company may subtract the amount of the net mining loss from its net income for the later tax year, even though the continuity of ownership required under section IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward) is broken or is treated as absent under section GB 3 (Arrangements for carrying forward loss balances: companies), but only to the extent set out in subsection (3).

Limit on amount

(3) The amount subtracted under subsection (2) must be no more than the amount that would be the mining company's net income if its only assessable income for the later tax year were from the mining permit area.

Amounts carried forward

(4) If the company cannot use all the net mining loss in the later tax year, the amount is carried forward to later tax years and subsection (2) applies to the remaining balance.

Use against other income

(5) The company may subtract the amount of the net mining loss from its net income that is not attributable to the mining permit area but only after meeting for the whole of the continuity period the requirements set out in sections GB 3 (Arrangements for carrying forward loss balances: companies) and IA 5 (Restrictions on companies' loss balances carried forward). For the purposes of applying section IA 5, the net mining loss is treated as if it were a tax loss component.

IS 3 Holding companies' tax losses

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year if—

(a) a mining company has net income for the tax year after having subtracted an amount of any net mining loss that is carried forward; and

(b) the company and a holding company, which is not a mining company, would be included in a wholly-owned group of companies in the absence of section IS 1(1); and

(c) the holding company has a tax loss for the tax year that it cannot make available under section IC 5 (Company B using company A's tax loss) to another company that is part of the wholly-owned group.

Using tax losses

(2) The mining company may subtract some or all of the amount of the holding company's tax loss from its net income, so far as it extends, for the tax year.

Determining amounts

(3) The amount of the holding company's tax loss is found without taking into account a deduction that the holding company may have under section DU 12 (Amount written off by holding company) for an amount written off a loan from the holding company to the mining company.

Relationship with section IS 1

(4) This section overrides section IS 1(1).

IS 4 Adjustments in certain circumstances

When this section applies

(1) This section applies if, under section IS 3, the amount of a holding company's tax loss for a tax year is subtracted from a mining company's net income for the tax year instead of being carried forward to a later tax year.

Adjustments by Commissioner

(2) If the holding company applies for an adjustment and the Commissioner agrees, the Commissioner may adjust the returns of income of the mining company and the holding company to reflect what is fair in the circumstances. This subsection applies in the tax year in which the holding company has the tax loss referred to in subsection (1), and to any of the 8 tax years following that tax year.

Time for applying to Commissioner

(3) The holding company must apply within 8 tax years after the end of the tax year in which the holding company has the tax loss referred to in subsection (1) or, despite the time bar, by a later date if the Commissioner allows.

IS 5 Petroleum miners' tax losses

When this section applies

(1) This section applies in a tax year in which a petroleum miner with a tax loss for the tax year—

(a) relinquishes a petroleum permit for which they have a deduction under section DT 7 (Exploratory well expenditure); or

(b) incurs expenditure on removal or restoration operations for which they have a deduction under section DT 16 (Removal or restoration operations).

Net losses reduced

(2) The petroleum miner's tax loss is reduced by the amount of the deduction, but only to the extent of the amount of the tax loss. For the reduction in their tax loss, the petroleum miner is allowed a deduction in an earlier tax year for an amount that is equal to the amount of the reduction. The deduction is allocated under section EJ 14 (Spreading deduction backwards).

Petroleum mining activities outside New Zealand

(3) This section applies to a petroleum miner who undertakes petroleum mining activities that are—

(a) outside New Zealand and undertaken through a branch or a controlled foreign company (CFC); and

(b) substantially the same as the petroleum mining activities governed by this Act.

Using tax loss components

(4) A shareholder company may use a tax loss component referred to in section IZ 2(2) (Petroleum mining companies: treatment of payments from shareholders) but only in the way described in section IZ 2(3) to (6).

LJ 5 Calculation of New Zealand tax

What this section does

(1) This section provides the rules that a person must use to calculate the amount of New Zealand tax for an income year in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income of the person that is allocated to the income year.

Calculation for single segment

(2) If the person has a notional income tax liability of more than zero, the amount of New Zealand tax for the income year relating to the allocated segment is calculated using the following formula, the result of which can not be less than zero:

$$\frac{\text{(segment – person's deductions)}}{\text{person's net income}} \times \text{notional liability.}$$

Definition of items in formula

(3) In the formula in subsection (2),—

(a) segment is the amount of the segment of foreign-sourced income for the income year:

(b) person's deductions is the amount of the person's deduction for the tax year corresponding to the income year that is attributable to the segment of foreign-sourced income:

(c) person's net income is the person's net income for the tax year corresponding to the income year under section BD 4(1) to (3) (Net income and net loss):

(d) notional liability is the person's notional income tax liability for the income year under subsection (5).

When subsection (4B) applies

(4) Subsection (4B) applies for the income year when the total amount of New Zealand tax for all segments of foreign-sourced income of the person calculated under subsection (2) is more than the notional income tax liability.

Modification to results of formula for single segment

(4B) Each amount of New Zealand tax calculated under subsection (2) in relation to each segment of foreign-sourced income is adjusted by multiplying the amount by the following ratio:

$$\frac{\text{person's notional income tax liability}}{\text{NZ tax.}}$$

Definition of item in formula

(4C) In the formula in subsection (4B), NZ tax is the amount given by adding together the result of the calculation under subsection (2), for each segment of assessable income from all sources, including assessable income sourced in New Zealand.

Person's notional income tax liability

(5) For the purposes of this section, a person's notional income tax liability for a tax year is calculated using the formula—

(person's net income – losses) × tax rate.

Definition of items in formula

(6) In the formula in subsection (5),—

(a) person's net income is the person's net income for the tax year:

(b) losses—

(i) is the amount of the loss balance carried forward to the tax year that the person must subtract from their net income under section IA 4(1)(a) (Using loss balances carried forward to tax year):

(ii) must be no more than the amount of the person's net income:

(c) tax rate is the basic rate of income tax set out in schedule 1, part A (Basic tax rates: income tax, ESCT, RSCT, RWT, and attributed fringe benefits).

(2) At the time company A stops being part of the wholly-owned group, it may choose to reduce or eliminate the debit balance by paying imputation additional tax of an amount no greater than the debit balance but, in dealing with the liability, it may transfer some or all of the debit balance under subsection (3) or choose to use its excess entitlement under subsection (4), or a combination of both.

Debit balance

(3) Company A may choose to transfer under section OB 44 some or all of a debit balance in the company's imputation credit account to another company (company B) in the same wholly-owned group. An imputation additional tax liability remains for the amount of the debit balance that is not transferred.

Liability arising from excess entitlement

(4) Company A is liable for an amount of imputation additional tax equal to the amount of the excess entitlement described in subsection (5) reduced, to no less than zero, by the amount of any payment that Company A—

(a) made as provisional tax or income tax; and

Payment by excess tax

(8) Company A, or another company in the wholly-owned group, may choose to apply an excess tax payment to satisfy company A's liability.

Form of election

(9) An election under this section must follow the form of an election under section OB 13(5).
