Explanatory memorandum

This memorandum is not part of the determination, but is intended to indicate its general effect.

This determination, which comes into force on 1 July 2010, sets the remuneration, allowances, and expenses of elected local government representatives. The determination applies—

- to the members of the local authorities and community boards that will be incorporated into the new Auckland Council on 1 November 2010, for the period up to 31 October 2010; and
- to the members of all other local authorities and community boards, for the period up to the declaration of the results of the 2010 local body elections.

The determination provides for no general increase in the remuneration of the elected members of 68 local authorities, holding their remuneration at the level established from 1 July 2009. For the remaining 16 local authorities, all of which requested and received no adjustment to elected members' remuneration last year, remuneration has been increased to bring them into line with the former group. This restores fair remuneration relativities across local authorities and provides a fair and consistent basis for consideration by the Remuneration Authority (the Authority) of the remuneration of local government elected members following the 2010 elections.

General background

To meet its statutory obligations, and achieve transparency, fairness, and consistency in remuneration-setting across diverse local authorities, the Authority established a model to assist in determining the cost of governance and representation for each local and regional authority. The model incorporates 4 criteria that are transparent and readily verifiable from published data, namely,—

- population:
- operational expenditure:
- net assets controlled:
- rate of population change.

This provides the Authority with a ranking order of the relative size of the governance and representation responsibility of each local and regional authority.

The model also allows for the incorporation of a general movement in remuneration to help ensure that adjustments to the salaries of elected representatives reflect not only the size of their roles, but also any market movement in remuneration that the Authority considers should be applied to their salaries.

The application of these factors results in a sum of money (the indicative pool) that is notionally attributable to each local and regional authority and from which the remuneration of each elected member will be met.

2009 Determination

The Authority calculated the indicative pools for the 2009 determination in late 2008, at which stage the economy was slowing, but the seriousness and impact of the external financial crisis was not as apparent as it later became. The Authority applied a general remuneration movement of 3%.

The incorporation of this general adjustment and the other 4 factors into the Authority's model generated changes in the indicative remuneration pools for each local and regional authority ranging from an increase of over 8% (atypically for a high-growth council) to negative adjustments in some cases. Where there was a negative movement, the pool was held at the 2008 level.

Councils were then invited to recommend the distribution of the pool for the 2009/10 financial year.

Subsequent to this notification to councils, the Treasury released its post-election financial update. The Government's response to the update emphasised the need for a sustained period of strict control over government expenditure. Part of that response was a call for restraint on movement in remuneration generally, and for senior state sector employees and office-holders. Parliament itself resolved unanimously not to seek any increase in remuneration in 2009/10.

In this context, some councils expressed concerns about increasing the salaries of elected representatives when they also were facing difficult funding choices. The Authority therefore advised all councils in late January 2009 that, where there was unanimous agreement within a council not to increase salaries of elected members, the Authority would consider a recommendation to defer any increases that would otherwise have applied from 1 July 2009.

Councils took a variety of approaches to recommending the allocation of the pool. The overwhelming majority accepted the increase, while 16 councils requested to decline the increase. The 2009 determination of the Authority reflected those decisions and requests.

2010 Determination

2009/10 saw public sector remuneration held or adjusted only marginally, and a strong focus on the restraint of both rate and remuneration increases in local government.

Although economic indicators have improved since the Authority's 2009 decisions on local government remuneration, long-term restraint is still signalled for both local and central government expenditure.

In these circumstances, the Authority does not consider a general increase to the 2009 levels of local government elected members' remuneration is warranted, at least prior to the 2010 local government elections.

This determination therefore incorporates indicative pool totals derived from audited annual accounts for the year ended 30 June 2008 and population figures as at the same date.

Where councils applied the full indicative pool in 2009, those remuneration levels have been carried forward (subject to any minor adjustments made in the past 12 months to reflect structural changes within councils).

The remuneration of elected representatives in those councils where the Authority agreed to their requests that the full indicative pool not be applied has been revisited, and councils have been required to apply the full 2009 indicative pool. This adjusts their remuneration substantively for the first time since 1 July 2008, re-establishes fair remuneration relativities across councils, and reflects the Authority's long-held view that the acceptance, or otherwise, of remuneration adjustments should not become a political issue, particularly in an election period.

Vehicle mileage allowance

The Authority has made no change to the level set for this allowance.

Notes1 *General

This is a reprint of the Local Government Elected Members Determination 2010. The reprint incorporates all the amendments to the determination as at 1 November 2010, as specified in the list of amendments at the end of these notes.

Relevant provisions of any amending enactments that contain transitional, savings, or application provisions that cannot be compiled in the reprint are also included, after the principal enactment, in chronological order. For more information, see <http://www.pco.parliament.govt.nz/reprints/>.

2 Status of reprints

Under section 16D of the Acts and Regulations Publication Act 1989, reprints are presumed to correctly state, as at the date of the reprint, the law enacted by the principal enactment and by the amendments to that enactment. This presumption applies even though editorial changes authorised by section 17C of the Acts and Regulations Publication Act 1989 have been made in the reprint.

This presumption may be rebutted by producing the official volumes of statutes or statutory regulations in which the principal enactment and its amendments are contained.

3 How reprints are prepared

A number of editorial conventions are followed in the preparation of reprints. For example, the enacting words are not included in Acts, and provisions that are repealed or revoked are omitted. For a detailed list of the editorial conventions, see <http://www.pco.parliament.govt.nz/editorial-conventions/> or Part 8 of the Tables of New Zealand Acts and Ordinances and Statutory Regulations and Deemed Regulations in Force.

4 Changes made under section 17C of the Acts and Regulations Publication Act 1989

Section 17C of the Acts and Regulations Publication Act 1989 authorises the making of editorial changes in a reprint as set out in sections 17D and 17E of that Act so that, to the extent permitted, the format and style of the reprinted enactment is consistent with current legislative drafting practice. Changes that would alter the effect of the legislation are not permitted. A new format of legislation was introduced on 1 January 2000. Changes to legislative drafting style have also been made since 1997, and are ongoing. To the extent permitted by section 17C of the Acts and Regulations Publication Act 1989, all legislation reprinted after 1 January 2000 is in the new format for legislation and reflects current drafting practice at the time of the reprint.

In outline, the editorial changes made in reprints under the authority of section 17C of the Acts and Regulations Publication Act 1989 are set out below, and they have been applied, where relevant, in the preparation of this reprint:

- omission of unnecessary referential words (such as “of this section” and “of this Act”)
- typeface and type size (Times Roman, generally in 11.5 point)
- layout of provisions, including:
 - indentation
 - position of section headings (eg, the number and heading now appear above the section)
- format of definitions (eg, the defined term now appears in bold type, without quotation marks)
- format of dates (eg, a date formerly expressed as “the 1st day of January 1999” is now expressed as “1 January 1999”)

- position of the date of assent (it now appears on the front page of each Act)
- punctuation (eg, colons are not used after definitions)
- Parts numbered with roman numerals are replaced with arabic numerals, and all cross-references are changed accordingly
- case and appearance of letters and words, including:
 - format of headings (eg, headings where each word formerly appeared with an initial capital letter followed by small capital letters are amended so that the heading appears in bold, with only the first word (and any proper nouns) appearing with an initial capital letter)
 - small capital letters in section and subsection references are now capital letters
- schedules are renumbered (eg, Schedule 1 replaces First Schedule), and all cross-references are changed accordingly
- running heads (the information that appears at the top of each page)
- format of two-column schedules of consequential amendments, and schedules of repeals (eg, they are rearranged into alphabetical order, rather than chronological).
